The Oregon Telephone Company is walking along steadily in spite of the warm weather, and last evening was connected with Cross Keys.

At Mr. Brooks' residence this afternoon the thermometer registered 99 in the shade. Other places report 100 and over. Yes, thank you, that's warm enough.

At a late hour last night it was reported that an extraordinary run of salmon had entered the river. It is predicted that the canneries will be blocked. —Asorian.

Tomorrow Wallace Fargher will ship fifteen carloads of sheep to Chicago. As they are to be shipped over his line, R. B. Wilson, of the C. B. & Q., is in the city awaiting their arrival to be loaded for the trip.

Miss Pearl Dean, a resident of The Dalles, and an expert milliner, contemplates making her home among us. She was in the city on Thursday last looking for a suitable building in which to commence operations. —More Leader.

A book agent by the name of T. J.

Gavin has been painting the town red for a few days and Tuesday evening appeared before Recorder Gates under the name of John Doe. He was hardly sobered up when he was released and since that time has changed his name and again Nightwatchman Phirman has taken him in custody for imbibing too freely. Having not the $5 with which to pay his fine, he is now sweltering in the "cooler."

A lank and awkward countryman presented himself at the clerk's desk in a Boston hotel, and, after having a room assigned to him, inquired at what hours meals were served. "Breakfast from seven to eleven, luncheon from eleven to three, dinner from three to eight, supper from eight to twelve," said the clerk glibly. "Jerushy!" ejaculated the countryman, with wide open eyes; "when am I going to get time to see the town?"

On Monday Mrs. Helen J. Parent, of this city, received word of the death of her mother, Mrs. Margaret Lewellen, in Salem. On account of the illness of Mr. Parent, she was unable to attend the funeral, which occurred at that place yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Lewellen was 82 years old and an old Marion county pioneer, having crossed the plains from Indiana in 1852. J. G. Downie, of Vancouver was a son of the deceased.

H. Glenn returned last night from Ilwaco beach, where his family are now comfortably settled in their new cottage. He says the weather there is perfectly delightful and the clams and crabs more plentiful than ever. At Seaview where his cottage is located, is the Dalles colony, who are all well and happy. W. Lord has remodeled the cottage on the ridge, which was formerly occupied by Mrs. Laughlin, and they will occupy that this season, while their cottage will be rented by M. McInnis.

A dispatch from Vancouver says: The annual forest fires have been started, and in a short time Vancouver will be enveloped in smoke, unless something is done to check the flames. Yesterday afternoon a dense cloud of smoke began to settle in the north, and by 4 o'clock Mt. Adams was shut out from view. Later in the evening Mt. St. Helens could scarcely be made out. Late in the afternoon fire broke out in the woods on the Love place, on the Oregon shore, and a dense cloud of smoke hung over Woodlawn all the evening.

Rev. John Morrison, pastor of the Calvary Baptist church in Portland, died yesterday morning at Yellowstone park, whither he had gone with Rev. Edgar Hill for a vacation. Last Saturday he was taken ill with inflammation of the bowels and though prominent physicians were summoned, he never rallied. He was a favorite of his congregation and of Portland people in general. It has not yet been decided whether his remains will be taken to his old home in New York or brought to Portland for burial.

President Mellen of the Northern Pacific, was also an occupant of the special train which passed through this city yesterday. It is understood President Mellen's trip to Portland is to confer with President Mohler relative to making a traffic arrangement whereby the Northern Pacific may use the O. R. & N.'s track for its cars and thereby form a new water route for its line en route to the Sound. If such an arrangement cannot be effected it is quite distinctly understood the Northern Pacific will immediately begin its parallel route down the Snake.

Yesterday something in connection with the machinery of the Dalles City got out of gear and it was thought best not to attempt to make the rapids. The Regulator, therefore, went through and met her, when a transfer was made and she went back to Portland. The difficulty is being repaired and a transfer will again be made today, but tomorrow she will be able to make her regular trip. That, with the large load of wool which was taken down by the Regulator yesterday, caused the latter steamer to be delayed in reaching here until 10:30 o'clock. She is due tonight about 7:15.

