WAYSIDE GLEANINGS.

Bicycle shirts in great variety at A. M. Williams & Co.'s.

The funeral of Nat Moore will take place from the Methodist church Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. All friends are invited to be present.

Among those skirts A. M. Williams & Co. are offering this week at 97c are skirts which have sold heretofore at $2 and $2.75. A word to the wise is sufficient.

It is expected that the baseball nine from Hood River will visit this city next Sunday and play a return game with The Dalles nine at the fair grounds in the afternoon.

G. B. Small, of the Baker City Democrat, and Ralph E. Moody, of Portland, who started yesterday for St. Louis, will be the only delegates from Oregon to the grand national round up of Elks in that city.

About 3:30 this afternoon the barn belonging to Mrs. Hart, and adjoining her residence on the east hill, was burned to the ground. The need of a fire alarm system was fully demonstrated on this occasion.

Mrs. C. E. Haight is much worse today, and although she has prepared to start for the East early next week, her friends feel sure she can never attempt the trip. Indeed she may last but a few hours longer.

Tonight is the date set for the closing exercises of St. Mary's Academy. The doors will be open at 7:30 o'clock, program commencing at 8. An admission of 50 cents will be charged and no children under 7 will be admitted.

A young lady called at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Maier this morning and has taken up her residence with them, evidently expecting to remain. We not only congratulate them, but her as well upon her good taste in choosing a home.

Frank Collins, who was arrested Wednesday night for disposing of horses belonging to his employer, Willis Hendricks, and appropriating the receipts, is having his preliminary examination before Justice Bayard this afternoon as we go to press.

The war department changes its mind as often as do some individuals, and now it is a question whether the soldier boys will muster out at San Francisco or come on to Oregon, only landing at San Francisco. Anyway they'll "get here just the same."

Although the average price paid for wool this year is eleven cents, every few days clips are sold for 13 cents. This morning Pat Welch, of Antelope, disposed of about 20,000 pounds at 13; Reddy & Patterson of Mayville, also sold their clip at that price.

Meetings will be held in the various city wards this evening for the purpose of nominating councilmen and water commissioners, and should be well attended. The first "Warders" will meet in the council room; second at the circuit court room, and third at the county court room.

Prospecting parties leave The Dalles every few days for the mining districts in Oregon. Yesterday Messrs. E. S. Brooks, Dan Dinmore and J. Bowers formed a party of prospectors, and this morning L. L. Hill and brother started out for the country along the John Day and Crooked rivers as far as Canyon City.

We have heard of all kinds of thieving, but the latest is that of last night when a horseless carriage, used for conveying infants about our city, was deliberately taken from a residence in the central part of the city and removed to the East End, where it was discovered later. Look out for the babies; they'll be the next to be "swiped."

Houghton, Baldwin and Schmidt again won the bowling medals last night. If they are equally successful next week, they are theirs for keeps. A team composed of Messrs. Houghton, Bradesaw, Schmidt, Kurtz and Nolan will leave for Portland in the morning to bowl at the Road Club tomorrow night in the contest for the Feldenheimer trophy.

One of the most elaborate commencement programs we have seen is that of the state normal school at Monmouth. The class colors are lilac and cream and the program combine the two shades in a beautiful design. Among the names of the graduates we notice that of Miss Annie B. Thompson of this city, who has worked arduously during the year and graduates with a splendid record.

What's become of our fruit evaporator? Surely it has not evaporated, for at last reports from Mr. Schanno the subscription list was becoming larger each day. Mr. Judson, who passed through the city a few evenings since, inquired concerning its progress and informed us that a number of families have signified their intention of settling on fruit lands adjacent, when the evaporator is assured.

Yesterday's Oregonian gave notice of the marriage of Miss Gladys Jones, formerly of Portland, to Mr. John M. Thomas, of Niles, O., at New York last Wednesday. About a year ago Miss Jones left Portland to continue her vocal culture in New York and at the same time she accepted a position as leading soprano in a Congregational church in that city. She has many friends here who will wish her well.

The river as it stands now, at the 36.5 mark, is almost a mile wide at this place, and often have we heard the remark, "Oh if it were only at its present stage during the entire year, how much nicer it would be." The upper rivers will rise rapidly for five days, and the Columbia stand at 44 Wednesday. If this prove true, it will cause the railroad some trouble above and below this city, the swash effecting the track.

The present weather is veritable strawberry weather. It is to be hoped that the sunshine will not only ripen, but greatly improve the flavor of the berry, which has scarcely had the flavor of our usually luscious Oregon product. It seems, however, that there is great demand for them as many are shipped each day from The Dalles and the gross sales of the carload shipped to Fargo, N. D., by the Davidson Fruit Co. a few days since, amounted to something over $2000.

Doug Langille made a trip to Cloud Cap Inn one day last week. He found plenty of snow. The gulch just east of the Inn is filled with snow. Starting at the cottages in the rear of the hotel, the coasting down over the gulch is fine. On the way up Doug overtook three strawberry pickers who were on their way to visit the mountain. They didn't reach the hotel till 8 o'clock in the evening and were about played out from wallowing through the snow. One young fellow with light tan shoes, froze his feet.—Glacier.

