WAYSIDE GLEANINGS.

John Griffith is booked to appear at the Vogt on the evening of May 15th in "The Avenger."

The river has begun to rise again slightly and while it stood at 12.4 yesterday morning, this morning it stood at 12.9.

The marshal appeareth with blood in his eye and declareth agin' the bicycles. Today is the last day of grace. Keep off the sidewalks tomorrow or pay your fine.

The dining car came through on this afternoon's west-bound. The car is said to be a beautiful one; but not being invited to partake of its contents, we cannot say as to the puddin' contained therein.

A special train, consisting of five cars, passed through the city flying last night about 10 o'clock. On board was the Bostonian opera company, and 'tis said they made the trip from Portland to Umatilla in six hours.

The transcript of the condemnation proceeding in the case of U. S. vs. Seufert, composed of seventy-eight pages, is now at the clerk's office in this city to be recorded. This is the case in which $9000 was allowed by the government for the Seufert property over which the boat railway is proposed to be built.

Last evening about 7 o'clock, at his home on the corner of Tenth and Union streets, Justice of the Peace Bayard performed the ceremony which united in marriage George E. Mann and Nettie May Cook. The groom is a young farmer who now has a place near the English farm, eight miles from the city; while the bride is the second daughter of O. W. Cook, of 3-Mile.

California strawberries are making their appearance in our markets; but as yet few Oregon berries are seen. Last Tuesday Mrs. Coventon picked a few from her vines and Friday there were some brought in from Seufert's place. Farmers along Mill creek report their crop almost ruined by the late frosts. Sandoz says he has lost about $500 from damage to his berries, as but a few escaped.

There'll be an exciting time at the old fair ground on the afternoon of May 30th if the employes of A. M. Williams & Co.'s store accept the challenge of the boys at Mays & Crowe's. When hardware challenges dry goods, something must "drap." The young ladies are already anxious to determine what their colors will be. "After the ball" they'll probably be black and blue. Another question is, which are the favorites?

Capt. W. S. Hart, who has charge of the rivers and harbors of the Pacific coast, spent yesterday in The Dalles. He was here for the purpose of looking over the proposed railway above The Dalles. While the ship railway was knocked out by congress at its recent session, those who ought to know seem to think that if the people were to petition congress regarding the boat railway, that they would prevail. Would it not be a good plan to see what can be done?

The tenth annual junior exhibition of the University of Oregon took place in Eugene Friday evening. Among the names of the orators were those of Homer D. Angell and Miss Daisie Allaway, of The Dalles. The former took as his subject "The Prospective Relations Between the United States and the Far East," and the latter "Oregon Scenery in Poetry." The students who are attending the university from The Dalles are such as are a credit to any town and we are proud of their attainments.

Sheepshearing is now starting up in Klickitat, says Mr. Alex. Hamilton, the sheep inspector, who has just returned from an official trip. The sheep are in a very good condition in the main and but very little scab prevails. The two principal points for shearing this season will be in the vicinity of Pleasant and Blockhouse. Probably the greater number will be sheared at the former station. The wool from both places will be hauled to The Dalles. The market is not booming and wool sales will be slow.—Agriculturalist.

Travel to the seaside this season will not only be expeditious, but unprecedentedly comfortable. The convenience of railroad travel is already a matter of one season's experience; and to this facility is this year to be added the O. R. & N.'s roomy and luxuriously appointed steamer Hassalo, whose unofficial trial trip yesterday developed phenomenal speed. All such encouragements as these to the rest and relaxation of summer outings are means of grace to a too-busy generation. The average American needs nothing more than to take a day off and renew both mind and body.—Oregonian.

George H. Himes, who is so well known over Oregon as one of the early pioneer printers, and who is so thoroughly conversant with everything connected with the early history of our state, is in the city today. He is assistant secretary of the Oregon Historical Society, and comes here in its interest. On June 15th the association will celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of the United States extending territorial jurisdiction over Oregon and the fortieth anniversary of the admission of Oregon as a state. All persons who came to, or were born in the original territory of Oregon prior to February 14, 1859, are eligible to membership in the association.

