A. O. U. W. AND D. OF H.
 Over 300 Delegates to the Grand Lodge
 Now in Our City—The Hooster.

For the past few days delegates have been arriving in The Dalles, singly and in parties, and last evening a renewed and extended delegation made their appearance, until at present over 300 guests from all over the state are in our midst, spending the greater portion of their time in the Vogt opera house and the K. of P. hall, but on our streets long enough to form an impression of the city and its people.

We acknowledge it is a very unfavorable season of the year for visitors to receive a fair idea of the real beauty of our city and the geniality of its citizens on account of the extreme warm weather and the fact that so many are out of town. Then, too, the heat has a tendency to make all feel depressed and in anything but good spirits. We, however, welcome the A. O. U. W. and D. of H. delegates and trust they will spend the time pleasantly among us.

From reports of many whom we have had occasion to meet, we are inclined to believe a mistake has been made in their reception which will convey a wrong impression of our people to their guests. While a few members of the local order are doing their duty in that regard, it certainly seems that had each one done his or her best, the unnecessary trouble caused in finding entertainment for the delegates might have been obviated and they would not have been compelled to search for rooms themselves. We understand, however, that much of the confusion was caused by a misunderstanding with the proprietors of the hotels, whom it was understood could accommodate more guests. They are now comfortably situated and we trust nothing further will disturb their pleasure.

An excursion on the Columbia tonight has been planned, and that will be a fitting reception for the first evening, which cannot fail to be enjoyed.

This morning the A. O. U. W. met in grand session at the Vogt opera house, with the following officers present: P. G. M. W., S. A. McFadden, Salem; G. M. W., D. C. Herrin, The Dalles; G. F. G., F.
