To Whom It May Concern:—I have this day disposed of the dental office heretofore occupied by me, to Dr. G. E. Sanders, who will continue the same in the rooms formerly occupied by me in the Chapman block, The Dalles, Oregon. I take pleasure in recommending Dr. Sanders to all my old friends and patrons and ask for him a continuous of the liberal patronage heretofore given me.

No Right to Ugliness.

The woman who is lovely in face, form and temper will always have friends, but one who would be attractive must keep her health. If she is weak, sickly and all run down, she will be nervous and irritable. If she has constipation or kidney trouble, her impure blood will cause pimples, blotches, skin eruptions and a wretched complexion. Electric Bitters is the best medicine in the world to regulate the stomach, liver and kidneys and to purify the blood. It gives strong nerves, bright eyes, smooth, velvety skin, rich complexion. It will make a good looking, charming woman of a run-down invalid. Only 50 cents at Blakeley & Houghton's drug store.

For the past week there have been two men advertising and introducing a new kind of soap among our citizens. It is known as Blue Mountain toilet soap. The above named soap is made from the product of a mineral soap mine located in Eastern Oregon, and is without a doubt the best five cent soap on the market. It is put up by the Columbia Star Manufacturing Company of Portland. Their Sunshine scouring soap is without an equal for cleaning or scouring of whatever nature, and is harmless to the skin, as it contains no acids. For sale by all up-to-date grocers. Ask your dealer for it.

CAMPAIGN TO BE LAUNCHED

Otis and Dewey Instructed to Push Forward and Fight Philippine Insurgents Wherever Found.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—It is understood the campaign against the Filipino insurgents is to be prosecuted with vigor. The question was fully discussed at today's cabinet meeting, and the conclusion was reached that before permanent peace or security to life and property could be secured Aguineldo's forces must lay down their arms, and it is expected Otis, in co-operation with Dewey, will push forward at once and give the insurgents no chance to recover from the defeat of last Sunday.

So far as can be learned no positive instructions have yet been cabled to our commanders at Manila, but it is the expression of the members of the administration, presumably based on cable advices from Manila, that this course will be pursued.

Ilo Ilo is to be occupied at once by the American naval forces, and it is expected Otis will move immediately to Malolos, the insurgent capital, and capture or disperse the so-called Filipino government.

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—A dispatch to the Herald from Washington says: Instructions have been sent to Major-General Otis today directing him to communicate to the insurgents the information that the treaty of Paris had been ratified by the senate and to continue his operations against them so as to promptly crush the revolt against American sovereignty.

The cruiser Boston, which left Manila on Monday for Ilo Ilo, ostensibly to relieve the Baltimore, carried with her instructions to Brigadier-General Miller to at once occupy Ilo Ilo with or without consent of the natives there.

In adopting such a vigorous policy against the insurgents the president is actuated by a desire to bring to an end with all dispatch the rebellious movement Aguineldo has started against the government. It was determined upon as the result of the conference in the executive mansion today, which was participated in by the president, Secretary Alger and Secretary Long.

THEY ARE DANGEROUS GUNS.

The New Hunting Rifles a Menace to Human Life.

They Throw a Bullet So Far They Is No Telling What Damage They May Do—Narrow Escapes.

When one comes to discuss rifles, range and the average distance at which game is shot one is likely to strike contradictory opinions. A prominent hunter, in speaking recently of the great effectiveness of the American rifle, said that in his experience elk, moose, bears and white-tailed deer were most generally killed within a range of 175 yards, and that this was so because they were apt to be discovered within this distance, not because of any lack of carrying power in the rifle. When this statement is contrasted with the prospectus of the latest rifle, which has a first sight of 250 yards, a flat trajectory and a maximum range of 2,300 yards, what is the average hunter to think?

Of one thing there is no room for doubt, and that is that this year many people are preparing to go to the woods deer shooting, and will take with them the new rifle. Its wonderful range and penetration are due to the new smokeless powder employed in conjunction with a bullet sheathed in copper so as to present a harder surface to the rifling than lead. This projectile is forced through a barrel from 20 to 24 inches long, the rifling of which has about one turn to every eight inches. The great objection raised by experienced hunters to such an arm as this is that with the long range one never knows where the bullet is likely to bring up once it has left the gun. A few years ago a hunter fired at a deer at a distance of 183 yards as measured after death. The animal was standing at the foot of a slight bluff of loamy sand in which not a stone or rock was to be seen. The rifle was fired and the deer fell, the bullet having gone clear through the heart and missing the ribs on both sides. Immediately after a hail was heard from a point about 200 yards back of the shooter, and an angry man was heard asking where in thunder they were shooting, as the bullet had just skimmed over his head. A close examination showed graze and leaf holes above the heads of the other party of hunters, and it would seem that the bullet had traversed two sides of a triangle, from the rifle to the quarry, and back from the quarry to the other base corner of the triangle. If such a thing is possible with an ordinary rifle sighted to 100, 150, 300 and 500 yards, what would be the possible result with the copper-sheathed bullet, low trajectory and 2,300-yard range in a wooded district?

