WAYSIDE GLEANINGS.

Ladies tailor-made suits at half-price. See A. M. Williams & Co.'s ad.

Genevieve, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Fritz is very dangerously ill of pneumonia.

D. M. French is having a new sidewalk and fence placed around his residence on Fourth and Court streets.

John Little, an extensive sheep raiser, shipped twenty car loads, or about 6000 head, to the grazing lands of North Dakota this morning.

The business houses were closed this afternoon during the hour of the funeral of Mrs. R. F. Gibbons, to allow the employers and employees to attend.

Ground was broken yesterday preparatory to laying the foundation for a residence to be built by Ed. M. Williams, on the Williams lot on Fourth street, between Washington and Federal.

The Kindergarten, which has been taught by the Misses Taylor, will close their term on Friday next, and the exercises will take place in the audience room of the First Baptist church at 2 o'clock. All friends and those interested in the work are invited to be present. j6-3rd

Louie Comini left yesterday morning for Walla Walla and the country intervening in the interest of his marble works. During his absence Mr. Wickes will have charge of the business here.

At a meeting of the school board held this morning the present corps of teachers of the public schools was re-elected. It is possible another teacher may be employed, which matter will be attended to later.

Mr. Elmore Rice, an accomplished violinist, who has been giving recitals in different cities throughout the United States, arrived in The Dalles last evening, and will no doubt give a recital here. He is at present calling upon those who are musically inclined with that purpose in view.

It is reported that the O. R. & N. agent at Elgin had taken French leave, and is alleged to have taken with him various valuables which were not exactly his own property. It was Saturday or Sunday that the event happened, and he has not yet been captured. The amount taken was not large.

A few clips of wool are being sold at the warehouses, but often are private sales and consequently reporters are not informed as to the price. Wool is still arriving; but not so fast as in other years. Presumably there is some hesitancy in regard to high water; but we are informed at the warehouses that we are to have no high water. They probably know whereof they speak. We don't.

So varied have been the reports concerning the return of the soldier boys that one scarcely knows whether to place any confidence in the dispatches or not. One day they inform us that we may expect them immediately "if not sooner," and the following day we learn they cannot be spared. Yesterday's dispatches say that General Otis advises the war department that the Oregon regiment of volunteers will leave for the United States this week. It will be sent direct to Portland for muster out at Vancouver barracks.

Early last week Thomas Maloney, who was employed as a deck hand by the D. P. & A. N. Co., lacerated his arm with a saw and was given some liniment by one of his fellow workmen, which seemed to heal it rapidly, and little attention was paid to the wound until it began to swell and became very sore. It was then reopened and a course of treatment begun. However, it grew worse and blood poisoning has set in. Yesterday he was very dangerously ill, and although slightly improved today, he is still in danger of losing his life.

The most interesting topic of conversation and conjecture seems to be the Columbia river, and the question as to whether or not it is to encroach upon the property of citizens so as to compel them to turn over their titles in its favor. This morning it stood at 33.5, a rise of 1.1 since yesterday. At Lewiston the Snake has fallen 1.4, and reports say the weather is much cooler in that section. However, they also inform us that tomorrow the Columbia will stand at 35, and will raise three feet before Thursday, on that date reaching the 38 mark.

Rests Beneath the Sweetest Flowers.

As might be expected, a very large number of friends attended the funeral of the late Mrs. R. F. Gibbons this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the residence on Fourth and Liberty street. Nothing could be more fitting than that there should be a profusion of flowers, for during her life time it was a noticeable fact that wherever her lot was cast there she surrounded herself with the sweetest of blossoms, and on the altar of the Congregational church Sunday morning was a beautiful bouquet of white peonies, which was an offering from her, and which was placed on her grave this afternoon, with the numerous tokens from her many friends, among which were bouquets from each member of the Ladies' Aid Society.

The congregational choir sang very sweetly "O sweetly solemn thought" and Dr. Doan sang a solo, "Thy Will Be Done." At the close of a most impressive and eloquent eulogy on the life of the departed by Rev. Poling, her pastor, the choir again sang a hymn which was an especial favorite of Mrs. Gibbons, entitled "Hold Thou My Hand."

The following friends acted as pall bearers, tenderly consigning to her last resting place all that remained of one who was so universal a favorite: Messrs J. M. Marden, J. P. McInerney, W. L. Bradshaw, J. B. Crossen, J. W. French and F. L. Brooks.

She now rests beneath a coverlet of flowers, which were her favorite companions in life and the last to remain with and watch over her after death.

THE EDITORS ARE COMING.

How Shall We Receive Them—Little Time for Preparation.

Less than a month will intervene before about 500 editors from all over the United States will spend a few hours in the city on their way to the meeting in Portland. They will stop over in The Dalles at the invitation of the Commercial Club. So far as we can learn nothing has been done toward entertaining them. Such a matter is no doubt safe in the hands of the club, which always fills its part of the contract, and will surely do so when by their special invitation these representative men are guests in the city. However, it does seem that our citizens in general should be taking more interest in the matter. Perhaps they do not fully realize what it means to have such a body of men in our midst. It is the opportunity of a life time to receive advertising, which is more far reaching than any that could possibly be obtained in other ways.

Then, The Dalles, having the reputation for being the largest wool shipping point in the United States and with the various resources with which she is blessed, cannot afford to allow every other place along the line of their route to give them such a royal greeting, and fall behind herself. Something should be done at once or such will surely be the case.

As there will be but about two hours given us in which to entertain them, and breakfast will be taken here, would it not be well to follow the suggestions already given, which were as follows: To have on hand at the Umatilla House, where breakfast will be served, some of our best strawberries and cherries, flowers and everything that will make the tables attractive. Then some literature, descriptive of the city and its resources, should be given them, that they may have something to refer to in future write-ups.

A good plan also would be to show them about the city, taking them to the warehouses and through our business houses, and, in order to give them an idea of our beautiful scenery, they should be driven up on the bluff. To do this we would be compelled to call upon all who have conveyances, single or double buggies, wagons, etc., and perhaps arrange to take a portion of them at a time. In this way the hours could be spent pleasantly and in a manner which will leave a good impression on our visitors and be a lasting benefit to our city.

There is little time for preparation; let our leading business men and citizens take the proper interest in the matter.

The Optical Jewelry Company.

It is always a pleasure to see such places of business as that of the Daut Optical Jewelry Co. being started in our city, for that is truly one that is not usually found in a place the size of The Dalles. First, one is attracted by the immense show window, dressed with the greatest of taste, and filled with the finest of jewelry, clocks, and in fact everything in that line. At the back an optical room is partitioned off with a railing, at the top of which curtains will be placed, so that passers by cannot gaze therein. This room is neatly and completely fitted up with every apparatus for testing the eyes. The floor of the entire building is covered with pretty linoleum, while the furnishings are the best to be found in such stores.

Daut & Stonfer have a stock of goods, from which one can select anything they may desire as readily as they could in a store in any of our large cities. Call and see their goods.
