WAYSIDE GLEANINGS.

Among the chief quartermasters to be mustered out on April 12th is Captain Hiram E. Mitchell, of Oregon.

The Telegram speaks of Capt. Glenn being in Portland. We knew he was captain of the crew on "Smoky Row," but who gave it away to the Telegram?

There has been some talk of having Manager Kinerly endeavor to secure the Metropolitan Opera Company for a return engagement at the Vogt, when they return from the Sound.

Tonight another handicap bowling contest will take place between the ladies and gentlemen at the club. The teams will be composed of Mrs. Seuffert, Mrs. Houghton, Mrs. Nolan, Mrs. Dawson, Misses Anna Lang and Alma Schanno, and Messrs. Houghton, Nolan, Phillips, DeHuff, Sampson, Baldwin.

Sons will be the next attraction in Portland for Dalles people. He will be there next Monday and Tuesday. Rosenthal, the great pianist and Ian MacLaren, will also be there during the season.

Every lady wants to hear Mrs. Read tell every other lady how to regain and keep her youth. She will do so tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock at the K. of P. hall. She speaks to married men and women tonight on "Nature's Method of Curing Diseases."

A cordial invitation is extended to the ladies of The Dalles and vicinity to attend the opening of spring and summer millinery goods at the millinery parlors of Campbell & Wilson, on Second street, March 21 and 22. The finest line of goods on display ever shown in this city.

If there's one thing above another that a person appreciates when they enter a store it is to have it well lighted, so that the goods may be seen. Evidently A. M. Williams & Co. was aware of this fact and intend that customers shall enjoy all advantages when dealing with them, their latest improvement being a 1200 candle power incandescent arc light in their shoe room, and for their spacious clothing department an order has been placed for a second one. These arcs shed a very bright and attractive light, and serve to dispel the usual objections to buying goods in the evening. Let the good work go on.

Coroner Butts has removed his office to the undertaking parlors of Wm. Mitchell, on the corner of Third and Washington. If you have died from any unknown cause, call on the coroner there and he will sit on you. But if you only wish to take up your abode in the city, or near the city, and are desirous of consulting him about it, you'll find Dad Butts at that same headquarters.

"Ruben Glue," which will be played tonight by the Noble company, is one of Noble's best plays, and exclusively their own. Though the Yankee character is the prominent one in the play, 'tis not the same old Yankee that we meet in so many productions, but a different individual. The opening scene is laid in England, while in the last we are transported to Australia. Go and have a good laugh.

The fourth winter scene in this year's drama met our gaze as we peered out of the window on arising this morning. Snow covered the ground, and instead of March it looked like December. But 'twas not cold, and before we knew it the aforesaid "congealed element" was gone. The stage driver from Goldendale says there was little snow at that place, but about two inches and a half on the mountain as he came over.

A regular meeting of the Board of Fire Delegates was held in the city hall last evening and the old board having finished their labors, retired. The new board was instituted, after which the following officers were elected to serve for the ensuing year: President, Chas. F. Lauer; secretary, E. M. Wingate, and treasurer H. A. Falk. Matters of importance to the fire department were taken up and discussed, after which the meeting adjourned.

Last night Mrs. D. W. Vause received word of the death of her brother, Leslie Knaggs, in Ainsworth, B. C., on the night of March 13th, of laryngitis. He was about 36 years of age, and it has been about eighteen years since he left The Dalles to run on a boat on the Snake river. From Lewiston he went to Spokane, afterwards going up into British Columbia, where he has since been engaged in mining. Eight years ago he visited his mother and sister here for a day or two; but having been away from the city for so many years he is remembered by Dalles people more as a mere boy, going to and from school, for later as he was growing into manhood he left his boyhood's home and never returned for any length of time.

No end of trouble has been caused by the similarity of the names of the two places The Dalles and Dallas. Most of this has been caused by the mail intended for one place being sent to the other. The latest trouble, however, was with another kind of a mail, and if that piece of humanity isn't walking the deck of the boat today swearing vengeance on those who named the two places, it is because the scenery has captured him. He is a member of the Third Artillery and was bound for Dallas, but by some unaccountable means hid himself to the D. P. & A. N. dock and purchased a ticket for The Dalles. Nothing loth he boarded the boat and blissfully unconscious landed at the dock last night to find that he didn't know where he was "at." He shook the dust from his feet, bought a return ticket, and has by this time found out that the difference between Dallas and The Dalles is about $4, and two days' travel.

"Gold King" Well Presented.

Although the attendance was fairly good, no doubt the Noble company would have had a much larger audience last night had it not been for the counter attraction at the Vogt. There are just enough theater-going people in the city to make one good audience, consequently when there are two attractions on one night both must suffer therefrom.

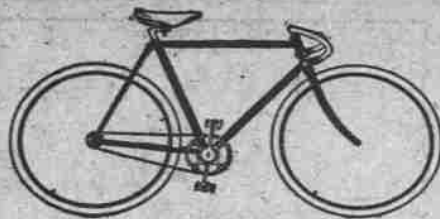

However, in spite of the fact that an enthusiastic audience is almost a necessity in order to give a good show, the "Gold King" was well rendered on this occasion, and some good acting was witnessed by those who attended.

