WAYSIDE GLEANINGS.

For a nice suit of clothes call on J. A. Eberle, the tailor.

A free health lecture will be given at the Viavi offices, over French's bank, next Thursday at 2:30 p. m.

Articles of incorporation of the Boyd Water Company, and also of the First M. E. church were filed in the clerk's office today.

The admirers of Lew Wallace's "Ben Hur" will learn with a great deal of satisfaction that that famous work is to be dramatized, with the consent of the author.

E. S. Olinger arrived in the city last evening, and left on the boat this morning with his prisoner, John Epping, who escaped from him last Wednesday at Hood River.

Carrie Byerlee, L. L. Ellis and Thor. Hopkins, of school district No. 2, near man in the Baker City district. Mr. Page, of the same party, goes to the Spokane district.

The lawns of our city are now overrun with dandelions, which is one of the worst enemies of a pretty lawn imaginable. In some lots such a foothold has been gained that there is no alternative, they must be plowed up and re-sown in grass. However, if they have only gotten a start, the best thing to do is to patiently dig them up by the roots looking to it that there are none bordering the outside walks, from which the seeds can blow.

Miss Adams is unable to be at her desk in Pease & Mays' office today on account of a slight accident which she experienced yesterday at noon. When coasting down the grade at the west end of Fourth street on her bicycle, she fell from her wheel and striking some rocks broke the wheel and was bruised up pretty badly. She is particularly unfortunate, as about a year ago she experienced a similar accident. It is thought she will be able to be about in a few days.

H. L. Vorse, manager of the Oregon Telephone Company, returned last night from a business trip in Colorado. Mr. Vorse says that they experienced a terrible winter in that state, and that the railroads are just beginning to recover from the blockade. One thing that greatly surprised him on his trip was the fact that the people in that state seem to be more thoroughly informed concerning the mining interests of our state than are we ourselves, and in going away from home he learned just how famous Oregon is becoming in that regard.

There is a fierce opposition now raging on the Goldendale line to the Dalles. Oscar Vanhoy has put a stage on the road and will endeavor to get a share of the business. This week he put out posters announcing his rates. They are $1.50 one way or a return trip for $2.50. Alvord, who carries the U. S. mail, tells us that he is not afraid of any competitor. In fact, he says, he is now doing a better business than ever, most of the time being loaded down to the guards. A merry old fight is evidently now on, however.—Sentinel.

The itinerary of the National Editorial Association in our state will be as follows. They will arrive via Huntington, Sunday, July 2, and will breakfast at Baker City, partake of one of Grandma Munra's celebrated dinners, spend a few hours in La Grande and run to Pendleton for supper. After remaining a few hours there they will start for Portland, reaching the Dalles for breakfast, take boats for Hood River, stopping there for dinner; thence to Vancouver for supper, reaching Portland in the evening. After the close of the session, July 7, the time until the evening of July 16 will be spent in Portland.

Residents in the vicinity of Ward & Kerns' stable last evening were much entertained by some trick riding on a bicycle, the performer being the dignified scribe of the Times-Mountaineer. His favorite trick seemed to be striking the ground with full force and almost plying his form. And then having writhed his column (spinal) he would gaze about as if in search of an item or a delinquent subscriber. His antics were amusing, and were calculated to lead one to believe the Mountaineer had better do its climbing on foot instead of attempting to wheel its way through the world.

The will of the late Horace Knight, dated April 3, 1899, was filed in probate today, with B. S. Huntington as administrator. The estate is said to be valued at about $80,000. The will provides that after the personal affairs of the deceased are adjusted, $1000 each be bequeathed to Abbie Knight, wife of Allen Knight, and Horace Johnson, both of Grant county, and to Miss Julia Butler and Mamie Butler, both of Providence, E. I. One-eighth of the remainder of the estate to Anna Knight and one-eighth to Frank Knight, children of N. Knight, of Providence. One-tenth of the remainder to each of the following: Henry Knight, George Knight, Carrie Knight, Mrs. Mary Bowen, Mrs. Addie Green, Mrs. Lydia Butler, all of Providence; also to Edwin Knight and Ella Johnson, of Grant county.

