

OUR SATURDAY'S SALE of WASH GOODS NOVELTIES

Was such a grand success that we have reluctantly decided to continue the sale for a day or two longer, as so many are unable to attend these sales owing to the fact that on this day there is a double amount of work to be performed at home which prevents many from doing their shopping. It is for their benefit that we have decided upon this plan.

If you will look at our corner window you will be immediately convinced that we are sacrificing some elegant goods at wonderfully low prices. Our "silent saleslady" (the window) has on her best "dib and tucker" and is at home to her friends at all times.

of cases of a similar nature that the young ladies now have but two courses to peruse—except every suitor who presents himself or part with life as a result of her refusal. Here is a splendid opportunity for woman's rights advocates to get in a strong point, if it has come to such a pass that a woman has not a right in such a matter. The best means to employ in such a case is for the young lady to carry a revolver and make her refusal an emphasized one.

For some time the 7-month-old daughter of D. C. Saling, of Ballston, Or., has been suffering from what was apparently an ailment of the throat. The child was taken to a doctor, who said that there was a gathering in the throat, which in a few days would be ready for the lance. A few days later the child's grandmother noticed a small pimple at the side of the jaw, and upon examination found the point of some object imbedded in the flesh. Working at this a moment, she succeeded in getting hold of it, and pulled out a feather about two inches long. It is presumed that the child had, when in bed, put the feather in her mouth, and that it had caught in her tonsils and the sharp quill had worked its way to the surface. —W. W. Union.

A number of Indians were seen on our street today, which is quite an unusual sight in these late years, and attracted no little attention. A few years ago the presence of poor "Lo" in our midst would not have been noticed, when now it always creates more or less commotion among the little folks and dogs. These Indians, having read in the columns of the Chronicle of a tribe of Red Men having a wigwam here, concluded to come over and visit them, and when interviewed by a reporter informed him that those who represented themselves as Red Men were "bias culios Boston tillenims," and did not understand "siwash wawa," and they would none of them, and gathering their peesies gracefully about them strode away. —La Grande Chronicle.

Yesterday Judd Fish received a paper from an Illinois editor, who was a member of the editorial excursion party which visited our state recently. In his write-up of their trip down the Columbia, he gives The Dalles a splendid send-off, and speaks of the dinner served at the Umatilla in the best of terms. He also mentioned the large salmon on display there, which rivaled the Indians in the attention it drew. The complimentary terms which the editors used in regard to the surroundings of the city, the cordiality with which the people received them and the dinner as they left The Dalles was enough to persuade those who listened that they were highly pleased. The only thing that marred the visit at all was the short time given them here, giving the proprietors of the hotel no time to prepare the second table and visitors little time for enjoying their meal. Messrs. Douthitt and Blakeley deserved much credit for their efforts to raise the sum required, which is never a pleasant duty at best; the citizens also did their part in responding, and Sinnott & Fish spared no pains to make the spread a good one. They should, therefore, have been given more time in the city.

No matter how quiet a town may have seemed a few hours previous, just let a good band make its appearance on the street and everybody turns out in the space of a few moments. Such was the case this morning when Shaw's band came up Second street. We thought everybody had gone to the summer resorts, but found out they were all at home. And they were repaid for staying at home, for it was a treat to listen to those thirteen musicians as they gave a concert on Second street. They certainly have an excellent band and their selections from the opera "Wang" especially fine, though to many the familiar strains of "The Vacant Chair" surpassed all others. The military drill at the close of the concert was novel and very well executed, which is a difficult matter when the music is kept up at the same time. The company will begin its engagement tonight, presenting Edward Rose's comedy "The Westerner." Unlike its name, the play does not deal with cowboy or mining camp life, but is a bright, sparkling comedy of New York up-to-date, depending for its plot upon one of those Wall street furies which make or mar fortunes daily.

WANTED—MEN TO ENLIST.

Recruiting Officer Lewis in the City to Receive Any Who May Desire to Enlist.

A number of young men in our city have been contemplating enlisting in the United States Volunteer Army, and an opportunity is now afforded them to do so, or to make application without leaving the city. Recruiting Officer Lieutenant Lewis being now in the city ready to receive applications for enlistment. He will probably remain here two weeks, having his headquarters at No. 69, Second street, between Court and Union.

A man who chooses to enlist now, having full knowledge of what it means from the experiences of their immediate friends and no excitement such as prompted those who heard the words "Remember the Maine" ringing in their ears, must have studied the matter and in sober judgment, decided to give their best services to their country. Deeming it possible that among the CHRONICLE'S readers are some who are contemplating such a move, the following requirements will give some enlightenment on the subject:

The term of service is for the period ending June 30, 1901. Applicants for enlistment must be between the ages of eighteen and thirty-five years, of good character and habit, able-bodied, and free from disease. Persons who are not physically perfect will be rejected, and it will be a waste of time for those knowing themselves to be unsound to apply.

