REPUBLIC OF SPAIN.

There is stirring in Spain a republican spirit which is daily becoming stronger, says the Spokesman-Review. The liberal party in that unfortunate country, with Sagasta at the head of it, appears to be fallen forever. The liberty-loving people of the kingdom—and there are many of them—have come to the conclusion that Sagasta's party can offer no relief from the burdens upon the land. The monarchy is becoming more and more unpopular. It has shown a retroactive tendency, against which a vigorous protest is being made by all classes of people, save a few of the more hidebound king-worshippers. The army and navy are discredited. Carlism is deemed strong enough to produce civil war, but too weak to triumph, and the radical ideas of kingly government promulgated by Don Carlos smack too much of a bygone age to be popular in this day and generation, even in Spain.

Vigorous old Emilio Castelar, president of the short lived republic of 1873, stands at the head of the republican movement and leads a strong following in the cortes. He said the other day in Madrid that toward the latter part of this month 100,000 moderate republicans will put their names to an address demanding a republic. "The republican form of government," said he, "is the only system that will regenerate this country, preserve order and establish a reign of liberty, justice and morality. The people of Spain, despite their misfortunes, have not sunk so low that they will accept the royal regime of the 17th century. Our people displayed indifference about the triple defeat at Manila and on land and sea at Santiago, for the simple reason that the war with the Filipinos was unpopular; but it is not by any means the same thing when domestic questions are at stake. Here it is a matter of liberty or despotism, of life or death."

And so it may be that the republic of Spain may soon take her place beside the other republics of the world.

There is some style about the proceedings in the Wardner mining district to punish the dynamiters and murderers and discourage the operations of such men in the future, says the Salem Statesman. The guilty are to be brought to justice, if possible, and their criminal organization is to be stamped out. Whenever any such organization prostitutes its principles and becomes a mere combination of boycotters, bulldozers and criminals, it ought to be suppressed. This is a free country. Men have a right to organize for mutual benefit and protection of their interests. But they have no right to use such organizations to shield themselves in outrageous and criminal acts. When they do, they should be stamped out. The state, if it fails to stamp out, fails to perform one of the important functions of its organization, the protection of individuals in their private rights.

I consider it not only a pleasure but a duty I owe to my neighbors to tell about the wonderful cure effected in my case by the timely use of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. I was taken very badly with flux and procured a bottle of this remedy. A few doses of it effected a permanent cure. I take pleasure in recommending it to others suffering from that dreadful disease.—J. W. LYNN, Dorr, W. Va. This remedy is sold by Blakeley & Houghton, never been claimed that Chamberlain's Pain Balm would cast out demons, but it will cure rheumatism, and hundreds bear testimony to the truth of this statement. One application relieves the pain and this quick relief which it affords is alone worth many times its cost. For sale by Blakeley & Houghton.
