Those of us who have for a few months or years at most, wandered in distance lands among the most pleasing environments, and then upon our return felt the thrill of pleasure and the heart beat with rapture as the familiar scenes of home sweet home burst upon our view can have even then but a very faint conception of what must have been the feeling of the twenty-five brave soldier lads who stood on the upper deck of the Regulator last Saturday evening and caught a glimpse of the dear old hills surrounding them, the picturesque little city on the banks of the old Columbia, the sea of anxious faces ready to welcome them home again from a foreign shore and felt The Dalles breezes which wafted a welcome. True, they have received greeting upon greeting since they first landed on the shores of our sister state; but what does that compare with the heart-felt welcome of kindred and friends?

There were tears in many eyes as our trusted friend, the good steamer Regulator, warned us of their approach, and the many whistles, anvils and bells answered back our greeting and told in unmistakable tones of the welcome they were to receive.

With the exception of the militia, the G. A. R., W. R. C., the band and the reception committee, all others were barred from the dock, save the fifty little girls who carried flowers and banners with which to greet them, and presented every one with a bouquet. But every available space near was crowded.

After a short delay in landing the boys finally marched off the steamer, as the strains of "Home Sweet Home" were borne to them from the band, and cheer after cheer went up. On the dock they were greeted by relatives and friends, and as the former clasped them and with streaming eyes welcomed them the captain's wife said, as the tears rolled down her cheeks, "I have wept for very joy till my eyes ache over such affecting scenes as these."

Soon the line of march was formed, and the parade, led by Marshal Whealdon and his aides, followed by Mayor Kuck and G. C. Blakeley proceeded on the first route which had been planned, halting at the banquet hall. Here there was another hand-shaking; but finally, after prayer by Rev. Wood, all were seated, and soon the volunteers voluntarily scattered the chicken and other good things as successfully as they did the Filipinos. The W. R. C. deserve much praise for the splendid banquet served, and the manner in which it was disposed of betokened appreciation.

The time from that on till 8:30 was spent with friends and in general reception.

AT THE ARMORY.

Armory hall has been beautifully decorated many times in the past, but upon no occasion has it been more appropriately arranged than on that of the reception, which took place at 8:30 in the evening. Under the skillful hands of Lieut. R. A. Spivey, and a squad of soldiers from Company D, the ceiling had been draped in bunting which formed a tent, the sides being raised and displaying scenery beyond. On the sides of the hall were hung pictures of the battle-ships, and heroes of the battles, while flags and red white and blue bunting were tastefully draped about the wall.

On the stage were seated the mayor, Capt. Wells, Lieuts. Telfer and Povey, several of our own volunteers, the speakers of the evening and members of the G. A. R.

After the hall was filled with an enthusiastic audience, and cheer upon cheer had been given as Capt. Wells, Lieut. Telfer, and each of the boys in turn were seated, the program was opened with prayer by Rev. Wood.

F. W. Wilson, who had promised the boys when they left that upon their

WAYSIDE GLEANINGS.

September patterns now on sale at Pease & Mays'.

The right party can secure steady employment by applying at the Singer sewing machine office in this city, on Second street, near Union. aug 9 31

Sheriff Kelly was engaged today in selling Wasco county property which was held for delinquent taxes on the '97 roll. The county secured most of the property.

A sixty-five horse power engine and machine for the new saw mill now being put up just above the free bridge at the Deuchutes, was started out this afternoon for that place.

We are pleased to notice that Lewis Porter is again able to attend to his duties at the livery stable, he having suffered for some time with rheumatism, being confined to his room.

The friends of Mrs. E. Hill, whose life for the past few days has been despaired of, will learn with much satisfaction that she is considered much better and recognized her husband and friends this morning.

Workmen are engaged today in tearing down the old Lusher house, on Fourth street, where S. Wilkerson will erect a new residence. This is one of the oldest residences in the city; but must make way for the changes which most needs come with the growth of a city.

The Goldendale Agriculturist tells of an accident to Harold, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. McLeod, formerly of this city, last week at that place, by the accidental explosion of some gunpowder. One side of his face was pretty badly lacerated and it will probably leave him a life long scar.

Mr. Geo. E. Stewart is in a position to receive one or two pupils in shorthand (Ben Pitman system) for the coming fall. Mr. Stewart has had a wide experience in teaching and writing shorthand during the past ten years, and is thereby well qualified to give thorough instructions in this interesting profession.

A pleasant feature of last evening's performance was the presentation to Mr. Shaw by the Chicamanga Circle, No. 1, ladies of the G. A. R., of a handsome steamer rug made at the Pendleton woolen mills. It was in recognition of the offer made by Mr. Shaw of the services of his band at the court house.—E. O.

Mrs. Geo. St. John, who has spent several months in The Dalles left this morning for her home in Southern Oregon. She was accompanied by her mother, Mrs. R. Lusher, who having sold her property in this city, will make her home with her daughter. Mrs. Lusher is one of the old residents of The Dalles and it was with difficulty that she was persuaded to leave the city for a new home.

