GENERAL ORDERS NO. 8.

A Call for the Observance of Decoration Day, May 30th.

By request of James W. Nesmith Post, No. 32, we publish the following general orders, No. 8, which have been received from headquarters at Philadelphia:

"Comrades:—In accordance with the requirements and customs of our order the senior vice-commander-in-chief calls attention to the approaching Memorial Day, May 30, 1899, confident that every comrade of the Grand Army of the Republic will unite in paying our annual tribute of flag and flowers to the memory of men who, in days gone by, fought for the unity of the nation, the purity and truth of the flag, and who stood ready to yield up their lives to secure to us as a people the inestimable blessing of liberty.

"The year closing with the next Memorial Day has added new strength and power to the nation and new glory to the flag. The worth and the fame of the American soldier and sailor has been gloriously advanced. The achievements of the 'days of the sixties' still remain, and have rendered possible the glorious victories won in the interests of liberty and humanity. Let us, then, on Memorial Day, strew Spring's choicest flowers in tenderness and love upon the grave of every defender of the republic, and in song, story and fitting ceremony recall the services and unmatched sacrifice of those who, sleeping in the gardens of the sea or in the bosom of the nation, their place of sepulchre unmarked and unknown, gave not only their lives but their very name for their country.

"The men whose memory is perpetuated by the loving service of Memorial Day were part of the greatest comradeship the world has ever known. Let us, who still survive, be so earnest in our tribute, so pure in our affection, and so loving in our remembrance of them, that the lessons of patriotism which we teach shall find a lodgment in the hearts of all the people, binding all together in devotion to flag and country.

"It is enjoined upon every Post that, in accordance with a custom now firmly established, they attend divine service on the Sunday preceding Memorial Day.

"The Thirteenth National Encampment provided that the reading of President Lincoln's address at Gettysburg be made a special feature in all Memorial Day exercises conducted under the auspices of the Grand Army of the Republic."

Following is a portion of General Orders, No. 7, from the headquarters at Portland:

"In compliance with the rules and regulations of the order, Memorial Day, May the thirtieth, will be observed by the officers and members of all Posts throughout the department, in commemoration of the deeds of our fallen comrades.

"It is now thirty-one years since this Memorial Day was instituted, and during these long years our ranks have grown thin and gray, and each succeeding Memorial Day we are called on to visit the new graves of hundreds of our comrades who have gone before to the reunion of the Grand Army above.

"Let us, then, on the appointed day, gather round their last resting places, and raising above them the dear old flag they loved so well, strew their graves with choicest garlands, and renew our pledges of loyalty to country and flag, and our surviving comrades, especially those who are in want or suffering from disease and wounds.

"The clergy of all denominations are respectfully invited to give one service on Sunday, May 28, 1899, as a memorial service, and Post Commanders will, through their decoration committees, see that this request be conveyed to them, and all comrades are urged to attend such services."
