

An Excellent Combination.

The pleasant method and beneficial effects of the well known remedy, SYRUP OF FIGS, manufactured by the CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP Co. illustrate the value of obtaining the liquid laxative principles of plants known to be medicinal laxative and presenting them in the form most refreshing to the taste and acceptable to the system. It is the one perfect strengthening laxative, cleansing the system effectually, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers gently yet promptly and enabling one to overcome habitual constipation permanently. Its perfect freedom from every objectionable quality and substance, and its acting on the kidneys, liver and bowels, without weakening or irritating them, make it the ideal laxative. In the process of manufacturing figs are used, as they are pleasant to the taste, but the medicinal qualities of the remedy are obtained from senna and other aromatic plants, by a method known to the CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP Co. only. In order to get its beneficial effects and to avoid imitations, please remember the full name of the Company printed on the front of every package. CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO. SAN FRANCISCO, CAL. HIS OPINION ANENT HIGH WATER.

Our Old Friend "Greenhorn Survived the Winter and Hasn't Forgotten Us.

THE GREENHORN, June 6, '99. EDITOR CHRONICLE:—

I am constrained to write a few lines for the old CHRONICLE for several reasons. One because I feel that way; another because I am egotistical enough to believe that its many readers would not be displeased at perusing an article from my pencil and following the vagaries of my vagrant mind; but principally because this is the 5th anniversary of the high water of '94, on which occasion the Columbia served as a baptismal font, and The Dalles did service as the "kid." I notice what you say concerning the possibilities of high water this year, and I endorse your statement. The weather clerk has done grand service for you people of the Columbia basin this year, for had average temperatures prevailed the water would have gone over the top of the CHRONICLE building. We have had a few warm days, followed invariably by cold nights, and the snow has gone slowly and steadily. However the danger of high water has not yet passed, though it is fair to presume that conditions will not change radically, and that therefore you will not have unusually high water. On the other hand there is a vast area still covered with snow, from two to sixty feet deep. This snow is now in the shape of granular ice, and just in condition to give up its waters freely at the touch of the sun. Ten days of successive warmth and you will have thirty feet more water at The Dalles, but I do not believe the ten successive warm days are in the catalogue. Sunday was warm: Sunday night the ground froze. Monday it snowed so that two inches of the beautiful nuisance lay on the ground until noon. I do not believe you will have high water—but if you do, it will be a dandy.

I have another reason for believing the snow will hang on indefinitely, and that is that I am interested in having it go as quickly as possible. I do not believe that Nature changes her plans on my account, but I do believe that when the old jade gets a cranky spell on, that I will run up against it. The snow is all gone from around our house but across the creek fifty yards there is from one to three feet of it in the drifts. Between them purple iris, buttercups, dog-tooth violets, spring beauties, phenomenally large ants, and a variegated flower garden of bugs of all sizes, kinds and degrees are in full bloom. Around the house the old tin cans, gum boots, discarded socks and undergarments cast out last fall, have found their way to the surface, giving variety to the landscape and spice to the belated breezes of lazy Spring. The roads are beginning to show through the snow, in spots, and the yellow-legged mining expert is everywhere visible. Many mining properties are changing hands, and the Greenhorn (the country, not me) is having a veritable boom. The Banzette mine, a four-inch vein one mile from us, was sold Monday for $30,000. A prospect hole near Granite for $25,000. The Virginia near us has been sold, but on private terms. A big pump was hauled in over the snow and is now fast bringing the water out of the old drifts. The Bonanza is putting up twenty more stamps, and will build a new 100-stamp mill this fall. This means that this great mine alone will produce in the near future $2,000,000 a year, or one-half the gold credited now to the state.

Senator Hearst, one of the finest mining men—or any other kind of a man, once remarked in my presence, after having come from Arizona, that "If an old prospector could strike pay diggings in hell, he would write home for his friends to come, and go into raptures over the mildness of the climate." In some respects the Greenhorn climate is superb. True, it begins to snow in October and forgets to quit, but then, as the fellow said when his best girl showed him the front door, and requested him to stay on the other side of it, you have no uncertain actions and know what to expect. I knew a fellow once, who used to go to visit a great big girl out in the country. He and the girl got along all right—but her father, who had eloped with her mother, objected to the young man's visits. One day along in January the smitten fellow called, but the old man was at home. The young man was invited to remove himself. The snow was about six inches deep and as the young fellow walked out, he saw the old man gather a shovel and as fast as he could he gathered the tracks in the snow on his shovel and pitched them over the fence, and then the young man was requested to keep his tracks on that side of the fence. I have kept pretty close on my tracks this winter, but I have not seen any fence, any tracks on the other side, any old man or shovel, no nothing—but then I always was, and am still only A GREENHORN.
