THE TORONTO WORLD RAVES

If the Toronto Daily World should grow a trifle more rabid in its rantings against England and the United States, it will be in need of a straight jacket.

Through some peculiar process of reasoning it has discovered that the existing cordial feeling between the United States and Great Britain is a dark conspiracy against the Dominion of Canada. Listen to some of its rant:

"Has the annexation of Canada been suggested as the grand climax of the Anglo American entente? We would not be surprised to learn the fact. Are we to remain passive and allow Great Britain and the United States to settle our destiny as they please? If Great Britain is prepared to place Canada under the guardianship of the United States, would it not be prudent on our part to advocate annexation pure and simple? Annexation would at least involve nothing dishonorable, Canada would escape the wrath to come, but how about Great Britain?"

Having thus dilated on the horrible thought of forcible annexation, the World proceeds to point the moral and adorn its awful tale. A political or partisan climax was expected by the intelligent reader, and that expectation is borne out. The World is after the scalp of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the Canadian premier, and concludes its jeremiad with a vicious lunge:

"And woe betide any political party in this country, or any politician who would surrender any of our positions. Neither Sir Wilfrid Laurier nor any other man can seek refuge under Lord Herschell's robe. Any kind of national concessions for an ephemeral trade advantage would be regarded by Canadians as suicidal. Canadians are not contemplating national suicide at this great juncture."

And thus the cat jumps out of the bag.

New York Tribune: Senator Faulkner is another who has been classed as an anti expansionist. He is still opposed to expansion. But he will vote for the ratification of the treaty of peace. He sees what others of the anti-expansionists appear not to see, that the treaty does not irrevocably fix every detail of our national destiny for all-time to come. It closes the issues of the war and it opens the vast opportunities of peace. That is all. The rest is left to congress—that is, to the American people. It is for the nation to determine, after ratification, what it will do with the Philippines. "The treaty does not settle that question. It merely takes the islands from Spain and puts them under our control, and that is something it had to do, unless this nation was to be branded with bad faith and wanton inhumanity such as it would be difficult to find paralleled in history.

The attorneys for Mrs. Botkin are hanging their chief hope on the issue of jurisdiction which they will raise against the court in which the prisoner was convicted. The woman was tried under the criminal code of California which covers crimes committed in whole or in part in that state, and her lawyers raise the quibbling point that the crime for which she was tried was committed in another state. This is flippant. If a murderer standing on the California side of the line should fire a rifle and kill a man standing just across the line in Oregon, it would not be contended that the crime was not committed in part in California. In the Botkin case the crime was really committed entirely in California, although the consequences developed in another state. The malignant deed was conceived and executed in California. There the evil minded woman was tried, and there she should suffer the penalty.—Spokesman Review.
