How to Get a Pension.

"How may such of the returned volunteers as are sick and disabled secure pensions?"

A citizen who has had experience in that line says it can be done without one cent of expense to the soldier, except for postage. It is not necessary for him to consult an attorney, he says.

"All that is necessary," said the citizen, "is for the applicant to write to the secretary or agent of the pension bureau at Washington, D. C., stating the circumstances by reason of which he thinks he is entitled to a pension. By return mail he will receive a set of blanks. The instructions accompanying are sufficiently plain, and he only needs to fill them out as directed. As soon as the department receives these filled blanks, it will send another set, which must be filled out in the same manner, and so on until all the regulations are complied with.

As soon as the department obtains all the evidence in this manner, it will pass upon the claim and send the money for the pension, which thereafter will be paid monthly.

"If the applicant were to employ an attorney the same process would have to be gone through with and the soldier would be that much out. In order to be entitled to a pension the applicant must have been injured in some manner that will interfere with his earning a livelihood. The blanks require a physician's signature, the seal of a notary public and other evidences of validity."—Telegram.

Terrible Fate.

An unknown Indian woman was found Saturday on the Ahtanum by Ed Carpenter and Harold Wells, near the Carpenter ranch, three miles from North Yakima.

She had evidently starved to death, as she had been there sick and unattended for several days. She was an aged woman, and when found was naked, excepting a band of cloth about her loins. She had been abandoned to her fate by relatives who camped there two weeks ago, and went toward Toppenish, on the reservation.

The coroner did not hold an inquest, but had her buried by the authorities. The woman had a large tumor on her neck, which must have weakened her condition. She had a rope tied to a stake and with this pulled herself to the ditch near by for water. She must have subsisted several days on green corn and carrots from a garden near where she lay. She had been dead three or four days when discovered.

IS IT RIGHT

For an Editor to Recommend Patent Medicines?

From Sylvan Valley News, Brevard, N. C.

It may be a question whether the editor of a newspaper has the right to publicly recommend any of the various proprietary medicines which flood the market, yet as a preventive of suffering we feel it a duty to say a good word for Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. We have known and used this medicine in our family for twenty years and have always found it reliable. In many cases a dose of this remedy would save hours of suffering while a physician is awaited. We do not believe in depending implicitly on any medicine for a cure, but we do believe that if a bottle of Chamberlain's Diarrhoea Remedy was kept on hand and administered at the inception of an attack, much suffering might be avoided and in very many cases the presence of a physician would not be required. At least this has been our experience during the past twenty years. For sale by Blakeley & Houghton, Druggists.

RAIN IN CAMP.

An Unusual Experience for Dalles Campers Along the Columbia.

What Hicks prophesies regarding the weather, we can generally depend upon explicitly. So when he says we are to have warm weather during the following week we are inclined to believe it; especially while reveling in the sunshine of today.

No more perfect weather could be desired, and those who had the good taste to enjoy a drive early this morning had a treat worth rising much earlier to secure. The rains have settled the dust and cleared the atmosphere until it is balmy and every breath seems to give a person renewed lease on life.

Such weather is phenomenal at this time of the year. Last August those who remained in the cities were sweltering, while at the beach and along the mountain streams the visitors were thronging—anywhere, anywhere out of the best. This year every boat and train bring crowds of people returning to escape the rain and cold. Many of them will no doubt have cause for regret that they did not brave it out a few days longer, for, from all indications, we are to have another siege of hot weather. But the discomforts of camp life, with the rain dripping from every leaf, working its way through the canvases and onto the bed clothes, etc; and worst of all giving the matches a dose which excludes fire from camp until a kindly neighbor chances that way, cause the thoughts to turn homeward. The cure, however is worse than the disease, for of all unpleasant tasks that of tearing up camp and packing in a drenching rain is the worst.

Camping is all right in sunny weather, but from rain in camp, good Lord deliver us. This is, however, an affliction scarcely to be considered along the banks of the Columbia this time of the year, and our people can usually pack their tents and steal away to remain all summer without being driven home by a storm.

The life and adventures of Mrs. Kate Chase Sprague throw some light on the maxim that beauty is only skin deep. Possibly it is not even that deep. Sometimes it comes out in the washing.

C. F. Stephens, of the volunteer reception committee, requests all those who have presented bills against the committee to call at his store and receive their pay. This will save him much trouble and time away from his business.

