Lee K. Morse's Death.

About two years ago Lee K. Morse, of Portland, who was recently killed in Manila, visited The Dalles, and many young people here remember meeting him, as he was one not to be forgotten when once known. His remains were brought to Portland Sunday, and taken East last night. In writing to a friend here, Walter Reavis says concerning his death:

"The saddest thing that I have to tell you is that our first sergeant was shot and killed by mistake by one of our sentries. The details are as follows: On the outpost of the guard there are several magazines which are full of powder. The natives have been trying to get into the magazines and obtain the powder so as to give us strong battle.

"Anyway on the night of the 6th of January the guards, three in number, knew they were around, and they succeeded in killing four out of five and cornered the last of them. The shots aroused the officers and Major Gantenbein and Captain Wells ran up to where the shooting took place.

"Our first sergeant at the time of the shooting was making his report (nightly) to Capt. Wells, and went with them, he taking the lead. As they approached the sentry unseen, Lee Morse, which was his name, ran upon the wall just where the guards expected to see the natives jump up. Of course the sentry did not expect any one else but the natives to be anywhere around, and it being dark as dark could be, the sentry shot him through and through the hips. He halted Lee, but Lee kept right on coming. The sentry did his duty like a soldier, but it is an awful sad affair.

"He regained consciousness for a short time and said 'I don't think I am hurt very bad.' Then laid down and died. Both hips were badly shattered, the ball passing straight through him. He was buried on the following day, Jan. 7, 1899. It was the largest funeral I have ever seen in the army, for he was one of the most popular men in the regiment. His remains were put in a vault at Manila. It has cast a shadow on our company that will take some time for it to cease."

Rev. W. C. Curtis in Norwalk.

A few days ago we spoke of a letter received by Harry Liebe from Rev. W. C. Curtis, asking him to mount some arrow heads to be exhibited at the Women's Club at Norwalk, Conn. Regarding this exhibit the Norwalk Sentinel says:

"One of the most valuable and interesting afternoons the club has ever given will be next Tuesday, the 21st. W. C. Curtis, recently of The Dalles, Or., is to loan his remarkable collection of Indian arrow heads and basketry and give a paper on these subjects. Mr. Curtis is an enthusiast upon this matter, following the wise custom of many professional men and having the resource of a study aside from his own special pursuit. It is a happy chance which brings him to Norwalk, and he is generous enough to allow his collection to be exhibited and to give an explanatory paper upon it.

"Indian basketry is a subject which which Eastern people generally are but little acquainted, but to the dwellers on the Pacific coast it has a wide and growing interest, not only because of the beauty and utility of the baskets themselves, but because they represent an art which seems destined to pass with the present generation of Indians.

"Mr. Curtis is naturally interested in acquainting Norwalk people with some of the charms of his favorite study, as Norwalk is his native place, and he was warmly welcomed back upon his return a few months ago. The lecture will begin at 3 o'clock."

K. of P. Anniversary.

Sunday being the thirty-fifth anniversary of the order of Knights of Pythias, the event was celebrated by the lodge in this city last night. Over a hundred persons were present at the hall and the entire exercises were very enjoyable. After a short explanatory address by Prof. Gavin regarding the purpose of the meeting, a short program, consisting of an address by B. S. Huntington, instrumental music by Maude and Clarence Gilbert, and a solo by Mrs. Huntington, was rendered.

In his address, which was extremely eloquent and apropos, Mr. Huntington reviewed the advancement of the order from its inception thirty-five years ago in the city of Washington, D. C., by Justice H. Rathbone, to the present time, when the supreme jurisdiction numbers over a half million members. The speaker covered much ground in his remarks, which were not lengthy, but right to the point.

Friendship Lodge, No 9, of this city, now numbers 106 members in good standing, while the Rathbone Sisters have a membership of nearly one hundred.

The program being ended at 9:30, dancing began and continued till a very late hour, being interrupted at 10:30, in order to give those present an opportunity to partake of the splendid banquet furnished, and resumed when the table had no more attraction for the guests.

Short Meeting of the Council.

A short, but effective meeting of the council was held last night, at which beside the mayor, were present Councilmen Kuck, Clough, Johns, Gunning, Stephens, Butts and Michelbach.

After the usual preliminary proceedings, Mayor Nolan read a telegram from Secretary of State Dunbar informing the mayor and council that the new charter bill for Dalles City had been approved by the governor on Feb. 17th. It was then moved and carried that the telegram be placed on file.

The report of the finance committee as read, recommended that a transfer of $5000 be made from the general fund to the sinking fund, and that the city make a loan from the sinking fund to the water commission of about $3750, on first-class security; also the buying of $1000 in Wasco county warrants.

