WAYSIDE GLEANINGS.

H. W. Franch returned last evening from a few days' visit in Portland.

Miss Anna Dufur came up from Portland last night, and left this morning for Dufur to visit relatives.

Mr. P. G. Dant returned last night from Portland. Mrs. Dant will remain in that city to receive special medical treatment.

There will be an Epworth League reunion at the Methodist church tomorrow night. Members and friends of the League cordially invited.

W. S. Myers, who was appointed by the council to collect the city road tax, is at present engaged in that work, and so far has been very successful.

The lady friends of A. M. Williams & Co., are invited to call and inspect their very choice line of tailor made suits, and separate skirts. First shipment of spring garments just received.

Dr. G. C. Eshelman has made arrangements to be in The Dalles every Saturday from 1 till 4 o'clock in the afternoon. Any orders left at Clarke & Falk's will receive his attention.

A. Clapp, representing the Pacific Bridge Company, came up from Portland yesterday for the purpose of placing in gate boxes, and completing the work on the new water system recently put in by that company.

Mrs. T. J. Seufert is the fortunate winner this month of the beautiful bent iron trophy donated to the lady bowlers of the club by J. C. Hostetler. It must be won by the same lady three successive times before it is awarded to her.

If plans were carried out as intended, Joe Bonn is now a married man, having been joined in the 'wholly bonfide' yesterday afternoon at Bellevue, Iowa. Joe expected to at once start for Oregon with his bride. If so, they will probably arrive Monday.

A special meeting of the Rathbone Sisters will be held at the K. of P. hall this evening at 7 o'clock. At its close a dance will be the order of the hour, the admission to which will be 50 cents. An invitation is extended to their friends to be present.

A cordial invitation is extended to the ladies of The Dalles and vicinity to attend the opening of spring and summer millinery goods at the millinery parlors of Campbell & Wilson, on Second street, March 21 and 22. The finest line of goods on display ever shown in this city.

We were sorry to learn last night from a friend who had just received a letter from Mrs. S. French, who is now in New York, that she has been quite sick for the past month and only able to be up the day she wrote. Dr. Gertrude is, however, much improved, and her physicians give her great encouragement.

The sermon delivered by Rev. Rushing at the Christian church last evening was indicative of unusual ability on the part of the speaker. His subject, "Christ as a Teacher," was handled in a masterly and eloquent manner. Rev. Rushing will again conduct services this evening and a cordial invitation is extended to all.

The handicap bowling contests now being held at the club each Wednesday evening, between the ladies and gentlemen, create quite an enthusiasm, and the bowling room is crowded on these occasions. Again last night the ladies came out ahead, with 37 pins to their credit, the gentlemen winning one game out of the four. Mr. Nolan was high man last night, having 50 in one game and a total of 163. Mrs. Houghton was "leading lady," both in single game, which score was 47, and in her total score of 146. Her's is the highest score yet won by a lady in the contests here. Another contest will be held next week. Mr. Houghton has received a letter from Astoria saying that a team of men will be sent here from that city some time in April.

The Dalles has had a feast of music this week. Noble's band is making the town vibrate with melody. THE CHRONICLE office was especially favored today with a selection by them, and our only regret was that we had no refreshments other than pi to offer in return for their kindness. They have some splendid musicians in their band, and we greatly appreciated their visit.

Fred Zirka, who left here with our soldier boys last April, came back last night looking somewhat the worse for wear. Fred had been sick for some months before he left Manila, and for the past three weeks has been confined in the hospital at San Francisco. While Fred is pleased to again be at home, he regrets not being able to be in Manila now while the boys are in the thick of the fray.

Maurice Hageman, the comedian who so delighted the audience at the opera Tuesday night, was a member of the Jennie Winston company which captured Portland in 1894, and Tuesday was renewing acquaintances there. The Metropolitan company is now in Astoria and their next engagement will be in Vancouver, when Mr. Kinersly will endeavor to have them return to this city for one night.

Perhaps it would be well for The Dalles to heed the precaution given by the Telegram to Portland people when it says: "No time should be wasted in the erection of a pethouse. Smallpox is epidemic in Los Angeles, and semi-epidemic in Spokane and San Francisco. The weather is favorable for its migration, and there is no assurance that we shall be exempt from a visitation from this loathsome disease."

