A MERITORIOUS PRODUCTION.

The Dalles Club Minstrels Play to a Crowded House—Many Words of Praise in their Behalf.

More than the unexpected happened Saturday evening when The Dalles Club Minstrels presented their show to the public. The production has been looked forward to for some time as one of the events of the season and a more happily surprised audience could not have been. The boys acquitted themselves in a manner that showed they were far superior to many traveling troupes that visit our city and by coming before the public more frequently would undoubtedly become artists in their respective lines. The Vogt opera house was crowded and it is estimated there were four hundred and fifty people present. This is nothing more than a show of appreciation which is right and proper, for no matter when called upon, by whom or for what purpose, the "boys" have always lent a helping hand.

At 8:40 when the curtain arose and showed the entire company on the stage they were greeted with rounds of applause. After the opening overture the first thing announced on the program by the interlocutor, N. J. Sinnott, was the comic song, "Mr. Johnson Don't Get Gay," by J. F. Hampshire, who acquitted himself in his usual fascinating way. Next was a bass solo by William Frank, who, indeed, has a fine voice and without doubt will be a singer of some note. Arthur Clark followed with a comic song entitled "I Don't Care if You Nebber Come Back" and was well received. That beautiful song, "She Was Bred in Old Kentucky," was then rendered by Chas. Clarke in his sweet voice, and brought down a storm of applause. He very gracefully responded to an encore and sang "Just One Girl," and when through was greeted with rounds of applause. W. C. Croesen sang "My Ann Elizer" and made a great hit. This ended the first part, but between songs the end men, who were Hollister, Croesen, Hampshire and Arthur Clarke, made some very clever local hits, which were appreciated for their originality and appropriateness.

The second part opened with a duet by Hazel Waud and Lela Kelsey, entitled "How I Love My Lu." They were warmly received, but when they finished the house simply went wild with applause. For such young children they did better than was expected, in fact it was one of the best numbers on the program. The "Quaker City Quartette," composed of W. Barrett, F. Snipes, C. Heppner and Wm. Erank, then appeared on the stage and sang several selections which pleased the audience greatly and was all that could be desired. The famous "Lorenzo Brothers" locally known as Carey Ballard and Claud Kelsey were the next attraction, and from their first appearance on the stage had the entire attention of the audience. Their tumbling, jumping, somersaults, and feats in this line was well worth the price of admission alone.

The Legerdemain act by Messrs. Dawson and Heroux was one that held everyone in suspense for one trick so closely followed by another required the utmost attention. It will be but a short time until Mr. Dawson will rival the famous Hermann.

A clever character sketch by Messrs. Crossen and Frank "The Warmest Babies in Coon Town" is especially deserving of mention. They acquitted themselves gracefully and were perfectly at ease while on the stage. Their tarce tragedy was cleverly executed and was warmly applauded, which showed that the audience more than appreciated their efforts.

J. F. Hampshire and Arthur Clarke in their original sketch "Life in Alabam" were superior to any time they have yet appeared before a Dalles house. They are always good but this was the time they excelled themselves. In the first of their sketch they took the part of an old couple and sang an old time song, and then Mr. Clark in a lightning change appeared as a dandy and amused the audience with a monologue for a few minutes until Mr. Hampshire, the female impersonator, put in an appearance when they sang several songs in their usual pleasing way, receiving rounds of applause, and as an encore did some very pretty dancing, introducing many new and difficult steps.

