Today is the Jewish New Year, the Jewish year being a lunar year and beginning with the new moon. So small is the Jewish population of The Dalles that virtually nothing is heard of its observance.

Miss Taylor announces the opening of her Kindergarten on Monday, Sept. 11th. Sessions will convene at 9 in the morning closing at 12, until cold weather, when afternoon sessions will be held. She would be pleased to greet all of her former pupils and many new ones as well. 2-5-7-9

The Dalles City was a sight as she left the dock this morning, for "loaded to the guards" did not express it, she was overflowing with freight. On account of the sheep which were to be taken on by the Regulator yesterday, most of her freight was left over until today, consequently the surplus.

A much-needed improvement is being made in the old shacks which belong to the McKay estate and are situated on Union street, between First and Second. They have long been an eye sore, but are now being fitted up and one small building has been torn down. It is always a relief to see such improvements being made, as they add so much to the appearance of the city.

Sheriff and Mrs. Kelly returned yesterday from a hunting trip in the vicinity of Kingsley. The rain in that section has been about the same as here and scarcely a fourth of the threshing has been done, so that much damage must surely result from the continued showers. Much of it is also stacked in a manner which will be anything but conducive to the best results. Yesterday it hailed hard for about an hour as they were returning.

For some time Supt. Landers has been hard at work getting everything in shape before the opening of school-giving examinations, etc. Today, in connection with Prof. Neff and several teachers, he has been kept busy at the High school building giving examinations, classifying new pupils, and doing other preparatory work. It seemed like school days in earnest today, and everything looks bright for a successful school year.

Last evening when trying to board the brake beams of an extra west-bound passenger train this side of Des Chutes, William Wilson was thrown onto the track, and had his right foot so badly mashed that it will no doubt be necessary to amputate the little toe. The left heel was also badly bruised; but otherwise he was not injured. He was brought to the city and Dr. Logan summoned to attend him. He claims to be a laboring man, and said he had some money, but didn't care to spend it all, so thought he'd steal a ride. Today the marshal telephoned to his mother, Mrs. C. Hord, of Portland, and she requested that he be sent to that place. The unfortunate man will be taken down on the afternoon train.

Dick Gorman captured a bird last night "what was a bird." It wasn't a church mouse, but a church bird, which had perched itself, not on the pallid bust of Pallis, but on the rooster which occupies the exalted position on top of the Catholic church steeple. When first noticed it held in its beak a small fish, which it soon dropped; but still sat calmly as if it knew a good place when it found it. When Dick went home he determined that nothing was too high for him, and at once went out with his rifle; but a shot or that My caused it to hover around a little and return. He at length got his shot gun and down she came, only a little disabled, however, and is now a captive at T. J. Seufert's. The bird looks much like a large fish hawk, and measures four feet from tip to tip.

The board of asylum trustee will meet today in Salem and the question of a new superintendent for the asylum will come up for consideration. There are four candidates working hard for the position—the present incumbent, D. A. Paine; Dr. J. N. Smith, of Salem; Dr. J. F. Calbreath, of McMinnville, and H. A. Wright, of Klamath. One thing is certain, and that is Paine has given the entire estate a pain from start to finish, and it is thought he has little chance, although his term being extended to January 1, 1900, making his service longer than that of any other superintendent ever placed in charge of the asylum, gives his friends a reason for thinking he has a fighting chance. Drs. J. N. Smith and J. F. Calbreath both seem to be favorites, and either have a good show. This is a most important office and surely should be placed in the hands of none but the most trustworthy.

By increasing its common and preferred stock, the Union Pacific has cleared the way for taking over the O. R. & N. This will be accomplished at the O. R. & N.'s annual meeting of stockholders, to be held September 7, when the election of officers and a board of directors will take place. It is thought that there will be no material change in the election of officers, but there is sure to be a decided change in the board of directors. Those now representing the interests of the Northern Pacific and Great Northern, will have to drop out and will be replaced by men whom the Union Pacific may choose. There is much speculation in local circles as to the results of the change. After the Union Pacific swallows the O. R. & N. and there is no longer such a road, local officials wonder if the operating department will be removed from Portland. The consensus of opinion is that there will be no change.—Telegram.

It is Worth While.