The largest house that has yet greeted the Noble Company was present last night to hear them in "Reuben Glue." Tonight the "Train Wreckers" will be placed on the boards, a four-act sensational scenic production, in the second act of which will be presented a realistic railway scene, and in the third a great storm scene with lightning effects. The drawing for one of the furniture sets will also take place this evening. Those holding tickets should have them on hand, as their number may be the lucky one. The furniture was bought at great expense to the company, and is a great drawing card.

The continued winter which we are experiencing is seemingly having its effect on the tramps, with which the city is infested at present, and overcoats are their latest fad. Not any particular style or cut is desired, but "all over coats look alike to him," and any he may run across can fill a space in his trunk. Tuesday two were stolen from Sexton's feed yard, and yesterday afternoon Mr. F. H. Rowe left a good overcoat lying on a pile of lumber in his lumber yard, near where he was working, and upon looking for it later, found it had been taken. The marshal was at once notified and search is being made for him. The best means to be used in dealing with these petty robberies is to present the offenders with a "wooden overcoat" and thus end the overcoat business. The trouble is that they are not punished sufficiently. In endeavoring to let the "punishment fit the crime," they are let off too easily.

Milinery Announcement.

Mrs. M. Periano has recently received a full stock of spring and summer millinery, including street and trimmed hats, most of her stock coming directly from the East. The date for her opening will be announced later; and in the meantime she invites the ladies of The Dalles to call at her parlors and examine the beautiful hats there displayed. Also to see that her prices are more reasonable than can generally be obtained.

All members of Cedar Circle are requested to attend regular meeting tomorrow, 7:30 p. m. sharp. Business of great importance. By order Mrs. STEPHENS, Guardian. Miss WRENN, Clerk.

NEW POSTMASTER AT LAST.

H. H. Riddell Named by the President For the Office.

The following dispatch, which appeared in the Oregonian last night, settles the postmaster question, which has so agitated Dalles people of late:

WASHINGTON, March 14.—The president has appointed H. H. Riddell postmaster at The Dalles, Or. It is a recess appointment.

The matter of the appointment was entirely with the president, as The Dalles is a presidential office. Mr. Riddell will be notified at once of the president's action, and will be asked to file the usual bond of The Dalles office. When the bond has been received and approved, Mr. Riddell's commission will be sent to him, and he will take charge of the office, relieving J. A. Crossen, the present postmaster.

Regarding recess appointments the dispatch further says:

"It was unfortunate for Oregon that the senate failed to confirm H. H. Riddell, who was nominated by the president, on the recommendation of the Oregon delegation, for postmaster at The Dalles. Mr. Riddell's name was not sent to the senate until March 2, a day and a half before adjournment and as there were many other names having precedence, the late hour killed his nomination. Mr. Riddell was not the only postmaster who failed to be confirmed. A number of other large offices in various states are now running under the old order, because the senate failed to act. In cases of this kind, there is but one course to be pursued, that heretofore followed in past years; the present incumbent will remain in office until relieved by a newly appointed man.

"A 'recess appointment' is similar in all respects to the regular presidential appointment, only the appointee is not confirmed by the senate. The president acts in regard to him just as he would were the senate in session. Such an appointment holds good until the adjournment of the next succeeding session of congress, when the term expires, but at that time the president is allowed to reappoint his choice if he so desires, so that in effect a recess appointment is equal in all respects, at least in matter of time, to the regular appointment and confirmation. An instance of 'recess appointment' was witnessed during President Cleveland's second term, when he sent to the senate the name of a man he had chosen for a certain post-office. The senate refused to confirm the nominee, and the president refused to make another nomination. This blocked the power of congress in the matter, and when the senate adjourned President Cleveland made a 'recess appointment', naming the same man, who held the office until the close of the next session of congress. His term then expired, but the president again came to his aid and reappointed him to the same office, so that in the end, while his term was shortened by the time between the rejection of the nomination by the senate and adjournment of congress, the rest of the term was exactly the same as if the senate had acted in compliance with the wish of President Cleveland. In the case of The Dalles, when the president makes a 'recess appointment', it will hold until the adjournment of the first session of the Fifty-sixth congress, and if the appointee is not satisfactory to the senate, but backed by the president, he may be re-appointed to serve to the end of the Fifty-sixth congress, March 4, 1901."
