Harry Metzler, a 12-year-old boy, fell off a small raft in the Willamette at Portland yesterday and was drowned.

A social will be given by the members of the U. B. church Friday evening, for the benefit of the poor. All are invited to attend and assist in the commendable work.

There will be a special meeting of the Hook and Ladder boys this evening at the city hall at 8 o'clock to complete a 1 arrangement for the ball tomorrow evening.

Deepin Love—"What is the best day in the week to get married on, old chap?" Hadder Knuff—"Friday, my boy; then you'll have something to blame it on afterwards."

Birgfeld's orchestra will furnish music for the dance tomorrow evening, so all may be assured it will be good. If any should fail to secure tickets, they can be found on sale at the door for $1 apiece, admitting gentleman and lady.

This afternoon about 2:30 o'clock Helen, the 3-year-old daughter of J. M. Huntington, fell down the stairs into the basement, and striking her chin cut a gash about two inches long. She was taken to Dr. Logan's office, who took three stitches in the wound.

The matrimonial fever seems to have struck The Dalles, and those who have not been vaccinated had better do so at once; or if any prefer inoculation now seems to be the acceptable time as some of our best people are victims of the disease.

Although Oregon cannot take any formal part in the reception to Admiral Dewey upon his arrival in New York, Oregonians are none the less patriotic and appreciative of his work in the Philippines, and the governor has requested that a wire be sent from that state informing us of the exact minute of his arrival so that a salute of seven-teen guns may be fired.

Rumors of a battle royal which occurred on 12-Mile recently, reached us today; but judging that our readers have troubles of their own, we have not taken the pains to publish it. The participants were not such that there affairs are of any interest to the public.

An officer arrived in the city last night from Portland and returned on the early morning train having in charge Edward Wilson and wife, who had been arrested for stealing a team belonging to Jack Andrews and bringing it up here. Marshal Hughes sent the wagon and team down on the boat this morning.

On the request of W. H. Moore, B. F. Hoover, the Moro brick man, has made an examination of the soil out at Shaniko, and reports it in every way suitable for making brick. Work will be commenced in a few days, and a quantity of brick burned for the construction of the large wool warehouse and other buildings.—Moro Leader.

A sad instance in connection with the death of W. H. Moore at Dufur on the 3rd of this month is the fact that his wife was not at home, but was visiting relatives in the Valley, and it was some time before word could reach her. Then she was delayed by trains, etc., and did not reach Dufur until yesterday. It was impossible to keep the body of her husband and she returned to find that he had been buried, whereas when she left he was in good health.

On the margin of the Umatilla house register today was written the word Shaniko, the name of the new town at Cross Hollows. Inquiring as to why it occupied such a prominent place, we were informed that a number of his friends had bet Walter Moore, who is in town today, that he didn't know how to spell the name of the town himself and had spelled it Shanko to the Oregonian reporter, consequently the mistake in that paper. As proof to the contrary he wrote it down for the boys.

Sufficient proof could not be found to convict "Kid Moore," the morphine fiend, of setting fire to the hay which was burned yesterday morning, and this morning he was given three days in the county jail for vagrancy. It seems that he was not the same man that Smiley found under the building Tuesday night; but it was a fact that when he came into Clarke & Falk's store yesterday he was covered in hay. The "dope" practice seems to be prevalent in our city and the sooner the town is rid of the victims the better for it.

Among the unfortunate fiends in Savannah has been discovered one addicted to the eating of starch, which it is said is stored away on the average of a pound a day. The unfortunate is a woman and in her desperation she will, after failure to get lump starch, chew up old clothes, or anything else which gives the taste of starch. After close questioning recently she admitted that she had been eating starch in crude lumps for a number of years, and that she could not get along without it. She told the physicians she gulped it down dry, with scarcely enough moisture to admit of its passage into the stomach. It was learned she eats about a pound a day.

The run of fall salmon did not come up to expectations with the opening of the fall season and the boats all had small catches Sunday. Reports from the middle river, where the most fishing is being done, are the same. The fish, however, are good quality and are being sold at two cents a pound. It is yet considered too early for the regular run of fall salmon and fishermen do not expect to do much for at least two weeks yet. There are scarcely any steelheads in the river and consequently the fishermen are not trying for them. The price offered for these salmon is 5 cents a pound.—Astorian.