Married men will not be enlisted except upon the approval of a regimental commander.

No person under eighteen years of age will be enlisted or re-enlisted; and minors between the ages of eighteen and twenty-one will not be enlisted or re-enlisted without the written consent of father, only surviving parent, or legally appointed guardian.

All soldiers receive from the government (in addition to their pay) rations, clothing, bedding, medicines, and medical attendance.

Whenever a soldier is honorably discharged at the expiration of his enlistment, or on account of disability not caused by his own misconduct, his travel pay is ample to carry him to the place of enlistment.

A Handsome Decorated Window.

Such is the dry goods window of Pease & Mays. We, like many others, admired the artistic decorations very much and asked, what we afterwards thought might be considered impertinent questions, regarding the decorations. We were anxious to know if it were to be photographed as a competing window for honors in the contest for original windows, as offered by the Dry Goods Economist. We were informed by the gentlemen in charge that he did not take the credit of the work, that all he did was to furnish the goods and the articles. Mr. Carle, of Denver, did the work. The work indeed is very creditable and might have easily passed as the work of the usual decorator, but Mr. Miller says "honor to whom honor belongs," and while he wishes that he might do as well, yet he would be indeed glad if he could remove the decorations in as artistic a manner as they have been put in the window. Mr. Carle is a gentleman of elegant leisure, traveling en-coc, and may at some future time visit our little city again and give us a further demonstration of his artistic ability if he is not unfortunate in taking a sleeper, forget the brakes and getting between the cogs.

WAYSIDE GLEANINGS.

Shaw Company In the "Westerner," Tonight at the Baldwin.

There will be a meeting of the fire police tomorrow evening at 8:30 at the recorder's office.

J. L. Story, formerly of this city, has purchased the R. E. Smith residence in Union, and removed to the same. This looks as if Mr. Story intended remaining in Union.

Saturday evening J. B. Nealey was arrested for being d. d. and d. and when taken to the jail thoughtfully left $3 with the marshal as bail for his appearance today. He has not shown up as yet, but his fine is there all right.

The Walton case ended in acquittal of the accused, evidence not being sufficient to convict him of the Dufur burglary. Judge Bennett and N. J. Sinnott appeared for the defense, while Frank Menefee was for the state.

Tygh Valley has always had the reputation of being a splendid place to go for a few days sport fishing. This year is not an exception; but as C. L. Phillips has just returned, we would advise others to wait until some more fish have grown to a size large enough to catch.

A large number of town people spent the day yesterday on Mill creek. After all plans had been made, the weather turned cooler and although it was not really necessary to leave on account of the heat, the day was spent most pleasantly under the cool shade of the trees along the banks of the creek.

Friday night the Budget building in Astoria came near burning to the ground the fire starting from the explosion of a lamp. The Astoria-Herald office occu-ped the upper story and is a total wreck; while the Budget office down stairs was considerably damaged by water. The damage will aggregate nearly $2000.

So much business is transacted between Primville and The Dalles, that telephone connection with that place was almost a necessity. This the Oregon Telephone Co. has now accomplished and this morning a "Hello" came over their wires which was heard distinctly at the office here. It will be a great convenience to all our business men.

John C. Hertz, formerly of this city, in connection with two other gentlemen, has purchased the clothing store of A. B. Steinbach & Co. in Salem. Mr. Hertz and his partner, Mr. Riely, will superintend the business there, while the other partner will travel and purchase goods for the firm. John's friends here wish him well in his new enterprise.

The Astoria railroad is now getting excited and travelers to the seaside will reap the benefit. Saturday afternoon another reduction was made and the rates are now as follows: Astoria to Portland, $1.20; round trip, $1.80; Portland to Seaside, round trip, $3.30; Portland to Flavel, round trip, $3.15; Portland to Long Beach, round trip, $3.30; Portland to Ilwaco, round trip, $2.80.

From Mr. H. T. Corum, who came in today from Wamie, we learn that a disastrous fire occurred in that neighborhood Thursday night when the home of V. Lewis was burned to the ground and all its contents. Occurring as it did in the night, it had gained such a headway that no time was given to save anything. Mr. Lewis came to this city today to purchase household goods, etc. He is a man with a large family, making the occurrence doubly unfortunate.

Portland is again preparing to receive the boys. We knew she would. They reach that city on the 10th, leaving San Francisco on the 8th. The train will move in three sections, the first containing headquarters, the field and staff and the first battalion; the second, the second battalion, and the third, the third battalion. At the present time it is the intention to drop off at all the principal points up the valley where the several companies came from, in order that the residents of these more distant cities from Portland may have opportunity to see the command.

A dispatch in another column tells of the fate of an unfortunate young lady at Arlington who dared reject a Portland suitor. It would seem from the number
