WAYSIDE GLEANINGS.

Spain she had a little lamb,
The slickest lamb around.
She sold the lamb to Uncle Sam
For twenty million down.
When Samuel took it by the tail
To lead it home you know,
The mutton rare turned out a bear,
And now Sam can't let go.

All kinds of bicycle repairing done on short notice at Mays & Crowe's.

Today's report says warmer weather for several days. Also that the Columbia will begin falling tonight and full until Tuesday. It now stands at about 40.

The wool market is exceptionally lively today, and we understand for the first time this season clips have sold today at 15 cents. So far not more than 13 1/2 cents had been paid.

There will be a council meeting tomorrow night for the purpose of settling up the year's business. Any who may have claims against the city are requested to present them before the meeting.

The leading question is, "Where are you going to spend the 4th?" Many are talking of joining in the fun at Dufur; others at Goldendale; while a great many will go to Portland. A good way to do clusion not to extend their line further south for the present.—Moro Leader.

The father of Durrant, the San Francisco murderer, was employed in one of the large shoe factories there. The other employes demanded that he be discharged and his employers had to let him go. All the factories have been closed against him, and he and his wife and daughter are living in poverty. He is trying to get money from England to take the family back there, whence they came.

It is a splendid idea to teach the children to begin charitable work in their early years, and no better way could their energies be expended than in donations to the babies' home in Portland. Next Friday evening the Junior Endeavor will give a social on the lawn of the Congregational church. Ice cream and cake will be served for 10 cents. Don't fail to stop and encourage the children by patronizing them.

Definite arrangements have not as yet been made for the excursion down the river to meet the boys; and it will probably be impossible to go into details before the river recedes and it can be determined whether the steamer can go through the locks. Many have questioned regarding the rate that will be charged for the excursion. It will likely be about $2.50 for the round trip to St. Helens, and a dollar of that will go to the entertainment fund in Portland. However, the price has not as yet been fixed.

The two opium fiends, who were released from jail with the understanding that they would leave town, are evidently intending to use Aug. Buchler's hog pen as a summer resort, for no sooner were they at liberty than they returned to the "pen." Mr. Buchler naturally objects to his swine associating with such characters, and wants them again removed. The question now is how will we get rid of them? They are anxious to go up the road, and Dalles people have small objection to their going wherever they choose if they'll only get a move on them.

Flax culture in Oregon is destined to become one of the leading industries. The Moro Leader says: A sample of flax comes from J. W. Daugherty, grown on his farm at DeMoss Springs. This flax is about twenty inches long at present, but has not come to its full growth. Persons who are authorities on flax culture, says Mr. Daugherty, will harvest twenty bushels to the acre from his 75-acre tract. Allowing a dollar a bushel for the flaxseed, the superiority of flax over wheat in this case as a source of income to the farmer is very plainly demonstrated.

There are still several sidewalks in our city which are a disgrace. Of course we would not be so small as to mention the numerous chink holes which are evidently left to allow the ratter to ply his trade, nor the planks which when you step on one end, fly up and salute you. But we are now referring to the walks which have been patched up by property owners, who have not taken the trouble to put new boards in, but instead, have nailed "bias" pieces on top covering the pit falls and in their place leaving a splendid stumbling block whereon to stub the toe and light on all fours. Indeed, there are many such things in The Dalles which would induce one to keep sober for fear of running up against them. If even that much good were accomplished by their presence, it might be an excuse for the patching business; but we have noticed no such results, and therefore call the attention of the marshal and property owners to the neglect.

WEDDED.

E. M. Williams and Elizabeth Sampson United in Marriage Last Evening.

Never in the history of The Dalles has there been a wedding of two young people about whom more interest has been centered, than in that solemnized last night, when Mr. Edward M. Williams led from the altar, as his wife, Miss Elizabeth Sampson, eldest daughter of Mr. Frank Sampson, of this city. Both having made this their home for many years and both having occupied most prominent places in our city, it was natural that they held the kindest thoughts and heartfelt best wishes at this important step in their lives.