There is one individual who can successfully interfere with the liberty of the press, and that is the paper carrier, who alone knows the route and if he takes it into his head to go fishing just at the hour when the paper should be delivered, the subscribers suffer an irreparable loss. Deeming it a holiday which would probably never come again, the carrier of the CHRONICLE on the hill route Saturday evening, thought newspapers were an insignificant matter compared with the prominent place he filled in the reception and so failing to show up at the office at the hour the papers were out, which would give him sufficient time to be at the boat, he also failed to appear at all. We can only regret the occurrence and thinking there may be something therein which our readers would even yet care to read, we will see that it is delivered with tonight's issue.

Those Receive Certificates.

Following is the result of the teachers' examination for county certificates last week:

Second grade—Georgia Bonney, Tygh; Rojania Campbell, Wamie.

Third grade—L. Maud Benedict, Portland; Maud Stranahan, Rufus; Bessie Underhill, Boyd; Emily E. Palmer, Hood River; Cora Wingfield, Eudersby; Neva E. Harvey, Wamie; Charlotta A. Roberts, Hood River; Hester Kent, Laura A. Bullock, Martha Baldwin, Stella Brown, The Dalles.

Wasco Tribe No. 16, I. O. O. F. M.

There will be a hi-u-see meeting on the sleep of the 15th sun sturgeon moon, G. S. D. 409 at the wigwam. Several pale faces will be scalped and a number of adopted pale faces raised to higher degrees. Also there will be present with us several brothers who have just returned from the hunting grounds of the Philippines and who will exhibit the scalps taken by them in the late war. In honor of this auspicious occasion corn and yenson will be served and the pipe of peace smoked. All brothers are urgently requested to be present and assist in the war dance.

PEOPLE YOU ALL KNOW.

E. C. FitzPatrick was in from Tygh yesterday.

Will Evans returned last night from camp at Stevenson.

Dr. Pilkington, of Antelope was in town yesterday on his way to Portland.

Chas. F. Laner, qualified today as chief of the Dalles City fire department.

The Misses Crooks are in the city returning to their home in Prineville, after a visit to the beach.

Miss Irene Adams returned last night from a vacation trip to Ilwaco beach and with relatives in Salem.

E. M. Wingate, who went to Portland to join in the reception there, returned on the boat Saturday evening.

Misses Dorothy and Nettie Fredden accompanied the returning Portland soldier boys as far as the Cascades today.

John Knight, of Pendleton, who is interested in mining in the vicinity of Antelope is in the city today on business.

Mrs. J. G. Downey came up from Vancouver Saturday and spent Sunday with her brother, S. L. Young, returning home today.

Deputy Clerk Bolton came up from Stevenson Saturday. He says the continued rains are about to drive the Dalles people homeward.

Mrs. H. E. Mitchell and little son came in yesterday from Hay Creek, where she has been visiting her parents Hon. and Mrs. Somerville.

Neil McLeod and wife, of Goldendale, who have spent a few days in Portland, was in the city this morning and left on the afternoon stage for Goldendale.

Miss Laura Thompson left on the early train yesterday morning for Portland, where she will be joined by Miss Nona Ruch and together they will visit Clatsop beach.

Ex-Governor Burke, who has been in The Dalles for the past week inspecting the land office here, went down on the boat this morning, returning to Portland. He is a most genial gentleman and made many friends during his stay here.

Capt. and Mrs. H. Wells returned home on yesterday's afternoon train. The captain contemplates visiting this city later and deliver a lecture on the war as seen by him, and on the life and habits of the people of the Islands.

return a rousing reception should be given, was then introduced by the mayor and in a manner peculiar to himself, told of the joy at their return, the anxiety with which their every movement was followed, and the satisfaction their victories occasioned. His tribute to the fallen heroes who failed to return, and whose names were engraven on a tablet which stood on the stage, thusly, "In memory of William Fields, Henry O'Flaherty, Charles Rubart," was eloquent and most touching.

Capt. Wells, in response, told of the esteem in which he held the members of Company L, and of the bravery of The Dalles boys; of the feeling of comradeship which existed, and which he hoped would not be broken though they be separated.

Lieut. Telfer was called upon and paid a glowing tribute to our boys, saying that he had overheard Col. Summers say that Company L could take care of itself. And at another time that Company L could get along without officers. He also said that a good soldier would make a good son, a good employe a good husband, and advised the young ladies to embrace the opportunity.

Prof. Landers welcomed them in behalf of the public school, of which some were students. He recited how the pupils had watched eagerly for every line of news concerning them, and how their victories encouraged them. He paid a high tribute to their valor and said he could but say of them, "Here they are. Match them."

The greatest excitement prevailed as Walter Reavis was called for and afterward Earl Sanders, and they could scarcely begin speaking for the loud applause which greeted them. Each told of his joy at being home once more and of how they thought of dear ones while on that far off shore.

Sergeant Edwards, of Portland, made a neat little speech, and closed by informing the Dalles girls that if they took advantage of Lieut. Telfer's advice, and there were not enough Dalles boys to go around, to keep those of Portland in mind.

The speeches were interspersed with solos by Rev. Poling and Miss Myrtle Michell. The former sang "The Roll Call," a touching selection well fitted to the occasion, while the latter sang "The
