

OUR SATURDAY'S SALE of WASH GOODS NOVELTIES

Was such a grand success that we have reluctantly decided to continue the sale for a day or two longer, as so many are unable to attend these sales owing to the fact that on this day there is a double amount of work to be performed at home which prevents many from doing their shopping. It is for their benefit that we have decided upon this plan.

If you will look at our corner window you will be immediately convinced that we are sacrificing some elegant goods at wonderfully low prices. Our "silent saleslady" (the window) has on her best "bib and tucker" and is at home to her friends at all times.

building, and are privileged to do and act as they see fit, regardless of the comfort of others. They therefore wait until a play has got well under way, and just when all are intensely interested in the stage, march in with all the nerve imaginable and attract the attention of every one until they are fairly seated and their goods and chattels checked. Or perchance they may have gotten tired of the conversation they have carried on during the first two acts and in the third come to the conclusion they need a constitutional, and with squeaky boots or shoes walk clear across the hall and out of the door just as stocks have begun to go up on the San Diablo. Such people should either remain at home or bring a policeman with them to see that others are not annoyed. Another annoying element is the crowd of small boys who persist in sending forth the shrillest whistles on the slightest provocation and keeping up a continual clatter throughout the entire performance. It's all right for the boys to enjoy themselves, but it would be well were their parents along to see that they do not deny others the same privilege.

"The Most Unkindest Cut of All"

There's muth in a name when it comes to confusing that of The Dalles and Heppner just at the present time, and, though we have forgiven the Telegram seven times seventy times for its seeming ignorance in regard to our city, particularly when it so often makes the mistake of confusing Dallas with The Dalles, we consider now that we have received the "most unkindest cut of all."

During Receiver Patterson's visit to Portland Sunday, the reporter of that paper evidently had a conversation with him regarding the smallpox scare at Heppner, and in his report of the same in last night's Telegram he says "the recent smallpox scare at The Dalles has died out," and then goes on to describe the situation at Heppner as if it were at this city. In the heading, however, the name Heppner is used, which will probably vacillate the article sufficiently so that we will be saved the damaging effects which would naturally follow such a report.

We realize that such a mistake might easily be overlooked by a proof-reader, as just above it speaks of Mr. Patterson as being from The Dalles; but he should have been doubly careful in regard to such an article, realizing how much it means to a city to have such an impression given credence throughout the surrounding country. Certainly the Telegram will come out at once and correct its grievous error.

Notice.

All claims against Dalles City must be hereafter presented to the recorder on or before the day preceding the day fixed for the regular meeting of the council, which day is the 3d day of each month; if presented thereafter they shall be laid over to the next succeeding regular meeting.

By order of finance committee.

A GOOD COMPANY HERE.

The Shaw Company Pleases All Last Night in "The Westerner."

When the agent of the Shaw Company arrived in the city announcing that we were to have a week of the theater in the middle of summer, when half of our residents (particularly the theatergoers) are away from the city, we confess we felt a little skeptical as to the result of such a move. After the appearance of the band yesterday, however, our opinion was somewhat shaken and upon arriving at the opera house last evening and encountering the crowd endeavoring to gain admittance, it was a foregone conclusion that the Shaw Company would have one full house at least. As the play, "The Westerner," proceeded it was a self-evident fact that they would have many, for the company is a good one. With but one exception, perhaps, the cast could not have been better filled, and the play itself was a very pleasing one, at once eliciting sympathy and unmitigated interest, which changes to intense excitement in the third act when each listener is himself buying stock in San Diablo and has as much at stake as did Matthew Lawton, whose fortune depended on the mine.

The comedy of the play was splendidly carried out by the sporty Deacon Deans and his wife, who was equally as sporty on the q. t. Both are first class, and kept the audience in a roar of laughter with their assumed sportiveness.

Shaw himself is one of those actors, who, like Sol Smith Russell, has a personality which from the moment he steps on the stage demands attention, and keeps each one wondering what he is about to do next. His cool manner makes him perfectly at home and puts him in the place of the character he represents. Those are the actors of whom one never tires and of whom it may be said that to study them alone and their interpretations of a play is worth much to those who are privileged to see them. The entire cast was well taken, each one seeming to fit in to the part assigned to them.

To listen to the orchestra was worth more than the price of admission. Indeed, their rendition of "The Forge in the Forest" was a great treat to all who had the slightest taste for music. The xylophone solo was perhaps the best that has ever been heard in The Dalles and was enthusiastically endorsed. The specialty work by the Irish characters, including some extra fine dancing, was also much appreciated.

The majority of shows which visit The Dalles treat the people here in an extremely shabby manner, playing in Portland and other cities at about half and sometimes less, than they do here. This company comes to us giving a first class show at reasonable prices, and which admits of all attending and feeling that they have received more than the worth of their money.

After society comedy they will make a switch to melodrama for to-night, selecting for his play Milton Noble's story of mining camp life entitled "From Sire to Son." The play deals with life in California during the rush for gold. It is melodrama, full of strong situations and surprising climaxes without descending to the level of blood and thunder.

The pleasant flavor, gentle action, and soothing effect of Syrup of Figs, when in need of a laxative, and if the father or mother be constipated or bilious, the most gratifying results follow its use; so that it is the best family remedy known and every family should have a bottle. Manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co.

Notice.

On account of business interests calling me to Portland for some time at least, my household furniture and carpets are now for sale. Any who may desire to purchase may examine them by calling at my residence on the corner of Fourth and Union streets. The house is also for lease.