There is still another way in which The Dalles may be benefited if her citizens see fit to give it their attention. Not simply to call a meeting, appoint committees and resolute, but by doing the necessary work in a business-like manner. Our attention has been called to the fact that the road leading to Prineville by the way of Warm Springs is much used at present by teamsters in coming to The Dalles, and is preferred by many because it is shorter.

There are, however, a few improvements, which it is necessary to make, and if Dalles people would assist in this work, much benefit would be reaped thereby. The people in the vicinity of White river grade have determined to make needed repairs there, and besides the bridge at Warm Springs is badly in need of improvements, and also the grade on the other side of Deschutes. The agent at Warm Springs is anxious that the road be improved and will do all in his power to that end.

It would be well were our citizens to look into the matter.

HOW THE BELL RANG.

When Rung by the Stockwell Company It's All Right.

The reputation which preceded the "Midnight Bell" company to this city insured them a good house, and the audience was not disappointed for the actors are all that was claimed for them. A mistake, however, was made in commencing the performance at 8 sharp. It is almost impossible, in fact entirely so, for an audience composed of those who are compelled to stay in stores and offices until 8 o'clock to reach the hall before 8:30 at least. Therefore, the convenience of the audience should be consulted, and thus prevent the first act of every play being completely lost by people entering after it has begun. The play last night was a long one, and as the troupe desired to catch the east-bound train it necessitated an early start and a cutting-short of the last act. This is not as it should be, for under existing circumstances in The Dalles, if a company asks 75 cents and $1 for seats their audience should hear the first, last and in fact every iota of the performance.

But the company is a good one and gave a very taking production. Stockwell, as Deacon Tedd, was beyond criticism. His conception of the old deacon and his make-up was immense. Perhaps there was no one present who had not seen his counterpart in visiting some old-fashioned country parish; and in the school scene with Martin Tripp, who had a difficult part, but did the green school boy perfectly, the audience was in a roar of laughter. A part like that of Martin Tripp always takes, especially when so well acted as by Mr. Steinle. Scott Seaton, who took the part of the clergyman, although having but a few months experience on the stage, is a good actor and has a fine stage presence. Miss Crews, as "Dot Bradbury," the pert little school girl, has just joined the company, which is fortunate in securing such a charming little actress. She is so natural in her acting, as well as her make-up and appearance.

The stage settings added much to the play. The sliding scene, the school house and the church scene being very realistic.

In fact the entire company is all right, and we would be glad to see them in a play which requires heavier acting.

Another Shooting Scrape Near Antelope.

Were it not for Antelope and its vicinity the Dalles papers would have few records of shooting scrapes to chronicle; but just so often from that section come accounts of such affairs having taken place at or near that little town. The latest was last evening when the sheriff received word that Thos. Moran had been shot on Trout creek, in Crook county near the county line, and that Dr. Pilkington had been called. Also that an old man had done the shooting and had gone to Prineville to give himself up. No further particulars were received until this afternoon when a deputy at Antelope telephoned that the doctor had returned, bringing the news that Moran, who is a sheep-herder, and a man by the name of Frank Finnell, who is past middle age, were drinking and, as usual in such cases, had gotten into a quarrel, when the latter shot him. The doctor says there is small hope of his recovery. The sheriff then telephoned to Sheriff Gray to inquire whether Finnell had reached Prineville, but was answered to the contrary; but a deputy had been sent out to capture him. The full details will probably be received by tomorrow morning, and will no doubt prove to be the same old story which is always the result of a drunken quarrel.

The Concert.

Music hath charms, but some of the charm would certainly be lost were the hearers compelled to stand on damp payments, or if the ardor of the musicians were dampened by an occasional shower, which is hard enough to "beat the band." So the concert tonight will of necessity take place in the club rooms. The following program will be rendered:

March—"The Way Side Chapel" Wilson
Cake Walk—"Ma Mobile Babe" Klotz
Romance—"Day Dreams" Robinson
Waltz—"Daughters of Love" Bennett
March—"The Great Captain" Neulton
Medley—"The Winner" Muckie
W. E. SIMONSON, Director.

In Memory of Gaynell Hecker.

Died, at The Dalles, Aug. 22, 1899, Gaynell Hecker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Hecker, aged 19 months and 15 days. The remains were interred in the Catholic cemetery.

The little chair is empty now,
The little clothes laid by;
A mother's hope, a father's joy,
In death's cold arms doth lie.
Go, darling Gaynell, to thy home,
On yonder blissful shore;
We miss you here, but soon will come
Where thou hast gone before.
