FRIDAY - - - - JUNE 2, 1899
JOE WHEELER IN BOSTON.

Memorial day observations in different parts of the country were noticeable for a reiteration of those expressions of good will between North and South, which have been one of the healthiest manifestations growing out of the late war. Both above and below the old Mason and Dixon line there was affiliation between the veterans of both Federal and Confederate armies, and in word and deed alike there was evidence to show that past differences are healing and that sectional lines are all but obliterated.

Perhaps as noteworthy an incident as any in connection with the day's celebration was the appearance of General Joe Wheeler in Boston. The old cavalry leader not only attended the exercises, but was the orator of the day before a post of the Grand Army of the Republic and in the very cradle of abolition. The greeting accorded him could hardly have been warmer or more cordial; in fact, a man who forty years ago would, possibly, have been thrust from the community, was welcomed with a tumultuous ovation such as has rarely been equalled in a locality that has witnessed many remarkable demonstrations.

It all goes to place in a strong light one of the incidental, but all-important, results of the late war with Spain. Time, no doubt, was gradually softening the once harsh feelings which estranged the North and the South, but the coming of an era of good feeling and genuine fraternity was hastened and brought about by the creation of a common cause through which all sections might be brought together.

The call to rally around the flag was answered in no other locality with more loyalty and enthusiasm than in the South, and the heroism of her sons, old and young, on land and on sea, took the form of a splendid but sacred pledge that she forever is in and of and for the Union.

They are excited in Chicago over tuberculosis in the cows. Every one of twenty-three cows examined at the stock yards was found to be suffering from the disease. Although there was no outward sign, each one was found to have consumption in an advanced stage. From the lungs of one a pint of germs was taken, and another had tuberculosis of the liver. Yet milk from all these cows was sold in the Chicago market a week ago. Very little is being done in Oregon to keep the disease down, or very little that is made public, as we have said. A few years ago this state was comparatively free from tuberculosis in the cows. Ours had a better record than any other state. But the record cannot be maintained without eternal vigilance. We do not wish to get any one excited. But constant work ought to be done by those charged with the duty of protecting the cows, and the people through their milk, from the ravages of consumption.

Ants that eat paper money have turned up in the Philippines, and only American gold and silver will be used to pay the army. The populists as well as the sluggard can now be referred to the industrious insect to gain wisdom.

Would Not Suffer So Again for Fifty Times Its Price.

I awoke last night with severe pains in my stomach. I never felt so badly in all my life. When I came down to work this morning I felt so weak I could hardly work. I went to Miller & McCurdy's drug store and they recommended Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. It worked like magic and one dose fixed me all right. It certainly is the finest thing I ever used for stomach trouble. I shall not be without it in my home hereafter, for I should not care to endure the sufferings of last night again for fifty times its price.—G. H. WILSON, Liveryman, Burgettstown, Washington Co., Pa. This remedy is for sale by Blakeley & Houghton, Druggists.

Don't think you can cure that slight attack of Dyspepsia by dieting, or that it will cure itself. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure will cure it; it "digests what you eat" and restores the digestive organs to health. Snipes-Kinersly Drug Co.
