WAYSIDE GLEANINGS.

Very few saloons are running and the season promises to turn out very poor for men interested in the business.

The past two days have been somewhat warmer than the Fourth but still they are not too hot to be uncomfortable. A seven-foot fall of the Columbia would be sufficient for boats to pass through the locks, which would greatly facilitate trade.

More claims the honor of being the only town in Sherman county that celebrated the Fourth of July this year, and says the cause is by no means a lack of patriotism, but that most of the other places celebrated last year.

Since the Columbia has begun to recede the back water which has invaded the premises and alley between First and Second streets in the west end of town is beginning to raise an odor which is anything but agreeable.

The following gentlemen spent the Fourth in Portland and returned home yesterday: Messrs. W. A. Johnston, Dr. Sturdevant, H. C. Liebe, W. C. Fredden, Bert Holliester, Grant Mays, R. R. Hinton and Fred Schmidt.

S. W. Aldrich, of Portland, has secured the contract from the O. R. & N. Co., for straightening the track between Vienta and Portland and will begin work about August 1st. W. F. Johnson of this place will act as time keeper while the work is going on.

Wm. Winton was brought back from Sumpter yesterday by Sheriff Kelly and last evening was arraigned before Justice Bayard. He waived examination and was placed under $1000 bonds to appear before the grand jury which will meet in November. He secured bonds last night and is at liberty.

Many are making preparations to go to the coast and mountains. This is the time of year when one's thoughts turn to cooler fields, and those who are fortunate enough to get away can indeed be classed as lucky. When one works a year in the same place, plodding along in the old groves, life at times becomes very monotonous and a few weeks' mid new scenes adds vim and life to work when the return is made.

The boys say swimming time has come again and from all appearances they are not losing many opportunities for a dip. Daily, crowds of youngsters can be found bathing in Mill creek, and they seem to enjoy the sport immensely although the water is not nearly so warm as it usually is at this time of the year.

M. T. Nolan is having his store renovated and remodeled. The warehouse has been torn out and the entire store will be shelved, and as soon as completed Mr. Nolan will move his book and stationery stock in the same building with his grocery store, which will be much more convenient for himself and patrons.

"Many men of many minds," is what the reporter heard a collector say today and on inquiry was told that the old adage was never more forcibly brought to mind than today when every other man he struck had a cute little fairy tale fixed up to sing to him, or would tell him that yesterday was collection day and that he better come around next month.

When we heard that J. Harvey Smith had sold three years stock of wool in The Dalles at a good figure last week we felt like striking him for a thousand to fit up this shuck with a power press etc., but when he came to see us he corrected the report. He sold three clips all right, one was his, one belonged to Robert and one to Alex. All clipped this year.—The Observer.

A creature having the semblance of a man, but not strictly in "God's own image," disgraced an orang-outang last Monday by beating and choking an innocent calf nearly to death, and when his wife remonstrated he knocked her clear over into the "dog days" and was arrested therefor. On the trial his dutiful, but disgraced wife stoutly maintained his innocence and he was discharged.—Crook County Journal.

Sylvester Pennoyer announces that he is negotiating the sale of a half interest in his sawmill plant in South Portland, and that if the deal goes through, the mill will resume operations in the near future. This plant is one of the best in Portland and its capacity is 100,000 feet of lumber a day. Between the years 1877 and 1894 it was operated continuously, but since the latter date it has been closed, Mr. Pennoyer declaring it impossible to do business at a profit under the gold standard.

This morning the street sprinkler in passing down Second street came very near the curb at French & Co.'s bank, and as a number of gentlemen were talking on the corner and not noticing the proximity of the sprinkler they were considerably wet. The words spoken were not the most flattering, as there was no occasion for baptism. There has been a number of complaints from bicyclists, who have had their wheels thoroughly soaked when left standing near the edge of the sidewalk and it seems as though some one has been careless.

