WAYSIDE GLEANINGS.

Yesterday afternoon's passenger train arrived at 1:15 this afternoon. Today's will probably reach here about 9 o'clock tonight.

The river is creeping up, having risen until it was 14 1/2 feet above low water at noon. This morning from 8 o'clock until noon it rose one foot.

The "Klickitat", which came up to this city Tuesday loaded with wood, started down the river this afternoon for its run between Stevenson and the Locks.

Miss Pearl Dean left last night for Wasco and other places in the interior, taking with her a stock of millinery goods from the parlors of Campbell & Wilson.

This morning while working about his mill, a piece of scantling fell on Hans Hansen's right foot, spraining it severely, and necessitating his using crutches for a few days at least.

W. F. Johnson returned from the Snake river country Saturday, having secured a better position with the Wasco Warehouse Company at The Dalles. He will move his family to that place as soon as he can.—Wasco News.

On Saturday evening, April 22nd, there will be a glove contest of twenty rounds, for a decision, at the Baldwin opera house. The participants will be Ed Ross, of Los Angeles, and V. S. Houghton, of Portland. General admission 50 cents; reserved seats 75.

Sergeant John McNeil, who has been stationed with the regulars at Fort Robinson, Neb., since his visit to this city during the winter, has obtained an honorable discharge and arrived in The Dalles on the noon train. Being the eldest of the family John considered it his duty upon the death of his father to be with the family at home, and therefore asked for a discharge, which was granted.

Today being Arbor day throughout the state, appropriate exercises were held this afternoon in the different rooms of the public schools. A sufficient number of trees having already been planted in the various grounds, it was unnecessary to observe the day in the manner prescribed. However, the children were taught the lessons for which the day was set apart.

A more delightful day than we have enjoyed today could not be imagined. It was simply perfect. The recent rain storms have much to do with the balminess of the atmosphere. The rainfall which was .33 of an inch was mostly confined to the Columbia river valley and did not reach more than eight miles into the interior, except a slight sprinkle at Moro. It, however, extended into the Klickitat valley on the Washington side.

Yesterday Mrs. B. S. Huntington received a telegram from her brother, Norman Wilson, informing her of the death of his wife, Leona Wilson, at their home in Phoenix, Arizona, at 11 o'clock Wednesday. No particulars were given, other than that she passed away unexpectedly. They were married about two years ago in Phoenix, and were happily situated there. His numerous friends here will deeply regret the great sorrow which has come to Mr. Wilson just when life seemed the brightest.

At a meeting of the teachers of our public schools last evening it was decided to attend the educational meeting in Hood River tomorrow, going down by boat in the morning. Hood River people have arranged to banquet them at the hotel at noon, and the meeting will convene at 10 o'clock, closing in time to reach the boat. A number of friends will accompany them. The people of that little town have also been noted for their interest in educational matters and the cordiality with which they receive its exponents.

Though the weather is as changeable as the styles, tourist travel on the river has already begun, and yesterday a large number of visitors from different parts of the eastern states came up on the Regulator as far as the Cascades. In making the trip so early in the season much of the disappointment which is caused by a smoky atmosphere obstructing the view is avoided. From all indications tourists on the Columbia this year will be as numerous as it is said salmon will be in the river. Let them both make their appearance "numerous." We'll welcome them both. If the teachers make the trip 'tis only fitting they should find the river full of schools of salmon.

Truman Butler received a letter from his father this morning, which was written on the 5th day of this month, saying that he would leave Skagway for the Atlin country the following day. Mrs. Butler will join him in June. A letter was also received from Henry Michell, informing his brothers that he and Mrs. Michell would leave on the 4th for Atlin, going over White Pass to the summit by train. The lakes, he says, are all frozen solid and will probably not break up for four or six weeks. The railroad will be through to Lake Bennett in about two months. The coldest it was in Skagway during the winter was five degrees below. They are more than pleased with Alaska.

The search for the bodies of H. D. McGuire and A. W. Reed continues, but apparently in vain. E. F. Walsh, who is in the land office at Roseburg, says that every effort is being made that is possible to recover the bodies. A reward of $100 has been offered for the body of A. W. Reed by his brother, but it did not apparently increase the size of the searching party, which has been a large one from the first. It is the opinion that the bodies will be very hard to find. The North Umpqua is as clear as crystal, but the water is almost too cold for diving. If the bodies have not been carried below where the south fork of the river empties, there is yet hope of finding them. The south fork comes from a mining section, and is very muddy. If the bodies reach the muddy water they may never be found. It is the general opinion, however, that they have not gone that far down the stream.