Miss Hattie, daughter of Hon. Alex. Cameron, had a little surprise the other day, which almost made her faint away. She walked through her father's orchard and found some little birds. Looking up in the tree she noticed their nest and she proceeded in her kind way to replace one after another, through the aid of a ladder, but no sooner were the little birds in their nest than they would drop out again. For some time she kept on in her work of mercy, but finding it of no avail, she finally reached up and put her hand in the nest to ascertain what was the matter with it and as she felt down, a huge snake loomed up and entwined her bare arm. She screamed, like a girl under such circumstances would do, but the snake lit out and when she left the scene the birds were snugly in their nest and at rest. Miss Hattie will remember her little adventure to the last day of her life, if not longer.—W. W. Union.

If you wish a new hammock this year it will pay you to buy it at A. M. Williams & Co.'s.

NATHANIEL MOORE DEAD.

After Four Months Illness He Died Early This Morning.

After four months of continual suffering and wasting away, Nathaniel Moore, better known by his schoolmate and friends here as "Nat," passed away at his home on 3-Mile, at 7:45 this morning of what was thought to be Bright's disease.

In February Nat seemed to be ailing, and medical aid was summoned; but he has continually grown weaker, and for the past month at least it has been feared nothing could be done for him, although the thought of a young man of almost 27 years of age, and with every prospect bright for his future life, being taken away seemed hard to believe.

His mother, sisters and brothers have scarcely left his bedside for the past few weeks, hoping that some sign of improvement would be given, but in vain, and early this morning, when all nature seemed to be called to renewed life, he left them for the life beyond.

Nat, who was 26 years, 9 months and 21 days old, was a young man of whom it might be said that he had not a bad habit, but was quiet and one upon whom his mother could always depend in the work about the farm or in any help needed regarding the business affairs which were left to her upon the death of her husband. The neighbors and friends who have seen him grow up from infancy in their midst, spending most of his time at the home place near the city, realize as much as those outside the home can, how much he will be missed, and sympathize greatly with his mother, brothers and sisters.

His brother, Chancey Moore, of Colfax, and Miss Anna Moore, of Portland fortunately arrived just in time to bid him farewell.

ENGRAVEN IN OUR MEMORY, Although the Writer of "Beautiful Willamette" Has Passed Away.

Sam Simpson, Oregon's poet who died in Portland Wednesday, endeared himself to every Oregonian by that poem which every school boy and girl, who had their first reading lessons from the Pacific Coast series of readers, has indelibly engraven on their minds. Whenever Simpson's name has been mentioned during his life our minds would immediately revert to those lines, "Onward ever, lovely river, softly calling to the sea;" and now that the soul that conceived them has left its tenement of clay, so often as these beautiful thoughts are rehearsed by those who love them will Oregonians remember their author in kindest thoughts:

From the Cascade's frozen gorges, Leaping like a child at play, Winding, wideuling through the valley, Bright Willamette glides away; Onward ever, Lovely river, Softly calling to the sea: Time that scars us, Maims and mars us, Leaves no track or trace on thee! Spring's green witchery is weaving Braid and border for thy side. Grace forever hants thy journey, Beauty dipples on thy life. Through the purple gates of morning, Now thy rosetate ripples dance; Golden, then, when day is departing, On thy waters trails his lance: Waltzing, flashing, Thinking, musing, Limpid, volatile and free— Always hurried To be hurried, In the bitter, moon-mad sea.

In thy crystal deeps, inverted, Swings a picture of the sky, Like those wavering hopes of Aiden Dimly in our dreams that lie; Clouded often, drowned in turmoil, Faint and lovely, far away— Wreathing sunshine on the morrow, Breathing fragrance round today. Here, and ponder— Hither poetry would dream: Life's old questions, Sad suggestions, "Whence and whither?" throng thy stream.

On the roaring waste of ocean, Soon thy scattered waves shall toss; 'Mid the surges' rhythmic thunder Shall thy silver tongues be lost. Oh, thy glimmering rush of gladness Mocks the bird's life of mine. Racing to the wild forever, Down the sloping paths of time— Onward ever, Lovely river, Softly calling to the sea: Time that scars us, Maims and mars us, Leaves no track or trace on thee!

Notice to Water Consumers.

Owing to the great amount of water consumed in irrigation and otherwise, it is absolutely necessary that all consumers comply strictly with the regulations laid down by the commission, which have been published and posted on the premises of each householder. A failure to comply with said rules will subject the offenders to having water shut off without further notice, and will also cost $1 for having the water turned on again. A word to the wise is sufficient.

By order of the water commission. J. B. CROSEB, Supt.

Our Trade Number.

THE CHRONICLE has in preparation a "Trade Number," which will be issued in July. The object of the work is to present a trustworthy review of the business interests of The Dalles, and to that end THE CHRONICLE has employed the services of Messrs. Sargent & Rohrbacher, two able and experienced commercial writers, who will collect data, prepare matter and solicit business for the work.