Noble is an all around actor, as has already been proven by the two nights' plays given, and he has some splendid support. If an audience is looking for fun, they will find their desire for a good laugh gratified by Kit Wilson in his Irish characters.

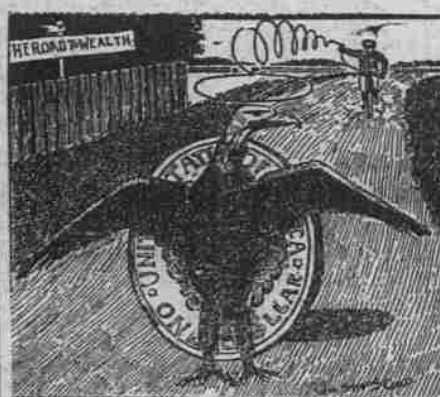

The music furnished by the company's orchestra is worth the admission to their entertainments. The band is first-class and the orchestra is equal to it, furnishing fine selections during the entire evening.

Tickets are given out each evening for the drawings for two sets of furniture, one to be given away tomorrow night and the other Saturday night.

Tonight they appear in "Ruben Glue," and if you want to have a good laugh be sure and attend.

WHAT THEY MISSED.

A Splendid Opera by the Metropolitan Company Last Night.

"'Tis the same thing over again," and the majority of Dalles people overlooked an opportunity to hear a splendid opera last night at the Baldwin. Many looked at it in the light that a dollar seems a good deal to pay for the privilege of hearing an opera, which requires a good stage, put on where there is absolutely no facilities for such a production, and only one thing in its favor—that the acoustic properties are good. Over and over again last night did the audience wish that it might be heard from a large stage, with better settings. But many times have our people paid 75 cents and $1. for plays which could not be mentioned in connection with last night's opera, despite the disadvantages.

"Masoc" is a very pleasing little opera, and the music at once classic and catchy. This company has added many comic features and situations which keep the audience in a roar of laughter. Never did we hear so many new and witty witticisms so well gotten off as those of last night. The puns were not of the "chestnut" nature so often heard, but new and good and when coming from two such perfect comedians as Maurice Hageman and Eddie Smith were simply side-splitting. Indeed, the make-up and acting of these two could not be beat, while their constant appearance on the stage was a source of great satisfaction. Hageman also has a good voice, and Smith is not far short of him in this respect. They are immense.

Will Rising as "Peppo," the shepherd, has a form and carriage just suited to the character, and as the lover of "Bettina" was not, as is so often noticed in stage love-making, lacking in that ardor so necessary to the part. His voice is also good and, blended with that of "Bettina" in the "Gobbie duet," was particularly rich; but showed to the best advantage in his solo in the second act.

"Bettina," the "Masoc," was very pleasing, and the most energetic little actress that has been in The Dalles for many a day. Although her voice was lacking as to depth in the middle and lower tones, it is so sweet, her acting so good and her appearance so taking that not a fault was found with her.

The choruses were filled with good voices and splendidly acted. Indeed, the whole performance was one which should have demanded a crowded house, and cause those who failed to attend much regret.

Death Claims Mrs. Helen Ruffner.

Last evening about 8 o'clock Mrs. Helen Ruffner, who has been a great sufferer for years, died at her home on Ninth street. To one whose constitution was so broken down by long years of sickness the grippe, which attacked her about a month ago, proved too much and she is numbered among its many victims.

Helen Koontz was born in the state of Ohio, March 27, 1832, making her nearly 67 years old at the time of her death. When she was 11 years old her parents, Martin and Lydia Koontz, moved to Iowa taking her with them, and there she met Peter Ruffner, whom she afterward married when in her 20th year. A month after their marriage they started across the plains to this coast, arriving in Vancouver, Wash., on the 11th day of October, 1854. They made their home near Portland until 1854, when they moved to Southern Oregon.

In 1862, thirty-seven years ago, they came to The Dalles, and this has been their home ever since. Many old residents remember when they resided on a pretty little place about a quarter of a mile up the railroad track, a place which has since been destroyed, but was then as an oasis in a desert.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Ruffner leaves eight children, a daughter, Mrs. Laura Boehmer, having died on Sept. 9, 1898. The others are Andrew Ruffner, of Seattle; Mrs. Jos. Marsh, of Wasco;

Mrs. John Koontz, Mrs. Alice Koontz, Frank and Wm. Ruffner and Clara and Maude Ruffner, all of The Dalles.

Although a great sufferer, she was a patient one, endeavoring to make all happy about her, and exemplifying her Christianity in the many trials which came to her. She is greatly mourned by her husband and the large family to whom she has ever been a faithful mother.

The funeral will take place from the family residence on Ninth street Friday at 2 o'clock, the interment being in Odd Fellows' cemetery.