Chas. Somers, the mining engineer and mineral expert, recently returned from the lower Columbia section where he had been to examine some coal properties for a corporation. Mr. Somers is always conservative, but he has no hesitancy in saying that there is plenty of coal in certain localities in that part of Oregon. The reporter has had the pleasure of seeing Mr. Somers' official report and we note that he has discovered a splendid vein of coal six feet thick, but he personally states that it is nearer eight or ten feet. He desires to underestimate rather than the opposite, as then no one will be disappointed. The best location discovered is very near the Columbia river and adjacent to railroad transportation as well, and development work will be begun at once. The CHRONICLE congratulates the owners of these properties.

Among the latest of the Dallesites who have taken upon themselves the marriage vows we find our postmaster, who this morning took unto himself a wife in the person of Miss Emma Morse, of East Portland. The ceremony took place at the home of the bride's mother this morning at 9:30 o'clock, and was performed by the Presbyterian minister, of which church the bride is a member. Many Dalles people have met Miss Morse during her visits to this city and have greatly admired her sweet, lady-like manner and charming disposition. They are not therefore surprised that Mr. Riddell should have coveted her as a life companion, but congratulate him upon the realization of his fondest hopes. Knowing the character of the groom, how he has by industry and application won for himself a place of trust in the community and also of his special care and thoughtfulness for his mother and sisters, we bespeak for the bride a happy married life, and join with all their many friends in the hope that it may be a long and prosperous one. After a short wedding trip they will return and make their home in the residence of Mrs. Mary French on Fourth street.

Postponed One Week.

The social that was to have been given next Friday evening at the Christian church, has been postponed until Friday evening Sept. 22.

Prayer Meeting Ended in a Wedding.

Prayer meeting service at the Calvary Baptist church last evening partook of a somewhat different nature than usual, and at the close of the service the pastor, Rev. W. B. Clifton, and Mrs. Almira Burget were united in marriage, Rev. Bailey officiating.

A large number of members were present; but no doubt the church would have been crowded had it been known that it was to be made such a happy occasion; but with the exception of a few close friends, all were greatly surprised when at the close of the meeting W. C. Allaway invited all to remain to another service, which proved to be of a matrimonial nature.

Mrs. Woodworth played Wagner's wedding march, and after the ceremony also played L'Eclair—"Call me Thine Own."

Rev. Clifton has been pastor of The Dalles church for the past year, and by his able and efficient work has endeared himself to his congregation, who are greatly pleased that he should have chosen as a helpmate and companion one who is so well suited by her energetic and happy disposition to be the wife of one who has chosen such a high calling as the ministry.

Not only his congregation and friends, but all who have known the bride for so many years, extend their congratulation and best wishes for their future happiness.

Oregon Scenery.

Never was there such a demand for views of Oregon scenery as this year. No doubt this is due to the interest photographers are taking in securing the best pictures possible. While in Portland Mr. Gifford displayed his views of Mt. Hood and Lost Lake, and without soliciting secured a large number of orders. The Telegram said concerning them: "One of the pictures of Mt. Hood and the lake had been taken at sunrise. It shows the reflection of the mountain in the lake as plainly as it shows the mountain itself. One end of the lake is as calm as can be, while a beautiful ripple plays on the other end. Good judges pronounce this one of the handsomest pictures of the mountain and the lake ever made."

No doubt these pictures will soon be seen in every state in the Union, and many of them already occupy prominent places in the homes of our city.

An Albany photographer has an order for 300 views of our scenery for a San Francisco firm, to be used for the coming holiday trade. Even the Californians look to Oregon for something attractive.

There is also a great craze over Indian pictures, and some splendid ones have been taken by amateurs, as well as professionals. The Indian twin pictures taken by Lee Morehouse, of Pendleton, have had a phenomenal sale, he having sold thousands of them, and is constantly receiving orders from all over the Union. Not long ago Mr. Morehouse had an opportunity to sell his copyright for a large sum to the Mellen's Food Company, who wanted them as an advertisement. They would have been splendid to represent "before and after taking;" but he refused to dispose of them.

The Ladies.

The pleasant effect and perfect safety with which ladies may use Syrup of Figs, under all conditions, makes it their favorite remedy. To get the true and genuine article, look for the name of the California Fig Syrup Co., printed near the bottom of the package. For sale by all druggists.
