HENDERSON FOR SPEAKER.

It seems to be a foregone conclusion that Congressman David B. Henderson, of Iowa, will be the speaker of the next national house of representatives. The somewhat sudden and unexpected announcement that Mr. Reed was to retire to private life resulted in a confusion of candidacies for the place made vacant, for few men have had the assurance to aspire to the position while Mr. Reed was in the house, and his overtowering powers of leadership and remarkably strong personality have been enough to re-elect him presiding officer without any serious show of opposition. His withdrawal from public life left a free field with no one candidate possessing any especial advantage over any other, and so early a settlement of the question, with so many aspirants in the field, was hardly anticipated.

The question of sectional lines has never been a matter of serious controversy latterly in connection with the choice of a speaker, the honor having fallen in nearly every instance to an acknowledged party leader. Out of thirteen speakers in the last fifty years, eight have represented states on the Atlantic sea board. They were Cobb and Crisp of Georgia, Blaine and Reed of Maine, Banks of Massachusetts, Orr of South Carolina, Pennington of New Jersey and Randall of Pennsylvania. Speakers from west of the Allegheny mountains were Boyd and Carlisle of Kentucky, Colfax and Kerr of Indiana, and Keifer of Ohio.

Colonel Henderson is perhaps as well qualified for the speakership as any of the persons named in connection with it, and, in view of the importance of some present day questions, the choice of the Western man is not out of place. He has lived fifty years in Iowa, has had sixteen years' experience, and, although he has to follow in the footsteps of one of the few remarkable men of his time, his career as speaker is not unlikely to be acceptable to his party, the country and himself. Colonel Henderson is no: a masterful character like Mr. Reed, and he has never shown that he possesses the intellect, force, courage and unique qualities of leadership such as have distinguished the man from Maine. But for all that it is reasonably safe to predict that he will be an eminently fair, impartial and honest presiding officer, and that as such his best energies will be devoted to the prompt and intelligent dispatch of public business.—Spokesman—Review

The Times-Mountaineer says the proposition to establish a fruit evaporator in The Dalles is "meeting with such encouragement that it is almost an assured fact." Perhaps our Bunchgrass contemporary would be interested to know that in the country surrounding Salem there is a fruit evaporator on nearly every other farm. Some of them are large ones, too, and capable of taking care of enormous quantities of fruit. Yet it was only a few years ago that Salem put up her first evaporator, and made a great "to do" about it. If you raise fruit up there, you must have evaporators to save it from wasting.—Salem Statesman.

Glorious News.

Comes from Dr. D. B. Cargile, of Washita, I. T. He writes: "Four bottles of Electric Bitters has cured Mrs. Brewer of scrofula, which had caused her great suffering for years. Terrible sores would break out on her head and face, and the best doctors could give no help; but her cure is complete and her health is excellent." This shows what thousands have proved,—that Electric Bitters is the best blood purifier known. It's the supreme remedy for eczema, tetter, salt rheum, ulcers, boils and running sores. It stimulates liver, kidneys and bowels, expels poisons, helps digestion and builds up the strength. Only 50 cents. Sold by Blakeley & Houghton, Druggists. Guaranteed.
