WAYSIDE GLEANINGS.

Word has been received from Mr. S. French saying that they arrived in New York City Saturday afternoon, and that Dr. Gertrude stood the trip remarkably well.

W. S. Geary, the piano tuner, will be in The Dalles the first week in March. Orders left at either Jacobsen's or Nickelsen's will receive prompt attention.

A Portland paper says the ice is fast breaking up in the Columbia at The Dalles. No doubt it is, but the break is not yet visible. From appearances it is about as strong as ever, and people are today crossing on the ice, although it seems a little risky.

Last night might have been termed two-step night at Smith's dancing club, as that seemed to be the favorite dance. An unusually large crowd attended, and a sociable, good time was enjoyed. Next Saturday evening the customary soiree will be held at the Baldwin opera house.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph McKee, of Long Beach, while in Portland Wednesday, received the sad intelligence of the death of their 18-year-old son, Ernest McKee. Ernest was out skating on the lake back of Ilwaco, when the ice gave way and he drowned before assistance could reach him.

A large number were present at a meeting of Columbia Hose Co., No. 2, last evening, and an interesting hour was spent. Three new members were taken in on this occasion—Frank French, Jay P. Lucas and Bert Baldwin. Officers were elected as follows: President, Max A. Vogt; foreman, Grant Mays; first asst., W. A. Johnston; second asst., Ernest Jensen; secretary, C. E. Dawson; treasurer, J. F. Hampshire; board of delegates—H. A. Falk, C. E. Dawson and Bert Lynch.

This morning the home circle of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Williams, who live on Ninth street, was broken, and a bright little daughter of 11 years taken to her home on the other shore. The family moved to this city from Salem in November, and while Ethel was not in the best of health, she was not seriously ill, and started to school, being a pupil in Miss Martin's room and a bright child. About a week ago she was taken with grip, which developed into typhoid pneumonia, and resulted in her death. Her father, who was at work in Dayton, was telegraphed for and arrived home a day or two ago. The funeral will take place from the family residence, on Ninth street, tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Mr. Sam E. Van Vactor, a well known attorney, of The Dalles, was in town last Saturday looking over the field with a view to locating here in the practice of his profession. After meeting most of the business men and looking over the situation carefully, he was so favorably impressed with the outlook as to decide to close up his business at The Dalles at the earliest possible moment and move his family to Condon. Mr. Van Vactor has secured office rooms in the Downing building, on Spring street, and expected on his return to The Dalles to secure a lease on the J. W. Blake residence, on south Main, now occupied by D. S. Brown. He expects to bring his family here in about two weeks.

At a meeting of the board of directors of the Commercial Club last night, beside the regular routine business a number of important questions regarding the interest of the club were discussed, but no definite line of action was determined upon, and they will be brought up at a meeting to be called soon. Three new members were admitted last night. During the evening an application was presented from the ladies requesting that they be admitted to the bowling alleys Wednesday nights, as they desired time for extra practice. The request was at once granted, and for a month they will be allowed to use the alleys on that night in conjunction with the members. The Commercial Club has been particularly generous to its lady friends, who greatly appreciate their kindness.

Every winter brings with it the needy, and renewed obligations for those who are blessed with health and plenty. This year is not an exception, and the various benevolent societies of our city have found many families who are in need of assistance. Last Sunday two of the four boys spoken of last week, were taken to the Boys' and Girls' Aid Society by Mr. Gardiner; one is now being cared for by Mrs. Smith, at the Farmers' Hotel, and the other was sent to the poor farm with his mother. The Mercy and Help department of the Epworth League are now engaged in assisting a widow lady, Mrs. Whirley, who is very ill and has three children to care for, the youngest being 11 months old. Yesterday Sam Thurman became interested and soliciting help for them, a number of necessary articles were provided. This is a noble work which all can assist in, and each individual should do all in their power to alleviate the sufferings of others.

FRANK ABERNETHY DEAD.

After An Illness of Several Years He Dies in Portland.

Having been aware of the fact that Frank Abernethy could not survive many days longer, the telegram from Portland announcing his death at St. Vincent Hospital at 5 o'clock last evening, did not surprise his friends, who not only for days, but years have known that his life could not be of long duration.

Few residents were better known than Frank, who has lived in The Dalles, with the exception of a few years, for about twenty years, and before his health failed, occupied positions of prominence and trust, being one of the brightest young men that ever came to this city, and the most popular in business as well as social circles.

He was born in the state of Maine, and came to this coast with his parents when but a boy, settling on a farm at Oak Point, on the lower Columbia. Most of his education was obtained at Willamette University in Salem. Finishing school there, he spent a short time assisting his father about the home, but finally went to Tacoma. Coming to this place from there in '78 or '79, he accepted a position as ticket agent for the O. S. N. Co. when J. S. Schenck was agent for that company; afterward acting as commissary under H. M. Beall.

