

SANTA CRUZ IS CAPTURED

Rebel Forces Compelled to Evacuate the City.

AMERICAN CASUALTIES ONLY SIX

Rebels Left Sixty-eight Dead on the Field and a Large Number Wounded, While Many Prisoners Were Taken by the Americans—Lawton's Expedition Will Press Westward.

MANILA, April 10, 6:30 a. m.—General Lawton has captured Santa Cruz, at the extreme end of the lake, and driven the rebels, who were commanded by a Chinaman named Pao Wab, into the mountains. The American loss was six wounded. The rebels lost 68 killed and 40 wounded.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—The following dispatch was received from General Otis today:

Manila, April 9.—Adjutant-General, Washington: Lawton's command captured Santa Cruz, the chief of Laguna de Bay this morning. Our casualties were six wounded. The insurgent troops were driven back, leaving 68 dead on the field and a large number of wounded. A considerable number were captured. Lawton well push westward.

(An expedition, consisting of about 1500 men, commanded by Major-General Henry Lawton, left San Pedro Macati, on the river Pasig, Saturday night, with the purpose of crossing Laguna de Bay, and capturing the town of Santa Cruz, on the eastern shore of the lake. The American troops were then, as planned, to sweep the country to the south. The force consisted of 200 picked sharpshooters from the various regiments.

General Lawton's plan was to reach Santa Cruz on Monday morning at daylight, to capture or destroy the rebel gunboats or shipping, to take the town and then scour the country to the south of the lake, a district not yet explored by Americans. The Detroit is to stop at Greytown, after leaving Port Limon.)

MANILA, April 10.—4:45 p. m.—The rebels along the railroad fired at a scouting party near Malolos today, wounding two of the Kansas regiment.

The United States gunboat Bennington has gone up the coast in order to relieve the Spanish garrison of forty-seven men, beleaguered there since May.

It is considered significant that Oceania Espanola, formerly rabidly in favor of the Filipino government, is now counseling disarmament, and advising the Filipinos to accept the inevitable. It has carefully analyzed the proclamation of the United States Philippine commissions pointing out the advantages of the definite policy determined upon.

War Far From Ended.

MANILA, April 7, via Hong Kong, April 10.—Though hundreds of Filipinos are daily returning to their homes and are desirous of resuming peaceful pursuits, and though the proclamation issued by the United States Philippine commission has given an impulse to this movement, the war is far from ended. One of the foremost American generals said recently:

"We will see 100,000 soldiers in the Philippines before the Americans control the islands," and a majority of the army officers are of his opinion.

It is generally considered that great reinforcements are necessary, there not being a sufficient number of American troops in the archipelago to make conquest of the island of Luzon and hold those occupied; and it is thought that it would be cheaper in the long run and have a better effect on the natives to establish American supremacy effectually than to temporize with a score of rebellions.

JUSTICE FIELD PASSES AWAY

Died at His Home in Washington of Kidney Complications.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—Stephen J. Field, retired justice of the United States supreme court, died last evening at his home in the city, of kidney complications. He had been unconscious since Saturday morning, and death was painless. His fatal illness began about two weeks ago, when he contracted a severe cold.

Stephen Johnson Field was born at Hadden, Conn., November 4, 1816. He was the son of David Dudley Field, and one of four brothers, who became so famous, David Dudley, Cyrus W., and Henry M. Field being the other members of the great quartet that made their names known throughout the world. His early boyhood was spent at Stockbridge, Mass. He graduated from Williams college in 1837, at the head of his class.

In 1848 he went to Europe and spent some time traveling. In November, 1849, he sailed for San Francisco around Cape Horn, and entered upon the practice of law in the Occidental metropolis. After a short time he moved to Marysville, a small mining camp, and became one of the founders of what afterward grew to be a thriving town. He was elected a judge of the supreme court of California in 1857 for the term of six years. In 1859 he became chief justice, succeeding Chief Justice David S. Terry.

In 1863 President Lincoln appointed him associate justice of the supreme court of the United States, and he held that position until his retirement on December 1, 1897.

During the latter years of his service on the bench he was in very feeble health. His term was the longest in the history of the tribunal.

Deafness Cannot be Cured.
by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars; free.

WILL HOLD THE ISLANDS

United States Will Not Part With the Philippines.

NOT SERIOUSLY CONSIDERED

Senator McBride Says That He is in Favor of American Control.

WASHINGTON, April 9.—The proposition to exchange the Philippines for the British West Indies is confined to one New York paper, which is booming it for some unknown reason. No one takes any stock in it, least of all Great Britain. The paper has been full of the subject and prints interviews which cannot in any way be turned as favoring the scheme. There is no doubt a desire on the part of some of the people of Jamaica to be annexed to the United States so as to get the advantage of our tariff laws, but further than this the project does not go. It is becoming a settled policy of the United States that the Philippines shall be retained as a part of the United States, and there is no sentiment in favor of turning them over to any other country, either for other territory or money. The suggestion last winter that the Philippines should be sold to Japan or England raised a term of protest from those who thought the matter was being seriously considered.

Senator McBride, of Oregon, speaking of the interview with him in a New York paper, says that he has formed no opinion on the subject, because he regards it as a purely hypothetical one. He has been misquoted to the extent of favoring any such proposition. Whatever Senator McBride did say was no doubt twisted so as to make it favorable to the proposition, as the paper which has advocated this exchange works such schemes. Senator McBride has not seen the interview he is credited with, and for that reason does not wish to enter any formal denial or endorsement of what it contains. The whole subject is one which is so remote and improbable that discussion of it by public men is quite useless.

Senator McBride stated positively that his own view has been that the United States should hold the Philippines, and he has not yet seen any reason to change that view.

Typical Heroism.
It is true that the preparedness for war on the part of the Spaniards was greater in proportion to the strength of the two nations than the preparedness of the United States. In cases where we actually had a stronger armament, the great disproportion of loss and the comparative ineffectiveness of the Spanish arms of course redound to the credit of this country. The strength of America being, however, so preponderant, and on some occasions our armament being so much more powerful, it is fortunate that there were occasions for many heroic acts on the part of Americans that were in the nature of "forlorn hopes." Among these the most conspicuous is the case of the crew of the Merrimac. Though the immediate object of the sinking of the collier was not accomplished, no event of the war afforded greater proof of the high morale of the entire navy, officers and men alike. The desire of the officers and seamen to participate in what must have looked like an inevitable sacrifice of limb or life is not the least interesting, and, indeed, pathetic part of Lieut. Hobson's thrilling narrative. The fact that so many stood ready to engage in the perilous duty, while it does not take a single leaf from the laurels of those who actually took part in the maneuver, makes the heroism of the officer and crew of the Merrimac significantly typical.—Century.