THE ALUM BAKING POWDERS.

Names of some of the Principal Brands Sold in This Vicinity.

The recent discussion in the papers of the effect upon the human system of food made with alum baking powder and the opinions that have been published from noted scientists to the effect that such powders render the food unwholesome, have caused numerous inquiries for the names of the various alum powders.

The following list of baking powders containing alum is made up from the reports of State Chemist Nicholson of Nebraska, the city chemist of St. Louis, the food commissioner of Minnesota, or other reliable authority:

Baking Powders Containing Alum.
K. C. Contains Alum
Jaques Mfg. Co., Chicago
CALUMET Contains Alum
Calumet Baking Powder Co., Chicago
HOME Contains Alum
Home Baking Powder Co., San Francisco
WASHINGTON Contains Alum
Pacific Chemical Works, Tacoma
CRESCENT Contains Alum
Crescent Mfg. Co., Seattle
WHITE LILY Contains Alum
D. Ferrara & Co., Tacoma
BEE-HIVE Contains Alum
Washington Mfg. Co., San Francisco
BON-BON Contains Alum
Grant Chemical Co., Chicago
DEFIANCE Contains Alum
Portland Coffee & Spice Co., Portland
PORTLAND Contains Alum
Beno & Ballis, Portland

In addition to these, it is learned that many grocers are selling what they call their own private or special brands. These powders are put up for the grocer and his name put upon the labels by manufacturers of alum powders in St. Louis, Chicago, Kansas City, Tacoma, San Francisco and elsewhere. The manufacturers, it is said, find their efforts to market their goods in this way greatly aided by the ambition of the grocer to sell a powder with his own name upon the label, especially when the grocer can make an abnormal profit upon it. Many grocers, doubtless, do not know that the powders they are pushing are alum powders which would be actually contraband in many sections if sold without disguise.

It is quite impossible to give the names of all the alum baking powders in the market. They are constantly appearing in all sorts of disguises, under all kinds of prices, even as low as five and ten cents a pound. They can be avoided, however, by the housekeeper who will bear in mind that all baking powders sold at twenty-five cents or less per pound are liable to contain alum, as pure cream of tartar baking powders cannot be produced at anything like this price.

WAYSIDE GLEANINGS.

"Shaw Company From "Sire to Son"

Tonight at the Baldwin. The band concert drew a large crowd at 8 o'clock this afternoon.

There will be a meeting of the fire police tonight at 8:30 at the recorder's office.

Read the thistle notice, and if it stings you, root the thistles out of your property.

The D. C. & A. C. band will practice at the armory tonight at 9 o'clock. All members are requested to be present.

The Butler Drug Co. have just received a new stock of Eastman kodaks. They intend to carry a complete line of camera supplies and have a new developer that will interest amateurs.

M. Markille, late of the Moyer Clothing Company, of Portland, has accepted a position in the furnishing department of Pease & Mays' store. He arrived in the city last night accompanied by Mrs. Markille.

This morning Fred Walters was arrested, being charged with attempting to choke and otherwise injuring the 11-year-old son of John H. Walters, a wheelwright in the East End, Saturday. He was brought before Justice Bayard this morning, plead guilty and was fined $5.

The water commission can make no move in regard to bettering the supply of city water. It rests with the citizens to make the initiative steps. Will they do it? Let a meeting be called and see what can be done, or else let us cease complaining as we have no one but ourselves to blame.

Mr. Stevens returned to his home at Oregon City, after a few days' visit with his son, Ed, who has been very ill at the home of J. W. Dickson at Endersby, having been kicked in the breast by a horse. His daughter, Alice, accompanied him. Charles Covert, of Endersby, received a kick on the knee from the same horse and has been laid up a couple of weeks.

For an unusually large shipment of wool the one shipped today from the Wasco warehouse is a good example. William Ellery, the wool buyer who is so well known among sheepmen throughout the state, shipped twenty carloads of baled wool to Hollowell & Donald at Boston. This would amount to about $80,000.

Old "Wasco Charley" has always been considered a "bias skookum" Indian; but he fell from grace last night and getting mixed up with tanglefoot was found by Phirman at the foot of Washington street in a hilarious condition. He was "taken to the city jail" and there like a little man potlatched mox dollars for his fun.

Yesterday the morphine fiends—a man and woman—who inhabited Buchler's hog pen for some time, returned to the city, after some time spent in the country. They were found begging up in Thompson's addition, and were arrested and placed in jail until this morning, when the city was rid of them as they left on the boat for Portland.

Last Friday a man came to Wilson's livery stable in the East End and hired one of his best horses saying he wanted to go out in the country to get some horses he had in pasture. As he did not return Mr. Wilson became suspicious and had Sheriff Kelly write out to inquire concerning the matter, which he did and discovered there were no such horses there. Mr. Wilson particularly regrets the occurrence since the horse was a fine animal and belonged to his daughter, Miss Blanche.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Biggs came down from Wasco last evening and will return tonight. Mr. Biggs expects to leave soon to the springs at Sprague. He says that is a favorite resort for Sherman county people, who have great faith in the curative powers of the water. He says one man who went down all crippled up with rheumatism, returned and is able to walk around as well as anyone. The only disadvantage is in the accommodations afforded at the hotel, or house rather, where all who do not camp are compelled to stay.

There are some people who seem to think that when they have paid 35 cents for a theater ticket they own the whole
