ADMIRAL DEWEY'S HOUSE.

Admiral Dewey has done just what might have been expected of him, in refusing to accept the home which is being planned for him. A private cablegram sent by him to a friend gives the authority for the statement that while unwilling to accept it for himself he is desirous that the money collected for his benefit be used in the establishment of a soldiers' and sailors' home. In naval circles generally, and among officials, much satisfaction is felt at the admiral's decision. It has been stated that he would find a home such as was intended a white elephant, and would prefer to live as he has been accustomed to.

In speaking on this question recently the Spokesman-Review says the idea of presenting a house to Admiral Dewey has practically been abandoned and no one will regret that such is the case. Those who with misguided zeal thought that a mansion costing $100,000 would be an appropriate gift for the hero of Manila have found that the public generally does not agree with them, and the fund which they believed would be more than subscribed at once is ridiculously meager in its proportions. Hardly a tenth of the amount required has been forthcoming, and it has become evident that the whole scheme will end in failure.

That the American people are proud of Dewey was long ago made manifest. The preparations for welcoming him home are already under way, and in what esteem he is held will be fittingly shown when he has put foot on shore and the people have an opportunity to do him honor. It will then be demonstrated that the American public feels that it can not do enough for him.

So far as giving the admiral a house is concerned, it was a testimonial out of place for the reason that it was not needed. No one knows where the admiral will decide to reside, if he retires, and, in any event, he is financially able to live with every comfort. His pay will be over $1,000 a month, and so far as this world's needs are involved, he is abundantly provided for. If he needed a house there would be no hesitation in donating one, but it is doubtful if he would look with favor upon such a gift and the collapse of the house movement will not be followed by any very sincere regrets.

The government is again sending men into the Yukon country to try and improve the mail service. Inasmuch as it requires six months or a year for the delivery of a letter at most points not adjacent to Dawson and Circle City, it would seem that there is an opportunity for good

The steamship Paris has been given up. It is rather unfortunate, if a trans-Atlantic liner had to be lost, that it should have been one flying the stars and stripes. There are too few of these vessels and the country can't afford to have the number cut down.

Last fall I sprained my left hip while handling some heavy boxes. The doctor I called on said at first it was a slight strain and would soon be well, but it grew worse and the doctor then said I had rheumatism. It continued to grow worse and I could hardly get around to work. I went to a drug store and the druggist recommended me to try Chamberlain's Pain Balm. I tried it and one-half of a 50-cent bottle cured me entirely. I now recommend it to all my friends.—F. A. BABCOCK, Erie, Pa. It is for sale by Blakeley & Houghton, Druggists.
