DISASTER IN TACOMA HARBOR

Not a Man on Board Escaped to Tell the Tale of the Wreck.

SEVENTEEN MEN DROWNED

Disaster Occurs During the Prevalence of the Worst Blow Ever Known There—Direct Cause the Breaking Loose of One of the Boom Logs Between Which the Vessel Was Moored—Sunk in More Than Twenty Fathoms of Water.

TACOMA, Jan. 14.—During a heavy storm early this morning the British ship Andalana was caught by a squall and capsized in the harbor, sinking in twenty-two fathoms of water. The accident occurred some time between the hours of 2 and 4 o'clock, but was not discovered until daylight.

All on board were drowned. The crew, in command of Captain G. W. Stailing, consisted of twenty-eight men all told. Eleven of these had been discharged yesterday, thus leaving the captain and seventeen men to perish in the waves a few hundred yards from land.

The disaster is one of the most melancholy ever recorded, and of much similarity to that which befell the British ship Blairmore in the harbor of San Francisco about four years ago, of which the details are still fresh in the minds of the public.

The Andalana arrived on the Sound from Shanghai December 28th, in ballast. She was under charter to Eppinger & Co., to load wheat for the United Kingdom, and four days ago was towed into the harbor at Tacoma and moored to a ballast buoy to have her hold cleared for the cargo.

This was accomplished last evening, and it was the intention to have the vessel shifted to the dock this morning when the loading would have been commenced.

As is usual when a vessel is lying light on open water, ballast logs had been made fast on either side to prevent any accident should a blow occur.

Late last night a strong wind commenced sweeping over the bay and it steadily grew in fierceness until during the early part of this morning it had attained a velocity of seventy miles an hour. It was a living gale bordering on a hurricane.

Although the ship was under bare poles, her high sides and lofty rigging caught the wind so much that the chains fastening the ballast logs to the ship's side snapped. Thus without any support the vessel could not withstand the terrific squalls, but careened over to her beam ends. As the ship was to have commenced taking cargo this morning the hatches had been left open, thus allowing the water to pour into the hold in large volumes. What took place on board the ship from the time she capsized until she went to the bottom of course is not known, as not one of those on board remains to tell the tale, but the general opinion is that all the men were drowned in their bunks. It is estimated that the ship sank within 15 minutes after capsizing.

As soon as the accident had been discovered tugs steamed up and rushed out in search of possible survivors. A lifeboat and much wreckage has come ashore and tugs are now searching Commencement bay for rafts, boats and dead bodies.

The Andalana was a four-masted iron bark of 2305 tons net register, was built in Wilkeson, Nova Scotia, in 1889, and is owned by E. F. & W. Roberts. She was a first class vessel, and valued at about $100,000.

Captain G. W. Stailing hails from Annapolis, Nova Scotia, where he leaves a wife and three children. The names of the officers and crew are not known.

The storm which swept over the bay last night is the most violent yet recorded in this section. Reports from neighboring points on the sound give the velocity of the wind at 70 miles per hour. At this place it is blowing at the rate of 38 miles per hour today.

NELSON DINGLEY PASSES AWAY

Heartfailure the Cause, Resulting From Pneumonia.

IN CONGRESS MANY YEARS

Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, and Leader of the Republicans in the House.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—Hon. Nelson Dingley, of Maine, leader of the Republican side on the floor of the house of representatives, died here tonight at 10:30 o'clock, of heart failure, resulting from extreme weakness due to pneumonia. He was unconscious during most of the day, and death came quietly, without consciousness being regained. All the members of his family were at his bedside. To within a few hours before his death, the family firmly believed as it had throughout his illness, that he would recover. While the past few days have given great hopes of recovery, the progress of the disease had made the patient so dangerously weak, and had seriously affected his heart. Late last night and again this morning, Mr. Dingley had another sinking spell, from which he slightly recovered. There were further evidences of heart failure as the day progressed, and the greatest stimulants were administered without effect. He failed perceptibly during the day and as night approached hope was abandoned. Mrs. Dingley is very much prostrated by her husband's death and she is now under the care of a physician.

Mr. Dingley had spent all of the last sixteen years of his life, when his congressional duties called him to Washington, at the Hamilton House. He occupied rooms on the second floor and had with him his wife and daughter, the sons being here but little.

Representative Dingley's illness dated back to December 19th. The physicians diagnosed his case as one of grip, so commonly prevailing here, and cautioned the patient to keep his room. The following Saturday, pneumonia developed in the left lung, complicated with the irregularity of the heart.

The funeral will be conducted in the house of representatives on Monday next. The body will be taken to the house at 6 o'clock, and there lie in state until noon, when the service will be conducted in the presence of the senate and house. At 4:20 in the afternoon the funeral party will leave for Lewiston, Me., arriving there at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

CATARRH OF THE STOMACH

A Pleasant, Simple but Safe and Effective Cure For It.

Catarrh of the stomach has long been considered the next thing to incurable. The usual symptoms are a full or bloating sensation after eating, accompanied sometimes with sour or watery risings, a formation of gases, causing pressure on the heart and lungs and difficult breathing, headaches, fickle appetite, nervousness and a general played out, languid feeling.

There is often a foul taste in the mouth, coated tongue and if the interior of the stomach could be seen it would show a slimy, inflamed condition.

The cure for this common and obstinate trouble is found in a treatment which causes the food to be readily, or thoroughly digested before it has time to ferment and irritate the delicate surface of the stomach. To secure a prompt and healthy digestion is the one necessary thing to do and when normal digestion is secured the catarrhal condition will have disappeared.

According to Dr. Harlanston the safest and best treatment is to use after each meal a tablet composed of Diastase, Aseptic Pepsin, a little Nux, Golden Seal and fruit acids. These tablets can now be found at all drug stores under the name of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and not being a patent medicine can be used with perfect safety and assurance that healthy appetite and thorough digestion will follow their regular use after meals.

Mr. N. L. Booher, of 2710 Dearborn st., Chicago, Ill., writes: "Catarrh is a local condition resulting from a neglected cold in the head, whereby the lining membrane of the nose becomes inflamed and the poisonous discharge therefrom passing backward into the throat reaches the stomach, thus producing catarrh of the stomach. Medical authorities prescribed for me for three years for catarrh of stomach without cure, but today I am the happiest of men after using only one box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. I cannot find appropriate words to express my good feeling. I have found fresh, appetite and sound rest from their use."

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is the safest preparation as well as the very simplest and most convenient remedy for any form of indigestion, catarrh of stomach, biliousness, sour stomach, heartburn and bloating after meals. Send for little book, mailed free on stomach troubles, by addressing Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich. The tablets can be found at all drug stores.

A Narrow Escape.

Thankful words written by Mrs. Ada E. Hart, of Groton, S. D.: "Was taken with a bad cold which settled on my lungs; cough set in and finally terminated in consumption. Four doctors gave me up, saying I could live but a short time. I gave myself up to my Savior, determined if I could not stay with my friends on earth, I would meet my absent ones above. My husband was advised to get Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs and colds. I gave it a trial, took in all eight bottles. It has cured me, and thank God, I am saved and now a well and healthy woman." Trial bottles free at Blakeley & Houghton's drug store. Regular size 50c and $1. Guaranteed or price refunded.