In still another case a well-known hunting writer from the west now residing in New York chanced upon a moose feeding about 200 yards away, and with the idea of taking the second shot himself, told his companion, an amateur, to try the first shot. The bullet was seen to strike the ground nearly four feet in front of and about six feet short of the moose. When an examination was made it was found that there had been two moose feeding within a hundred yards of each other, and that on the trail of the far one was blood. Following the trail, the moose was eventually bagged, and it was found that the bullet had entered at the lower side of the stomach and was lodged in the fat of the hump, showing clearly that the animal had been hit by the ricocheting missile. An examination of the spot where the turf flew showed a flat piece of rock an inch or so under the surface which the bullet had hit and glanced from. Many similar stories might be related of the vagaries of glancing bullets, and the possible dangers are making a number of hunters very chary of going out with these new rifles, which, whatever advantages they may have in other places, are not believed to be suitable for deer shooting in the eastern states. Apparently English sportsmen are also entertaining similar fears, for a prominent big game shot recently advocated a restriction in the matter of the rifling.

Both English and American hunters appear to hold the idea that the wound inflicted by the metal-sheathed bullet fired from the exceedingly long-range rifle is not of the type best calculated to stop the game, but that the bullet will rather pass completely through the body without shattering opposing bones or tearing a large hole in the softer opposing substances, so that if the animal be not hit in the brain or heart it may travel a long way off before loss of blood brings it down. The experience of most hunters is in favor of a 45-caliber bullet composed of one part tin and 40 of lead, weighing 350 grains and propelled by from 90 to 100 grains of good black powder. This bullet will not have the same ricocheting power as the other.—N. Y. Sun.

CATCHING CONDORS.

A Prize Upon the Ferocious Birds in Chili.

Chili offers a bounty for condor heads, and an American in that country has made from $700 to $800 a month killing this bird of prey. One month he got a warrant for $1,090. Condors steal sheep and calves. He writes, says the Chicago Chronicle:

"How did we capture these ferocious birds? Our first job every morning before we had even a peep of sunlight over the mountains was to carry the carcass of a dead animal—a horse or a cow—out on the plain, where it could easily be seen from all points of the compass. We sometimes made a carcass do service for a fortnight, but it required a strong stomach and indifference to stench. We moved about every few days from one locality to another, and never put the rotting body twice in the same place, because of the extreme suspiciousness of an average condor. Generally we would move three or four miles every 24 hours.

"After we had placed our bait carcass we set up our tents and the canvas flies that concealed us and our horses from the view of the condors. Breakfast was no sooner over than we could see from the peepholes in the canvas that hid us several condors coming down through the clouds from the mountain crest straight toward our bait. When the birds had eaten heartily we sprang to our horses, which stood near, bridled and saddled, ready for the chase. When a condor has gorged itself with food it cannot rise without running to give itself momentum. An expert lassoo could send his rope over a condor's head and so manage it that it was slipped down until it touched the shoulders of the wings before it would be tightened on the bird. Then the rider would turn the horse about and lead the chase himself, forcing the unwilling bird along until tumbled, spent, to the ground, and was dragged to death at the horse's heels."

Mr. S. A. Fackler, editor of the Micanopy (Fla.) Hustler, with his wife and children, suffered terribly from La Grippe. One Minute Cough Cure was the only remedy that helped them. It acted quickly. Thousands of others use this remedy as a specific for La Grippe, and its exhausting after effects. Never fails. Snipes-Kinersly Drug Co.

La Grippe is again epidemic. Every precaution should be taken to avoid it. Its specific cure is One Minute Cough Cure. A. J. Shepard, publisher Agricultural Journal and Advertiser, Eldon, Mo., says: "No one will be disappointed in using One Minute Cough Cure for La Grippe." Pleasant to take, quick to act.