The Congregational church, where the ceremony was performed, was beautifully transformed for the happy occasion by a great profusion of palms, ferns and white lilies, and the scene was one of beauty and impressiveness, as to the playing of the "Bridal Chorus" from Lohengrin, by Prof. Birgfeld, the bridal procession entered the church. First came the ushers, Carl Williams and Victor Sampson, followed by the two bridesmaids, Misses Clara and Florence Sampson, becomingly gowned alike in lavender organdie and carrying handsome bouquets of roses. They proceeded the maid of honor, Miss Pearl Williams, dressed in pink organdie, and bearing in her hands a bunch of La France roses. Following the maid of honor, came the bride, a picture of sweetness and simplicity, leaning upon the arm of her father and attired in a very pretty gown of organdie and white silk, over all of which was a handsome bridal veil. She carried a large bouquet of white roses.

At the altar the party was met by the groom and his best man, Mr. Fred W. Wilson, and to the impressive words of the Episcopal marriage service uttered by Rev. D. V. Poling, of the Congregational church, the care of the daughter for all time to come was transferred from her father to that of her husband. During the entire ceremony Prof. Birgfeld at the organ rendered sweet and impressive music.

Following the ceremony at the church the participants repaired to the home of the bride's parents, whose parlors had been very tastefully decorated with a profusion of flowers. The color scheme in the front parlor was entirely in pink, the walls being so covered that they represented a bower of roses, while deep red roses in great profusion gave to the dining room an appearance of great beauty. In an adjoining room the decorations were confined to blue, and here were placed the many beautiful and appropriate presents, which showed the appreciation of a large circle of friends.

At 10 o'clock the guests sat down to an elaborate wedding supper, the bridal party occupying a table at which the decorations were principally of sweet brier combined with sweet peas and pink streamers of ribbon.

Many kind words and wishes were expressed for the happiness and prosperity of the newly married couple, and with great interest the wedding cake was cut. Fortune decreed to Miss Pearl Williams the ring it contained, while the bride's bouquet was caught by Miss Clara Sampson.

Just as the supper was ended the sweet strains of music were heard coming from the band which gave a delightful serenade to the participants in the happy event.

Mr. and Mrs. Williams left on the 11:45 train for an extended wedding journey, expecting to be away till September. They will visit many places in the far East, especially in New York and Massachusetts. If all the good wishes by which they are followed are vouchsafed, their future life will be one of unalloyed happiness.

Mr. Williams is well known to the business world as the head of the large dry goods establishment of A. M. Williams & Co., and occupies an enviable position in the estimation of all who know him. His friends are limited only by the extent of his acquaintances, and few men can claim so many sincere ones. Miss Sampson has lived in The Dalles since her girlhood days, and her sweet, unselfish disposition has endeared her to a marked degree in the affection of her associations.

The wedding was of a private nature, only the members of the respective families and the employes of Mr. Williams' store being present. No cards were issued.

We Apologize.

The Dalles CHRONICLE is giving our morning contemporary credit for that recent suggestion of ours to the peace commission. If THE CHRONICLE had printed the article without credit to anyone it wouldn't be so bad—but for us to furnish feathers for the nest of the morning grafter is too much. The Dalles Times-Mountaineer clipped an article from the Statesman, too. But its course was not quite so reprehensible as that of the CHRONICLE—it didn't credit the article to anybody.—W. W. Statesman. The Times-Mountaineer evidently thought it would not be necessary to put a credit on any of the Statesman's articles, as their excellence would probably brand them as coming from that journal.

As to the CHRONICLE's error in the matter, we are perfectly willing to make reparation, and apologize sincerely to the Union for the mistake.

$15 Reward.

The above reward will be paid for the recovery of each of the bodies of Wong and Jake, Chinamen, who were drowned in the Columbia at Blalocks last Friday. CHEE KEE CO., The Dalles.

If you contemplate a trip East this summer take advantage of the $81 round trip rate from The Dalles to Detroit, Mich., Tickets sold June 29th, only, and good for return until August 31st. This will undoubtedly be the lowest round trip rate to the East this season. This rate is made for the annual convention of Christian Endeavor Society at Detroit July 5th to 10th. Call on James Ireland, agent O. R. & N. Co. for further particulars.