An ordinance was then read authorizing and directing the treasurer to proceed in this matter, which was carried unanimously.

Having taken up his residence in Portland, Councilman J. E. Barnett by letter, tendered his resignation as councilman of Second ward. This being read, by motion his resignation was accepted.

W. A. Johnston being recommended by Stephens to fill the vacancy was upon motion duly appointed a councilman.

TRIAL OF THE BROGAN MURDER CASE WILL CLOSE TONIGHT.

The Last Witnesses Examined This Morning—Lawyers Now Pleading.

mark, 'Hurrah for Slim!' When they said 'Go for it' Gumm ran down and struck Forrester, and the next time I saw Forrester he had gotten up and had a knife in his hand. Did not see Brogan just then, but said to Silvertooth 'Look out Jim, he has got a knife.' Silvertooth cried out 'For God's sake put it up,' and started out from behind the bar, and in the row was hit or cut in some way." Witness said he grabbed chair from Brogan, but he got another one and struck Forrester, who was in a squatting position. "Some one else must have knocked Forrester down a second time, but not Brogan." Witness did not know whether Brogan saw the knife or not. When Brogan was striking him with the chair he appeared to be warding off the blows with his hands.

Clarno was asked if he had made the statement to Mrs. Kemp, Mrs. Gamble and Mrs. Glean that he saw Forrester come into the saloon with the knife in his hand and his hand behind him. Witness denied the fact.

The next witness was Geo. Fagg, who testified he was at Dial's saloon when someone said, "They are fighting at Silvertooth's." He went over and stepped in the door, when Brogan said, "I am stabbed," and fell back on the bed. Witness did not see any one come out of the saloon, but did see a man on the outside and thought he had no hat on.

George Hammond was then called and testified that he was going up the street on the evening of the killing, and heard some noise in Silvertooth's and walked over and tried to push the door open, but found something against one of them. He put his left hand against the other door and opened it about six inches and saw a chair coming down, but did not know who had it, but that it came down on a man stooping at the bar. Saw the chair a second time, and it was directed at Forrester. The first time it hit him on the head, but the second time he dodged the blow, and then he saw Forrester's hand go out and he came falling against the doors and witness stepped away and Forrester came out and went around the corner of the saloon. After some one else went into the saloon witness followed. On cross-examination witness stated he was sure it was Forrester who came out of the saloon, and that he had no knife or weapon in his hands.

It was 9:45 p. m. when this witness left the stand, and court was adjourned until this morning.

rebuttal and testified that Forrester came to her house about 8 p. m. after the killing, and that she stood within a foot and a half of him. There was no blood on his face that she saw or any bruise. Witness stated she could see quite plainly and could tell what complexion a man was. He had his hands behind him when he came up, but did not know whether he had anything in his hands or not.

Robt. Mays was then called in rebuttal by the defense, in an endeavor to prove the truth and veracity of Clarno, but was not allowed to testify.

Fred Wallace was then called in rebuttal and testified that he was a juror on the inquest over the body of Brogan. Also to the best of his recollection that Clarno testified at the inquest that Brogan struck Forrester with a chair.

The testimony being all in, the case was rested, and all the witnesses were discharged from further attendance upon the court. It was then decided that the case should go before the jury at or before 11:30 tonight. The council on either side will be allowed three and one-half hours in which to plead.

Spain Once Owned It.

Seattle, Wash., Feb. 19.—The Post-Intelligencer today publishes the facsimile of a Spanish document which shows that the Spanish were in actual military possession of Vancouver Island between 1790 and January 1, 1792. It is stated that the document, if it had been in the possession of Emperor William of Germany when he arbitrated the Canadian boundary between England and United States, would have incontrovertibly proven the right of the United States to Vancouver island. The document in question is a report of Pedro Alberni upon the condition of his forces on his return from Nootka sound to Mexico. It is dated January 1, 1793. The original document, which is now in Seattle, was sold to a British citizen over 40 years ago, and it has been withheld for personal reasons.

How to Prevent Pneumonia.

You are perhaps aware that pneumonia always results from a cold or from an attack of La Grippe. During the epidemic of La Grippe a few years ago when so many cases resulted in pneumonia, it was observed that the attack was never followed by that disease when Chamberlain's Cough Remedy was used. It counteracts any tendency of a cold or La Grippe to result in that dangerous disease. It is the best remedy in the world for bad colds and La Grippe. Every bottle warranted. For sale by Blakeley & Houghton, druggists.

To the Public.

We are authorized to guarantee every bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and if not satisfactory to refund the money to the purchaser. There is no better medicine made for La Grippe, colds or whooping cough. Price 25 and 50 cents per bottle. Try it. Blakeley & Houghton, druggists.