Arthur, youngest son of Capt. and Mrs. Waud, celebrated his tenth birthday at his home on Fourth and Liberty streets Saturday afternoon by giving a Dewey party to some of his boy friends. Part of the time was spent in games and music, until Mr. Kinersly arrived and took their pictures, after which they were seated at the table, where an elegant lunch was prepared, which only Dewey boys can enjoy. The table was decorated with cut flowers and flags. The young Deweys were waited upon by Miss Bertha Geer, of Portland, and Fred and Hazel Waud. Those invited were Mrs. Myers, his Sunday School teacher, Guy Douthit, Raymond Neil, Raymond and Ernest Halfpapp, Pearly Haslem, Lindon Garrison, Clinton Bradshaw, Roger and Ted Seufert, Guy Jones, Henry and Adolph Buchler, Harry Walther, Johnny Stevens, Frederick Bronson, James Kinersly, Lawrence McArthur and Earl Swain.

For some time past the Taine class has been taking up a course of papers relative to the early history of Oregon, which have proven at once interesting and instructive. The subjects so far treated have been: "Prehistoric Discoveries," "Discovery of the Columbia," "Expeditions of Lewis and Clark," "Settlement of Astoria," "Early Explorations—Premissionary," "Methodist Missions Under Jason Lee and Reinforcements," "Whitman and Spaulding and Successors," "Provisional Government," "Printing and Newspapers," "Emigrations," "Historical Reminiscences," "The Ashburton Treaty," Others which are yet to be taken up will be: "Physical Characteristics of Oregon—Reference to Climate, Agriculture, Mines, Forests, Commerce and Trade," "The Jetty at the Mouth of the Columbia—Construction, etc.," "Louisiana Purchase," "Settlement of French Prairie." It is the intention to give at least two public lectures in the near future, to which the class will invite all interested—as we all are. The first will probably be by Prof. Lyman, of Whitman College, who is a very interesting speaker. He will lecture on May 19th, taking as his subject "Benjamin Franklin, the Typical American Statesman." Another lecture, which cannot fail to interest, will be one by George H. Himes on "The History of the Literature of Oregon." He will no doubt be here on May 22d.

MAY NOT COME HOME NOW.

Aguinaldo's Surrender May Delay the Volunteers.

The report that Aguinaldo has decided to surrender does not brighten the prospects of the volunteers early home coming. In fact the chances were better for their coming soon had the war continued. In that event, regulars would be hurried to the Philippines as rapidly as possible, and the volunteers relieved as fast as they could be spared.

Since Aguinaldo has announced that he will give up the fight it will not be necessary, however, to keep a large army there until the terms of surrender are completed, and the country is under good control.

The volunteers being there, they will be kept for this purpose, very likely, until regulars can be sent to take their places, without rushing matters through.

It would never do to weaken the army now in the Philippines, for as soon as that was done, the wily Aguinaldo would decide to begin hostilities again. Even the sending home of the volunteers at this juncture would have a bad effect upon peace negotiations, even though regulars were in hand to take their places.

No doubt the boys will be sent home before very long, but the cessation of hostilities has had more of a tendency to put the time off than to hasten it.

There is one consolation, however, the boys can go into camp, and will not be exposed to the damp, disease-breeding battle-fields during the bad season.—Telegram.

PERSONAL MENTION.

F. B. Stimson is over from Goldendale. Chas. Lord was down from Arlington yesterday.

Mrs. J. P. Province is in the city from Mitchell.

A. R. Wilcox came down from Moro yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Cyrus arrived from Prineville this morning.

Mrs. N. Eager and daughter arrived from Salt Lake yesterday morning.

Frank T. Hurlburt came down from Arlington Saturday night and spent yesterday in the city.

Hugh Jackson and wife were in the city yesterday, on their way from Wapinitia to their home at Arlington.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Weigel left on Saturday night's train for Omaha, Neb., where they will visit their son, Wm. Weigel, and family.

Mrs. Edith Gates, who favored the audience at the Congregational church last night with a solo entitled "The Holy City," returned to her home in Portland today. She will probably return in the fall and organize a class in vocal culture, Blue Roses at Last.

The blue rose, which, with the black, has so long been the subject of horticultural research, has made its appearance in Bulgaria, a district renowned for its attar of roses. The owner of the blue rose is M. Stantcheff, who when visiting his collections one day noticed on a bush that had hitherto produced blooms of a pale rose color five greenish-blue roses of a hue recalling the delicate tints of the turquoise. Samples of the soil wherein this rare plant has grown have been sent to the chemical laboratory of Sofia to be minutely analyzed. It is known to be rich in lime, ammonia, salts of copper and oxide of iron.

With each returning season the Lozier Manufacturing Co. show something new and desirable in Bicycle construction. This season finds them with more good things than ever. One of these good things is the BURWELL BALL and ROLLER BEARING. Examine the illustration—notice particularly that the little steel roller between the balls transfers the motion without interruption and the balls cannot grind together as in ordinary bearings.
