It always seems like parting with old friends when we see such old landmarks as the poplar trees, which have for so many years surrounded the lot on the corner of Third and Liberty streets, cut down. No doubt it is necessary to remove them, but it is to be regretted that such is the case.

The Oregonian says the fare to Cloud Cap Inn from Portland is $15. If we mistake not, many procured tickets last year at Portland, including the stage trip, for $10. Are we right?

Among the numerous improvements which go to beautify the homes of our city, Messrs. Schenck, Seufert and Butler are preparing to place paved walks about the grounds surrounding their residences.

There will be an ice cream supper at the Salvation Army on Saturday evening, April 8th. Tickets 10c. On Sunday, April 9th, Ensign Evans and Captain Helm will farewell from The Dalles corps. Everybody invited to attend the meetings.

A new dining-car for the O. R. & N. will be delivered to the company in Chicago next Monday, fully equipped for immediate service. A crew has gone to take charge of it, and bring it out to the O. R. & N. line. The new dining-car will run between The Dalles and Umatilla on the through trains to and from Huntington. It is expected to begin service about the 15th.

Some people are already beginning, like Noah of old, to build little arks preparatory to the oncoming of the June flood, claiming that it's bound to come. Well, it may be all right to be cautious, but let's not prepare to wade before the water gets here. It'll be hard enough to ford the stream when it reaches us. Let's not go to meet it.

In a few days The Dalles will be in full bloom. The trees are all putting forth their buds and nearly every lot in the city contains just enough fruit trees to beautify it with their blossoms. The lawns also are emerald green. Are you sure, though, that on your lot or surrounding it is not something to mar the perfectness of the picture; something objectionable to the view?

The CHRONICLE was mistaken about Coke Hill neglecting his Dalles friends and passing through the city without stopping. He spent yesterday in the city, leaving today for Prineville. Although it has been almost fourteen years since Coke left The Dalles, he is as loyal as ever, and would even leave San Francisco to return here if business inducements were sufficient to warrant the change.

One of the most beautiful spots in the city is the Academy park. It is now in the best of trim, and kept in such perfect order that it always looks inviting. The grounds about the High school building have also been terraced and planted to grass, while Irish juniper and a specimen of cedar trees have been placed at intervals about the campus. In time it will vie with the grounds adjoining in their beauty of verdure.

Tonight is the time for the Easter sale at the K. of P. hall. One of the attractive features of the program will be the minuet by the little ones. After the entertainment a general good time will be enjoyed, with dancing, etc. And all this pleasure will cost but 25 cents. The sale will be continued tomorrow afternoon, when all ladies are invited to be present. However, you will have a pick of articles by purchasing tonight.

This morning at 4 o'clock W. J. McClain died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Abe Howard, on 5-Mile. For the past three years he has been ailing, but did not take to his bed until last Saturday morning, when he suffered a paralytic stroke, since which time he has not spoken, nor has he taken any nourishment. Previous to a year ago he made his home for years at Columbus, Wash., and at Goldendale a portion of the time. He was 75 years and 7 months old, and leaves two sons and three daughters. His remains will be taken to Columbus tomorrow for burial.

Yesterday being the birthday of Mr. Wm. Tackman, a few friends were privileged to spend last evening at their attractive home on the East Hill. The rooms had been decorated in potted plants and flowers, until the guests felt themselves in a perfect garden as they entered the parlors. A portion of the evening was passed in playing whist and hearts, and later the tables were spread for one of the best lunches the party ever sat down to. Roses and carnations were much in evidence as decorations of the festal board, which was otherwise laden with good things. Every one present thoroughly enjoyed the entire evening.

The Oregonian has the following concerning F. Kinsey, a former Dalles resident who was engineer on the O. R. & N. boats for many years: "Frank Kinsey, who has been engineer of the reform school at Salem for the past three and a half years, has returned to his home on the East Side and is now a private citizen. A complete change was made in the employees of this school and the total number cut by five. Mr. Kinsey while serving as engineer at Salem, did not move his family there, but they lived on the East Side. He made a good record, and retires to private life with the satisfaction of having done his duty."

At the same time when "Slim" was arrested for having obtained money under false pretense by selling two different orders for the same county scrip, it was also said that Raymond Chavey was implicated in the same kind of a deal. It will be remembered that he was another prominent witness in the Furres case; but at the time Slim was arrested, the Spaniard could not be found. J. H. Jackson has been on his trail and discovered him at the Finlayson ranch, eighteen miles from Antelope. He made no resistance and last night the officers brought him to the city and placed him in the county jail. He appeared before Justice Bayard this afternoon, and wavered examination. His bonds were placed at $100.

We are more than fortunate in having such an actress as Clara Thropp spend an evening in The Dalles. It is to be accounted for from the fact that the company is passing through the city on its way East, and, having an extra date, will fill in by stopping over in this city. As she will spend Monday in the city, it has been suggested that parlors be secured and the ladies be privileged to hear Miss Thropp read during the afternoon. 'Tis not often we have an opportunity to listen to such a talented actress as this and we should make the most of it. Of course every theater-goer will hear her Monday evening. During the rendition of "The Truant Spouse," the comedy which follows "A Doll's House," she will sing Rudyard Kipling's famous barrack song, "On the Road to Mandalay."

MORE RAILROAD RUMOR.

Let the Good Work Go On—The Dalles Will Not Run Away.

Let the railroad work go on; the more the merrier, and if all rumors connected with such schemes are true we'll have a merry time of it. A dispatch from Goldendale has the following, which must be regarding the project on hand by the company in which Dr. Blalock is interested. As to some leading citizens of our city being also in the scheme we have not been advised. What we do know is that had Dalles people taken kindly to some railroad projects intended to reach into the interior to the south, the future of our city would have had a brighter outlook; but in spite of all predictions to the contrary, The Dalles is a lively corpse yet and will continue to hold its own, if we mistake not. The dispatch says:

"Railroad surveyors are locating a line from Tumwater fisheries on the Columbia river opposite Old Celilo, to 'Columbia Gap,' and thence to Goldendale. Hon. James Wheelhouse, of Columbus, who was recently in Goldendale, says he believes that Dr. Blalock, of Walla Walla, is interested in the village of surveyors' tents that adorn the Parson's ranch on Celilo flats, and that he believes from an acquaintance of over twenty years that the well known Walla Walla physician meant business and that there are identified with him in the project some of the citizens of The Dalles. From other sources it is reported that near the fisheries and at the narrows is a natural site for bridging the Columbia river. It is also reported that the proposed railway may connect with the O. R. & N., and in this way Goldendale would acquire an all-rail connection with a trans-continental line. From all indications it appears the O. R. & N. Co. has shown an indifference to Klickitat's inadequate transportation facilities, until last Monday, when Mr. Campbell, of that company, communicated with Merchant Almon Baker, of Goldendale, to ascertain the probable yield of wheat in the valley. It is the opinion of many Goldendale people that Engineer Hammond's surveys about Goldendale have disturbed the dreams of the O. R. & N. and possibly Mr. Hammond's company is in some way connected with the Northern Pacific Railway company."

At the Entertainment and Sale.

The following program will occupy a portion of this evening at K. of P. hall: Flag Drill and Song Small Boys and Girls Recitation Seven Girls Character Song Hazel Waud Recitation—"Be Last Hymn" Blanche Wilson Vocal Solo—"Just One Girl" Margaret Kiterly "The Minuet" Little People Vocal Solo—"The Violet" Will Crossen Vocal Duet—"Fly Away, Birding" Mrs. Jayne and Mrs. Groat Vocal Solo—Selected Mr. C.