This morning Engineer Strike and party, who are surveying for the road across the river, discovered the body of a man floating in the big eddy on the Washington side. They succeeded in securing the body and fastening it so that it would not wash out, and word was sent to Coroner Hart at Goldendale, who will come over at once and hold an inquest. The body was that of a comparatively young man, well clothed and in a good state of preservation. The men did not examine it thoroughly only as much as was necessary to secure it. The pockets of the coat, however, seemed to be well filled with articles and the clothes were in good shape.

An impression is now prevalent in Portland that "Jack the Strangler" is abroad, seeking out victims. A few nights since a man attempted to strangle Mrs. Ernest Bailey on North Ninth street as she was returning from lodge. A gentleman heard her screams and came to her assistance, but the culprit escaped. The case is somewhat similar to that of the fiend who some months since was taking lives by shooting through windows, Miss Wallace having been killed in Pendleton, and an attempt being made to murder a lady in Portland in the same manner. With such a state of affairs, one never knows how soon some blood-thirsty villain may choose them as his prey.

Receiver Ous Patterson tells us that he received a letter from Heppner this morning, which informs him that the smallpox scare is abating, and that no serious results are feared. The three cases and all who have been exposed are strictly quarantined, and it is hardly possible for it to spread further. E. M. Shutt's case is a serious one, but he has the best of care, Dr. Blalock having charge of his case. The two Driscoll children have light cases. This is the second smallpox scare Heppner has had in twenty years. In the early '80s it became epidemic there and many died. In opposition to other contagious diseases smallpox is said not to thrive well in hot weather. While the scare has injured business to a great extent, it is again picking up and no risk is run in visiting the place.

Bicyclists have come to believe that every man's hand is against them and that soon riding will be prohibited altogether. We confess it is hard lines when the sidewalks are denied them, and the small portion of the street which is not peppered with rock, is sprinkled so that it is impossible to ride on them. On the other hand many who ride wheels are extremely careless when it comes to passing teams. Knowing that it is far easier for them to get out of the team's way than for a driver to turn his horses so as to avoid them, they persist in riding pell mell right up to the horse's head and put the driver to his wit's end to know which way to turn. Surely a team should be given the right of way. Particularly dangerous is it when so many children have taken to riding wheels, and thoughtlessly shoot in and out among teams. The wonder is that there are not more accidents.

A COLLISION.

James Simonson and Frank Menefee Collide While Out Driving—No Serious Injury.

It is not surprising during these beautiful evenings, when so many are taking advantage of the opportunity to enjoy a ride and thus benefit by the cooling atmosphere, that accidents occasionally occur. The great surprise is that more have not taken place, particularly so when we consider the number of bicycles which glide to and fro among the buggies, and the little care which the riders seem to take to keep from under the horses' hoofs.

What might have been a very serious accident took place last evening about 8:45, on the courthouse corner, when a team driven by James Simonson collided with Frank Menefee's horse and buggy. The former was going up Union street and about to turn the corner of Third, and Mr. Menefee, who had Prof. Gilbert out driving, was coming down the street. It was quite dusk, but the gentlemen claim they had plenty of room to pass had not several little girls on wheels attempted to turn the corner at the same time, and to avoid running over them Mr. Simonson gave his horse a slight turn, coming in contact with the wheels of Mr. Menefee's buggy. This frightened the horse, which reared up and almost got its feet into the other buggy. The tongue struck Mr. Gilbert on the left leg, but in some manner he succeeded in getting out of the buggy. Mr. Menefee also got out, but held to the reins, until seeing Mr. Gilbert's condition, and knowing how helpless he was to get out of the horse's way, he let go of the reins and went to his assistance.