The Dalles is to lose one of its best physicians, Dr. Hollister having decided to move to Portland about the first of June. The doctor will be greatly missed, especially by the needy, whom he is ever ready to give assistance, regardless of the fact that there is often no remuneration for the services rendered. The Condon Globe has the following concerning Dr. Hudson, who is to take the doctor's office here: "Dr. J. H. Hudson returned Saturday from Portland and The Dalles, where he spent last week on a business trip. His many friends here will be somewhat surprised to learn that he has formed a partnership with Dr. Hollister at The Dalles and will move to that city and take charge of his new practice within a few weeks. Dr. Hollister is said to have the most extensive and lucrative practice in Eastern Oregon, and while we regret to lose Dr. Hudson from Condon we wish him abundant success in his new field."

Mr. W. C. Kelman, the assayer for the Mayflower Mining Co., came into The Dalles this morning, called to Portland on business for his company. Mr. Kelman is the man who was chiefly instrumental in getting Jacobsen and Bartholome across the hill from Mitchell to Prineville when they were in a place where horses had to be discarded for man. Mr. K. admits that the inducements held out by Marx & Jorgeson's representative were paramount in the deal, but just the same the Mayflower Mining Co., of Portland, of which W. P. Keady is president, deserve credit for help in the time of need, which was extended to our fellow townsman, Jacobsen. The Mayflower people have a smelter on the Ochoco which is turning ten tons of $50 ore into one ton of $500 matter, and can afford to ship the same to the refineries, with a big profit margin. In the persons of Keady & Co. Crook county has a progressive company, who will bring their property to the front, and no doubt the Mayflower will prove to be one of the leading producing mines of Central Oregon.

"WHEN SHE WON'T SHE WON'T."

Mrs. Cowan's Case is a Parallel One With That of Many Other Women.

Mrs. Cowan, of Warm Springs, is causing any amount of sensation in Portland, because she seems to be about to prove the assertion that when "she won't she won't" and that's the end of it," and her friends here are inclined to hope she will leave not a doubt in the minds of those who are watching her case with interest that Adam Hill made no mistake when he penned that old saying.

While no one delights in seeing a citizen of the state defy the law, attorneys in this city are persuaded that no law can require Mrs. Cowan to sign her name to a deed transferring her right in the property to the Bank of California. That at least the $5000 left her by her father and which she expended on the property is her's, and that she can claim it in defiance of all claims to the contrary. The question is, had they the right to sell her property for the debt.

It seems that while Mrs. Cowan has since her arrest been staying with her daughter, Mrs. Eva Meikel, the counsel for the plaintiff now demands that she be confined in the county jail. United States Marshal Houser, however, refuses to accede to this demand, as he claims to have discretion to detain Mrs. Cowan so long as he can produce her when wanted by the United States court. The bank's attorneys, it is said, will institute proceedings against the marshal to compel him to remove the defendant to a safer place of custody than the home of her daughter, on the East Side. Counsel's motive for pursuing this course is to force Mrs. Cowan to obey the decree of the court, which she persistently refuses to do.

From all that her friends in this city know of Mrs. Cowan they do not deem it necessary for the officers to place her in confinement. She is not a woman who would be a coward, but simply desires her rights.

It is too often the case nowadays that women thoughtlessly, or through the persuasion of others, sign away the only home they have or ever expect to have, and in old age are left to wander from pillar to post homeless. It is not to be wondered that any woman when viewing the matter in the right light, will refuse so to do if there is any honorable means of avoiding it. While unlike "Nora" of the "Doll's House," they may have weightier arguments than that "It is a strange law which would compel a woman to give up the only home she had," yet every citizen in the state will certainly commend Mrs. Cowan in contesting the matter as long as there is the slightest vestige of hope.

Another Company There.

Another road is fighting for right of way to Goldendale. A dispatch from that place says:

"The Columbia Railway and Navigation Company has filed a suit in the superior court to condemn 200 feet right of way across state lands near Rockland. The complaint alleges that the desired right of way is across the parcel of land between ordinary high-water mark and low-water mark in the Columbia river in front of lots 1, 2 and 3, in section 17, township 2 north, range 13 east of Willamette meridian. The land to be appropriated is about 13 acres. Some years ago the Columbia Railway & Navigation Company laid the track on three miles of road that extended west from Columbus landing, opposite Biggs station. The present proceeding in court is believed to be a resumption of the work that was suspended during the depression. The original plans of the company were to afford open river transportation by way of The Dalles portage, which is to be constructed. When The Dalles rapids are overcome, navigation will be open to tide water from Lewiston and Asotin on the Upper Snake. Captain J. S. Cochrane, who was recently in Goldendale on a tour of inspection, is said to be interested in the proceedings. It is reported that a number of important condemnation proceedings will be begun soon by the company."

With each returning season the Lozier Manufacturing Co. show something new and desirable in Bicycle construction.

This season finds them with more good things than ever. One of these good things is the BERWELL BALL and ROLLER BEARING.

Examine the illustration—notice particularly that the little steel roller between the balls transfers the motion without interruption and the Balls cannot grind together as in ordinary bearings.
