Scrofula, a Vile Inheritance.

Scrofula is the most obstinate of blood troubles, and is often the result of an inherited taint in the blood. S. S. S. is the only remedy which goes deep enough to reach Scrofula; it forces out every trace of the disease, and cures the worst cases.
 My son, Charlie, was afflicted from infancy with Scrofula, and he suffered so that it was impossible to dress him for three years. His head and body were a mass of sores, and his eyesight also became affected. No treatment was spared that we thought would relieve him, but he grew worse until his condition was indeed pitiable. I had almost despaired of his ever being cured, when by the advice of a friend we gave him S. S. S. (Swift's Specific). A decided improvement was the result, and after he had taken a dozen bottles, no one who knew of his former dreadful condition would have recognized him. All the sores on his body have healed, his skin is perfectly clear and smooth, and he has been restored to perfect health.
 Mrs. H. S. Mabry,
 250 Elm St., Macon, Ga.

For real blood troubles it is a waste of time to expect a cure from the doctors. Blood diseases are beyond their skill. Swift's Specific reaches all deep-seated cases which other remedies have no effect upon. It is the only blood remedy guaranteed purely vegetable, and contains no poisons, mercury, or other minerals.

Drowned in the Sloughs.

Just as people were hurrying to their noon meal today an express wagon came down Second street bearing the lifeless body of a boy to the undertaking parlors. It was that of George Brown, who, in company with two other boys, had been up to the sloughs, about a quarter of a mile from town, swimming. That is, his companions were swimming; but George, not knowing how, was wading about in a slanting place when he slipped off into a hole about nine feet deep. He began to struggle to get out. When the boys realized his condition, Carl and Phil Rinehart, who had been hunting and was over on the opposite bank of the slough, began yelling to Mr. Cushing, who was some distance away hunting. As soon as he comprehended them he hastened to the spot, but the boy had sunk three times. He told one of the boys to go for a doctor and an express wagon and at once threw off his clothes and jumped in after him. Bringing him to the bank, Mr. Cushing began to work with him rolling him and employing the usual means in such cases for about a half hour; but in vain, there seemed to be no life in the little body.

The express wagon came, but the doctor had been forgotten. As soon, however, as he was taken to Mitchell's undertaking parlors, Dr. Hudson was called, but found no sign of life.

The case is particularly sad, as the parents Mr. and Mrs. A. Brown, with George and his sister had come up from Portland to visit Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Pearson, and were to return this afternoon. Now they will be compelled to return tomorrow bearing the lifeless body of their son, who was but 11 years old and a bright interesting child.

WHAT MIGHT HAVE BEEN

But Failed to Connect—It Was Just a Dream of Labor Day.

The following has been handed us by one who claims it is the substance of a dream which he had on the eve of Labor day, and he claims at different times during the past the industries mentioned therein have been strongly advocated and planned for our city. The line of the Labor day parade, which was illuminated with electric lights, was as follows:
 Evaporator band of 24 pieces.
 Employees of woolen mill, 250.
 Scouring mills, 50 men.
 Dressed Beef Refrigerator, 100.
 Boot and Shoe Factory, and tannery, 250.
 Agricultural Works & Foundry, 150.
 Terminal Railroad Shops, 350.
 The Dalles, Deschutes & Southern Railroad, 220.
 Cannery & Fruit Packery, 100.
 The Dalles Portage Railroad, 340.
 Street car men, 100.
 Eastern Oregon Distillery, 80.
 Starch Factory, 50.
 Soap and Match Factory, 40.
 Coal miners and smelter men, 500.
 This is a dream I had of a visit to The Dalles on Labor day, but after coming to the city I learned that the band failed to organize, and the other employees were not in the city yet. Why is it thus?

TEACHERS ARE NOW TAUGHT

which are too often overlooked by many teachers. Mr. Chastain is also a careful student of human nature.

Miss Julia Hill then gave us some valuable hints on "Callisthenics and Physical Culture". She impressed us with the fact that washing, sawing wood, sweeping, etc., are not sufficient exercise for the development of the muscles. She emphasized the necessity of a well equipped gymnasium. The recreative and re-educating influences of such games as basket ball, lawn tennis and croquet should not be overlooked. However, Miss Hill is opposed to such games as football, etc. She spoke of how we may secure a gymnasium by holding entertainments.

If teachers would pay more attention to the development of the pupil, he would secure better attention and have stronger minded pupils.

Following Miss Hill's splendid paper, Professor Ackerman heartily endorsed the plan of gymnastics for primary pupils. Without question this is essential to a well regulated school.

Prof. Ackerman recommends the drill and culture of this important branch. If we wish to secure interest and promote the welfare of our boys and girls we must develop in the pupils the love of purity, grace, health and bodily vigor so essential to our schools.

Prof. Gavin, Miss Melissa Hill, Miss Bessie Hastings and others gave us splendid examples of drills suitable for primary, and even advanced grades.

The next subject under discussion was opened by Nan Cooper, in which the subject "First Year's Reading" was well handled. She insists on thorough preparation of a lesson, on the part of the pupil, and allowing no one to read who has not previously studied that lesson. Much ingenuity and thought are required on the part of the teacher to make the work interesting. She encourages the practice of reviewing often, as children in the lower primary grades only remember from eight. She insists on teaching short sound of vowels first. The names of the letters should not be taught until the pupils are well grounded in sounds. Imitation of the teacher's tones, if they are right, should be encouraged.