Last Tuesday evening some one un-intentionally exchanged umbrellas with Charles Burget at the club rooms, leaving him the loser by the transaction. If the mistaken person will please return the same to its owner, he will greatly appreciate the favor.

Two more carloads of recruits for the Thirty-fifth infantry passed through the city yesterday afternoon bound for Vancouver. These were regular Bowery boys, just from Five Points, New York, and if they don't succeed in doing up the Filipinos, then they can't be "did." The increase of business in the Oregon

Telephone office here has made it necessary to augment the force of operators, and Miss Minnie Bartell this afternoon took charge of the local switch board. A number of phones will soon be put in by residents along the Canyon City line who appreciate the convenience of being thus in touch with the city.

The soldier boys brought home with them many very interesting souvenirs and pictures of the company which will be the more valued as the years pass by. In Van Norden's window is a large photograph of Company L, taken at Manila, and several individual photographs of the volunteers, which are attracting much attention from passers-by.

Yesterday morning when little Alma Bruen, the 6-year-old daughter of Wm. Bruen, who lives on a farm on the Washington side of the river was riding horseback with her sister, they were thrown from the horse and Alma's right leg was broken at the thigh. A physician was summoned from here and the fracture reduced. She is now getting along nicely.

The Christian church will give an ice-cream social next Friday evening at 8 o'clock. One special feature of the entertainment will be talks by the soldier boys. A question box will be at the door, the soldiers will answer the questions. Admission 15 cents. The program will be rendered in the auditorium of the church and the refreshments will be served in the basement.

Grant Mays and W. E. Walther, returned last night from a trip through Wasco, Crook and Sherman counties in the interest of Mays & Crowe. They report the rain as general throughout the country, coming too late to do damage in Crook county and only sufficing to delay harvesting in our own and Sherman county, unless it should continue, which does not seem probable from present indications.

This time it is the sewer on Court street which is demanding attention, and also money. Every few days workmen have to be put to work on some of the sewers in our city, making the outlay on them almost continual. From January to July of this year $211.63 was spent on repairing. In July $867.36. This month the amount will foot up about the same as last. While the taxation for the new system will work a great hardship on property owners, at that rate the saving in repairs would soon pay for the new sewers.

Two trick bicycle riders named Shaver and Baisden, appeared on the corner of Second and Washington streets last evening and gave an exhibition of their riding, which was truly wonderful. Cyclists in The Dalles have been content to be able to sit on their wheels and manage to keep going, but one of these experts stand on his head in the saddle and rides. It must have required much practice to attain such a proficiency on the wheel, and 'tis not likely any of our riders in The Dalles will take to that particular style unless the streets of the city are cleared of the rocks which make every wheelman a "Rough Rider." Of course these trick riders are not performing for their health and are quite as proficient in passing the hat as riding. They will give another exhibition at the same corner this evening.

The music(?) of the hand organ is abroad in the city and its soothing strains fall alike upon the just and the unjust. We have done nothing to merit such an affliction, and surely the punishment of the sins of our fathers is being visited upon us. While we close our ears to the "grind," for grind it is, we cannot close our eyes to the "grinder" nor censure one who cannot see himself as others see him, nor possibly hear himself as others hear. In the hardest heart the feeling of sympathy must be awakened for those who grope in darkness. With him is a woman, who is also blind, and together they go about, making a living by their daily "grind." It seems strange that husband and wife should both be blind, and while we have not questioned the cause, we are reminded that possibly as love is blind they may have fallen too deeply in love.

Bids will be opened at the office of Captain Harts, United States engineer, September 1, for repairing the damage done by the great flood of 1894 to the stone pavement or rip-rapping on the point of land projecting below the entrance to the canal and locks at the cascades. This point was all paved and protected by a covering of large stones, which was torn up and displaced by the flood. Most of the stones are still in the ground, but several thousand cubic yards will have to be provided to complete the repairs, the cost of which will amount to about $80,000. The pavement on the land side of the entrance to the canal was also damaged by the flood and will have to be repaired. Although the canal and locks were nominally completed, there is still a great deal of work to be done there before the job the government undertook is finished. Walls are to be completed or built, slopes to be graded and turfed over, buildings removed etc., and a movable dam of steel is to be built to protect the upper guard gate in case of emergency. This dam will be so arranged as to lie on the bottom when not in use, and to be hoisted into position across the canal when necessary. The appropriation available at present