A number had gathered, and it was soon found he was not seriously hurt, having received a slight bruise on the leg which was injured before, and another bruise on his arm. He was shaken up pretty badly, and in his weak, helpless condition, it is a mercy he was not killed. Mr. Huntington came along with his buggy and conveyed Mr. Gilbert to his home. He has not been able to walk at all, merely crawling about, and has greatly enjoyed the rides which Mr. Menefee has given him.

Being let loose, Menefee's horse lit out for Second street, and in front of the postoffice the reins became entangled in the wheel and slackened his speed, when Lewis Porter stopped him.

The young lady who was driving with Mr. Simonson jumped from the buggy and was not hurt. Mr. Simonson soon got his team under control.

It was an accident in which no one seemed to be to blame, and was, after all, a fortunate one for those concerned. As Mr. Gilbert said to his family, "I am a subject for congratulation." To his friends he seem to be particularly unfortunate as regards accidents.

Robbery at Dufur.

Monday night Dufur was treated to a genuine robbery, but, for fear of frustrating the plans of the officers to capture the culprit, no publicity was given to the matter.

At 9 o'clock that evening someone cut a hole in the glass door of Johnston's store and putting his arm through, unlocked it and thus gained an entrance. Going to the till he secured about $5 or $7 in change. Then opening a safe which belonged to A. J. Bigham, the combination of which was not in use, $30 or $40 was taken and a lot of valuable papers.

Word was sent to the sheriff here and Deputy Sheriff Sexton went out Tuesday. Work was begun on the case and Jeff. Walton, of this city a painter who is well known here, was arrested as a suspect. It appears Walton had gone out from this city Saturday and had been hanging around the store all day Monday, none knowing what his business was. Then it was determined that the glass had been cut with a diamond which is also used by painters as a putty knife. These, with many other evidences, pointed strongly to him as the right man, and he was arrested. Mr. Walton has never been looked upon as that sort of a man by people here, and many are surprised that he should have gotten mixed up in such an affair.

Deputy Sexton returned last night, at which time no date had been set for the trial.

An Honest Man.

Some time ago Gov. T. T. Geer received a call from a discharged convict, who, like many of the men in his condition, desired financial assistance, to enable him to reach some point where he could secure work. The man, who was a cripple, did not ask for a large sum, $1 being all he required. The governor told him that many similar calls were made upon him, and he could not furnish all discharged prisoners with means to begin life anew, but, in this case, he would assist the petitioner, upon the latter's promise to refund the amount, when he earned money and could spare it. This was several months ago, and, one day last week, the governor received several letters from the ex-prisoner, saying that he had earned money on the sheep range in Eastern Oregon, and that he would forward the amount of his debt at the first opportunity. This week the money came, in the shape of a money order for $1. Governor Geer is much pleased, not on account of the money involved, but for the honesty shown by the ex-prisoner.—Salem Statesman.

THE SILK SKIRT WRIST.

There's a new disease prevailing, each physician's skill assailing, and in baffling diagnosis it pervasively dith persists; Tho' no microbe in it's lurking, 'tis insidiously working, and the healers wise for once have dubbed it simply—"silk skirt wrist."

It attacks the winsome maiden with her summer freshness laden, and confines itself exclusively unto the fairer sex; And they do not care to cure it, but are willing to endure it, and they revel in the glory which this new disease reflects.

It requires a proper holding of the outer skirt, and folding, to expose the bright-hued necksilk underneath sufficiently. That the silken robe may dangle into view, a certain angle of the hand must be maintained with firmness and persistently.

So a maiden soon discovers that the end affliction hovers all around her, yet she never for a moment has a fear. But she trips the highway with her garments rustling gaily, and she holds them in such manner that the silk one doth appear.

What are aching wrists and fingers, or the pain that in them lingers? What's the difference if the silk skirt wrist disease attacks the maid?

For 'tis better far to suffer than to be a silly duffer and go out upon the street without the swishing-skirt displayed.

Now when next you hear a rustle, mark the region of the bustle and you'll see with what dexterity she gives the "proper twist" To the overskirt, disclosing gaudy silk that is reposing underneath it—and then rest assured she has the "silk skirt wrist."