When our soldier boys arrive home it would be nothing more than proper to have a state holiday, and all turn out and give them a rousing welcome. The Dalles and vicinity has quite a number of boys in the Second Oregon, but more were sent away than will return which is a circumstance of war that cannot be prevented, but let us show to the living that their services were highly appreciated and that they have with dignity and honor held up the name of our state. Gov. Geer being approached on the matter of issuing a proclamation calling upon the people of Oregon to observe a holiday when the volunteers arrived said: "Yes, that is what I shall do. I am only waiting to learn if possible, the day the volunteers will arrive. Just as soon as I get this information, I expect to call upon the people to observe the day as a holiday. This will give every one an opportunity to turn out and show the boys that we are glad to see them. It is impossible to tell the exact day they will arrive I shall issue the proclamation soon, anyway, naming the day of their arrival as a holiday. I am of the opinion that, there has not been a greater day in Oregon in many years than Volunteer day will be."

Havana, Cuba.

Cuba which has lately become a part of the United States is but 130 miles from the coast and separated only by the straight of Florida. The entrance to the harbor of Havana, which is the principal city on the island, does not exceed a half a mile in length and is so narrow that only one ship can pass in at a time. Beyond this narrow channel lies the harbor itself, which is so large that every man-of-war of England could be anchored there, and yet so well protected from the winds and waves that ships are perfectly secure within its limits.

The city itself, viewed from the harbor, is wonderfully picturesque, with large and imposing structures solidly built of stone and often painted in brilliant colors. It is true the bright anticipations of Havana, which one forms from a distance, are to a certain extent dispelled on landing and walking through its narrow streets. But Havana is not the only city in the world of which this can be said.

On the other hand Havana has a number of extremely attractive parks and promenades, which in the evening are the resort of the best society in the city. For there, as in all particularly warm climates, when the sun has disappeared, the streets at once become enlivened and those who have remained indoors during the day seem to have then acquired new life, and come out to drive, walk and serenade under the brilliant stars and in that balmy atmosphere, which in the tropics seems enchanting in its soft caress imparted by a perfumed breeze which lulls to languorous repose.

A Nuisance.

Some property owners have been very negligent in the matter of keeping their trees trimmed. On several of the principal streets of the city limbs have been permitted to grow so they overhang the sidewalk and in passing under one has to stoop. When it rains, or even during sunshiny weather persons carrying umbrellas or parasols have numerous times ruined them on account of overhanging limbs.

This should not be permitted for if the owners of property do not see fit to trim their trees the city should attend to it, for there is an ordinance prohibiting the same which we give below. Another thing which is quite annoying is the manner in which things are piled on the sidewalks in some portions of the city. There is also an ordinance against this but from all appearances it is a dead letter.

The following is copied from ordinance No. 274:

Sec. 3. No person owning or occupying any building or premises shall place or cause to be placed or maintained, or suffer upon the street or sidewalk in front of such building or premises any goods, wares or merchandise by way of show, advertisement or otherwise, to extend more than two feet outside of the inner line of the sidewalk.

Sec. 8.—The owner or owners or agent of any lot or lots or premises situated within the limits of Dalles City and having shade, ornamental, fruit or other tree or trees, growing near or on either the inside or outside line of any sidewalk, the branches or limbs of which project or hang over such sidewalk or over any public street or alley, shall closely cut, trim and remove all the limbs and branches from such trees for a distance of not less than nine feet above such sidewalks and keep the same so trimmed, cut and removed as aforesaid.

IS IT RIGHT

For an Editor to Recommend Patent Medicines?

From Sylvan Valley News, Brevard, N. C.

It may be a question whether the editor of a newspaper has the right to publicly recommend any of the various proprietary medicines which flood the market, yet as a preventive of suffering we feel it a duty to say a good word for Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. We have known and used this medicine in our family for twenty years and have always found it reliable. In many cases a dose of this remedy would save hours of suffering while a physician is awaited. We do not believe in depending implicitly on any medicine for a cure, but we do believe that if a bottle of Chamberlain's Diarrhoea Remedy was kept on hand and administered at the inception of an attack, much suffering might be avoided and in very many cases the presence of a physician would not be required. At least this has been our experience during the past twenty years. For sale by Blakeley & Houghton, Druggists.
