A NARROW VIEW.

A British naval officer, commenting on the war in the Philippines, is quoted by the London Daily Chronicle as saying:

"The Americans do not appear to understand the game of using one lot of natives against another. If they wish to conquer the islands, they must adopt that plan."

We think this British naval officer will have occasion to readjust his views on that matter. Certainly he will change his opinion if he will study the history of Indian warfare in this country. The Americans have been playing for three centuries the "game" of using one lot of natives against another. If they had not understood that game, they could not have wrested this country from its savage possessors.

For example, the Indian wars of this section. When Wright started his campaign against the hostiles north of Snake river in 1858, one of his first moves, on arriving at Walla Walla, was to win the friendship of the Nez Percés. A council was held at that post, and a treaty made which withdrew 1700 muskets from the ranks of the hostiles, and provided a strong party of Nez Percés as guides and scouts. A spirited war dance celebrated the forming of the alliance, and as a result of this treaty, the Nez Percés remained the steadfast friends of the whites down to the war of 1877.

In the Nez Perce war of 1877, treaty conditions were somewhat reversed. We had in that war, as allies, some of the tribes who were with the hostile confederacy of 1858. The Spokanes, Columbias, Colvilles and other tribes remained at peace, and provided our forces with guides and scouts. Chief Moses, whose death is now reported from the Colville reservation, was strongly tempted by ambassadors from Joseph to go on the warpath, but resisted all blandishments from that wily Nez Perce chieftain.

In the Shoshone war of 1866-8, Idaho and Eastern Oregon, we had for allies the Klamaths, the Warm Springs, the Columbias and the Boise Shoshones.

In the Modoc war we had the Klamaths and Cayuses as allies, and to greater or less degree we have played that "game" in every border struggle.

It is strange that the naval officer quoted in the London Chronicle does not see that it would be vain to expect extensive alliances with the Filipinos before our armed forces had inspired in the native mind a wholesome fear and respect for their fighting and governing qualities. Any alliance not based on such respect would be futile and disappointing. Large numbers of the natives have been hesitating between the standard of Aguinaldo and the flag of the United States. We are taking the most effective measures to bring these doubters to our side.—Spokesman-Review.

HOME PRODUCTION.

It is said of the homeseekers who are daily arriving in nearly every town and section of the agricultural portions of the northwest that a goodly portion will engage in manufacturing. Few of them expect to manufacture on a large scale, but they see opportunities to establish little plants which will supply the home market with food that is now being imported from other states.

These sturdy immigrants have learned the necessity of home industry, undoubtedly have grown up where every article capable of production at home was manufactured there, and they see almost unlimited opportunities in their new homes to make comfortable livings in trade avenues heretofore neglected.

Large manufacturing plants are most desirable acquisitions to any community, for their payrolls make the merchant comfortable and the workman satisfied; but there are quite as much satisfaction and profit in the smaller concerns, if there are enough of them, and the results are as far-reaching.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars; free.