THE MAN WITH THE RAKE.

Read the Last Part of This Article—It Means You.

Everyone who has driven over the roads leading out of the city has been gratified to notice that the man with the hoe, or rather the shovel, has been at work, about $400 of the general fund having been spent in repairing them in every direction. The Ninth street road is perhaps the only one which it was impossible at present to improve, it being determined that it would require at least $3000 to accomplish anything at all toward bettering its condition, and there is really no necessity for passing over it in driving in that direction, as the road over Mill creek bridge answers the purpose.

Now that the city has done its part in the much-needed work, the county should follow suit and do its part. A good place to make their debut in the work would be by at once placing a force of men at work on the famous Thompson Addition route, the city's jurisdiction only reaching as far as the east side of the Rowe place, at the top of the brewery grade.

And now we have the extreme pleasure of informing the citizens of The Dalles that the marshal this morning began the work of cleaning the streets of our city, removing rubbish, etc. A force of men was put to work, and will continue till the city looks as if civilized people dwelt therein.

But the question is, how long will they remain so? If past experience is any criterion, just until some store keeper or other citizen unthoughtfully dumps a ton of loose papers, old rags, old irons or old bottles right into the principal thoroughfares, and only so long. It would keep an immense force of men continually busy until doomsday to make the city look only respectable at the rate we have been going of late. It is a disgrace to any town or even piggery to be so littered with rubbish of all kinds as are our streets most of the time. Whose fault is it? No one in particular. Everyone in general. Let us begin anew and assist the marshal in "scrubbing up." Let us take pride enough in the city to keep our premises and surroundings neat.

Now as to where the "price" is to come from for the work which is now being done. Perhaps when you realize that the road tax is to meet this necessary expense, you will not be compelled to "whitewash a load of coal" or "give a Chinaman a music lesson" just when you see the collector approaching. Any way you only delay the agony of paying over your little $4, for the city declares it shall be paid, if not in one way, in another.

But then, when you have read the CHRONICLE and realize it is to assist you in wading out of the debris which surrounds you, certainly you will hesitate no longer, but come up like a little man and help yourself out.

Let us not cause visitors to our city to turn up their noses and say: "What dirty streets one encounters in The Dalles."

Mrs. Cowan Wins.

Last evening's Telegram has the following concerning Mrs. Cowan's case, which will be read with a great deal of satisfaction by those who heartily sympathized with her, and many who felt the opposition was merely running a "bluff" on her:

"Mrs. Sarah E. Cowan, who a week ago was brought here under a decree of the United States district court to compel her to make conveyance of certain real property sold under execution by the United States marshal to satisfy a judgment against her husband held by the Bank of California, was discharged from custody this afternoon.

"The discharge was made upon her own application and not opposed by Mr. Zera Snow, counsel for the bank. But, on the other hand, Mr. Snow waived the right to demand that she pay the costs of the proceedings, he paying them himself."

What Will We Do About It?

Another plan for benefiting the city and at the same time saving hundreds of dollars to the producers is suggested by the following communication. It should not be passed over lightly, but considered, and plans at once laid to the end intended by the writer. A cannery would be just the thing for The Dalles people to invest in. "Producer" says:

Editor CHRONICLE: We believe the time is fully ripe for a move to be made in the direction of saving a portion of the hundreds of tons of fruit in and about The Dalles that annually goes to waste. A conservative estimate would place the amount either wasted upon a glutted market or never gathered for the same reason at somewhere from $5,000 to $10,000. This sum dispersed among the producers and wage earners of this community would be of benefit to all the people of this municipality. What we need is an institution that can take the raw material and make of it a finished article that can wait until the market is ready to receive it, thereby tending to enhance the price of green fruit to a paying figure.

How this is to be brought about is the question of the hour. As for us we believe it needs the thrift, foresight, determination and experience of the man of business.

Hence we would suggest that the producers and business men of The Dalles and vicinity come together and formulate plans. If this can be done it will be a step toward prosperity. Can we hear from the business man? What say you.
