A REMARKABLE MAN.

It is a very remarkable thing, that for more than a year Admiral Dewey has not committed an act or said a word with which the American people have had occasion to find fault, says the Review. Since May 1, 1898, he has perhaps been the most conspicuous citizen of the country. Large authority was entrusted to him and he has performed his duty to the satisfaction of everybody. Correspondents hedged him about eager to get a word on any and every subject relating to war or to peace. Many ships with ambitious commanders were in his fleet but no officer has had a difference with him. He had to co-operate with the army, but while he was at Manila there was no friction. To the management of the affairs given over to his charge there has been no complaint. No fault has been found with anything he has done; no criticism has been passed on anything he has said. No charges have been brought because of diplomatic indiscretion, favoritism to certain commands, shabby treatment of enlisted men, poor rations or a lack of ability to meet every situation that presented itself. On the contrary it has been a persistent repetition of "Well done, good and faithful servant."

This can be said of few men who held prominent positions during the war. McKinley has been called a drifter, Alger has been thrown out because of wholesale dissatisfaction on the part of the country, Corbin has been "sized up" as a mere bundle of pompous incompetency, talking with newspapers has thrown Miles into discredit, Roosevelt has been referred to as an earnest bronco-busting volunteer, Shafter will go down in history as a man of weight merely through avoidupois, Otis is called an old granny, Merritt a soured military theorist, Sampson and Schley, through their own mistaken efforts or because of the ill-advised enthusiasm of friends, have through discussion come dangerously near to being common butts for ridicule.

Through all this season of valor, incompetency, jealousy, bureaucratic interference, misrepresentation, slander and political manipulation Dewey has pursued the even tenor of his way and comes out the hero, the efficient officer, the gentleman, the person of common sense. It is very remarkable that, placed as he has been in many trying situations, he has made no mistake. A key to it all may perhaps be found in his answer to a question put to him by an Associated Press correspondent on Monday at Trieste. The cablegram of that day said that when asked what he thought regarding England, the admiral replied, "I have not thought anything yet." Dewey is a genius.

We know of a herd of milk cows near Salem that was recently subjected to the tuberculin test for tuberculosis. What, readers, do you think happened? Why, it was found necessary to kill just half of the whole number. And these cows had been supplying milk right up to the time they were sacrificed! We do not wish to unduly alarm any one here; but how do you know the milk you are drinking is not filled with the germs of consumption? There is but one way to know. That test ought to be made universal and regular. The law contemplates this. But the law is not enforced. There are plenty of healthy cows. Most of the cows are healthy. But it would not hurt these to be regularly subjected to the test.—Statesman.

IS IT RIGHT

For an Editor to Recommend Patent Medicines?

From Sylvan Valley News, Brevard, N. C.
It may be a question whether the editor of a newspaper has the right to publicly recommend any of the various proprietary medicines which flood the market, yet as a preventive of suffering we feel it a duty to say a good word for Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. We have known and used this medicine in our family for twenty years and have always found it reliable. In many cases a dose of this remedy would save hours of suffering while a physician is awaited. We do not believe in depending implicitly on any medicine for a cure, but we do believe that if a bottle of Chamberlain's Diarrhoea Remedy was kept on hand and administered at the inception of an attack, much suffering might be avoided and in very many cases the presence of a physician would not be required. At least this has been our experience during the past twenty years. For sale by Blakeley & Houghton, Druggists.

Catarrh Cannot be Cured

with local applications, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you must take internal remedies. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Cure is not a quick medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years, and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best tonics known, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucous surfaces. The perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing Catarrh. Send for testimonials, free.

Story of a Slave.

To be bound hand and foot for years by the chains of disease is the worst form of slavery. Geo. D. Williams, of Manchester, Mich., tells how such a slave was made free. He says: "My wife has been so helpless for five years that she could not turn over in bed alone. After using two bottles of Electric Bitters, she is wonderfully improved and able to do her own work." This supreme remedy for female diseases quickly cures nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, headache, backache, fainting and dizzy spells. This miracle working medicine is a godsend to weak, sickly, run down people. Every bottle guaranteed. Only 50 cents. Sold by Blakeley and Houghton, druggists. 6