The cake walk, which was the grand finale of the play was one of the best ever produced in the city. It is thought by some had the "walkers" partaken in the grand cake walk given at the Irish fair in Portland Friday, our "coons" would have surely carried away the prize. Fred Van Norden, in an excellent and easy manner, as master of ceremonies, introduced the couples and led the way. The first to appear were the little girls, Hazel Waud in full dress costume with Lela Kelsey on her arm. They did very creditably and held the audience in a spell for no more graceful couple were seen on the stage. Messrs. Crossen and Barrett then came upon the scene and from the applause they received one would have thought the cake was theirs. Next came Messrs. Parkins and Heroux and executed some very pretty steps and were awarded several rounds of applause. Messrs. Snipes and Heppner appeared in very pretty costumes and with grace and cleverness gave the spectators one of the prettiest dances of the evening. They were followed by Messrs. Frank and Gifford and from the moment of their entrance were given repeated applause. Their make-up was exceedingly good and they did more than justice to themselves. Last, but not least, were the stars of the evening, Messrs. Clarke and Hampshire, who executed a most difficult dance and were received with a most cordial greeting. After the grand march the contestants lined up and as the cake was presented before each couple they were given repeated applause. The last in line were the little Misses Kelsey and Waud and when the cake was placed before them he building fairly shook with the applause by the audience. As announced on the program the couple receiving the most applause was to be awarded the cake, so the last named couple was the successful one.

The Krupps and Their Big Plant at Essen.

Energy and Enterprise Achieve Unsurpassed Success—Facts About the Enormous Establishment.

The city of Essen is located in the center of a hilly valley, which abounds in coal and iron ore, and the digging for both and the melting of the ore and casting the metal into ingots and rolling it into bars have been the occupations of the inhabitants for centuries past. Frederick Krupp, the founder of the great works bearing his name, was born in 1787, and when crucible cast steel was first being introduced in England, and its importation from there into Germany had been made impossible through the edict of Napoleon called "the continental-sperre," F. Krupp began to produce crucible cast steel, first in small quantities for files, stamps, rolls for coins and shears, and only slowly could he convince and persuade German manufacturers to use his cast steel, and after a life full of disappointments and hardships he died in 1826, after a long and severe illness, leaving to his son Alfred little else than the old homestead, which still stands in the midst of the great works, and the secret of his invention.

Alfred Krupp's energy and enterprise soon conquered. His first success was to be able to furnish cast steel of a varying degree of hardness, thereby increasing its adaptability for many new purposes. Next came the invention of the welder's car wheel tires, which were patented in 1853 in all countries and furnished him capital for enlarging his plant. In 1865 he interested himself in coal mines, iron ore mines and furnaces, which should furnish the material for his own works, and in 1867 he began to reap the harvest from his experiments inaugurated long since with steel cannons, and the great Franco-German war of 1870-71 proved beyond doubt their superiority as against the old bronze cannons. Since then the success of these works and their growth have been phenomenal, and when Alfred Krupp closed the busy and successful and philanthropic work of his life in 1887 at Villa Hugel, his princely home on the side hills of the valley of the Ruhr, the city of Essen, in recognition of his great work, erected in his memory a beautiful monument on the most prominent square of the city, and deputations from many nations mourned at his grave.

Essen is a city of 95,000 inhabitants, and over 20,000 of this population are employed in the works of the able and energetic son of Alfred Krupp—Frederich Alfred. Over 1,200 acres of ground are covered with buildings and machinery. Many coal mines furnish fuel for the works, over 400 iron ore mines furnish the metal, and large iron ore deposits in Spain, near Bilbao, have been purchased in addition, and a special fleet of steamers has been built which bring over 300,000 tons of this Spanish iron ore from Spain to the German coast and up the Rhine. Twenty furnaces at Duisburg and Neuwied-on-the-Rhine are reducing this ore for the Krupp works and are owned or controlled by them.

The main street of Essen divides the Krupp works into two parts, connected overhead with innumerable mammoth steam pipes and bridges, and parallel with it, running east and west, the tracks of the Rhenish railway pass the works in the north, while in the south the railroad leading from Dusseldorf to Bremen, Hamburg and Berlin skirts the mill. Innumerable tracks connect these two main lines of railroad, surrounding in an inextricable network the buildings and crossing the street leading to Muehlheim below its level. Powerful locomotives bring train loads of raw material into the yards and leave the works with valuable products, finished and ready for shipment to all parts of the globe. Miniature engines and cars move about between the buildings on narrow-gauge tracks, bringing material of smaller size from one building to another until it is finished and ready for the market.—Iron Age.