When O. N. Thornbury became receiver of the land office, he took a position as clerk, and at the close of his term, was appointed swamp land agent, afterward being employed as book keeper in Kinnersly's drug store. Later he left this city for Roseland, where he was cashier in Snipes' bank, and in the bank hold-up in '93 received a blow from which it is thought he never fully recovered. When the bank failed in 1894 he returned to The Dalles, where he has since remained.

About that time his health began to fail, and he was unfit for any labor or duties which required mental strain. While his friends did all in their power for him, his seemed a hopeless case, and just a week ago yesterday he was taken to the hospital in Portland; but efforts in his behalf were futile, and he will be brought to this city this afternoon a corpse, his death being caused by cirrhosis of the liver.

As near as can be ascertained Frank A. Abernethy was 44 years of age, and his parents having died some years ago, his remaining relatives are a sister, Mrs. Margaret Brewer, of Oakland, Calif.; a half-sister, Mrs. Berry, of Astoria; two brothers, George Abernethy, of Knappe, Or., and Alexander Abernethy, of Seattle, and an uncle, W. H. Harris, of Portland. He was also a nephew of Gov. Abernethy, Oregon's first governor.

He was a leading and faithful Mason, being a Knight Templar and a Shriner, and this order will have charge of his remains. Definite arrangements have not as yet been made for the funeral, which will probably take place Sunday afternoon.

China New Year.

The China New Year celebration is now in full blast, in more than onesense of the word, although but one fight is recorded. The celebration is generally continued for ten days. The first day is never made the occasion of any great demonstration, such as the continued firing of crackers, but this feature will be observed in a day or two in proper style. Chinese custom makes it necessary for a person to settle all his debts on or before the first day of the new year, and he who fails to do so is considered disgraced. All individual antipathy ceases and deadly enemies bury the hatchet and drink from the same bowl. In some ways the Chinese superstitions are very much the same as those of the Americans. The Chinese, for instance, will do anything in their power to arrange matters so that they will receive a certain amount of money on New Year's day, which signifies exceedingly good fortune in the coming year. The English-speaking people are superstitious in this respect. An odd Chinese custom is for grown boys and men to give money to small boys, wishing them at the same time, a prosperous career, while the small boy no sooner receives the money than he sneaks to a back alley and spends an hour or two in making the Celestial's life miserable by throwing rocks at him or his dwelling.

These people should be allowed to enjoy their holidays in peaceful celebration, so long as they interfere with the rights of no one, and hoodlums who molest them should be punished in a manner they will not soon forget.

Had a Close Call.

Tuesday evening last, Harry Hansberry, the mail carrier to White Salmon, and John McCoy and Charley Morse had a narrow escape from losing their lives in crossing the Columbia to this side. They were in a small boat and the east wind was blowing a gale. The river was full of slush ice and it would have been hard work to have made any headway through it without wind. The waves were rolling high and the boat kept dipping water faster than Mr. McCoy could bail it out. The waves and spray dashed all over them, freezing to their clothing and covering them with a glare of ice.

When about two-thirds of the way across the river they halloed to the Indians on this side, who went out in a good strong boat and rescued them. Mr. McCoy says they could not have held out more than ten or fifteen minutes longer as they were almost ice-buried with the cold.

Mr. Hansberry brought his mail boat in alone and had five inches of water in it when he landed. It was an experience which none of them care to encounter again.—Glacier.

Should Raise More Hay.

"If the stockraisers and farmers of Eastern Oregon, Washington and Idaho would raise more hay they would get along better," said J. C. Davis, of Idaho, who has been in Portland for a few days. "The stockmen of our country appear to think that each winter is to be a mild one, and few of them make any preparation for feeding for any length of time. When a cold, snowy winter like this one has been comes along, feed becomes scarce, hay goes to $30 and $40 a ton and hundreds of cattle perish. All of this could be avoided by each man raising enough feed for his own use. Should the winter be mild he could always sell his hay for what it cost him. It seems they prefer to take the chance, and this year is teaching them a lesson. Many head of cattle have already suffered, and hundreds will perish before spring if the snow remains on the ground, frozen as it is."

At Salem Today.

STATE HOUSE, Salem, Feb. 10.—The joint assembly meets on the evening of the fourteenth for the purpose of electing a boatman for the port of Astoria, a state librarian and dairy commissioners. The appropriation bill has been referred to the committee on ways and means.

A veto which killed the dental bill has been reconsidered and the measure passed the house.

The Drain school bill has passed both house and senate.

Bills compelling the use of broad tired wagons and prohibiting the driving of stock on foot-paths bordering public highways, have passed.

The morning was consumed in discussing the arid land bill.
