THE FALL ELECTIONS.

In the six states in which there are to be elections for governor the campaigns are well under way. These states are Massachusetts, Iowa, Mississippi, Maryland, Kentucky and Ohio. It is safe to say that Massachusetts and Iowa will go Republican and that Mississippi will go Democratic, says the Spokesman-Review. Maryland has ordinarily been Democratic, but at the last election went Republican, and members of that party have claimed that such it would remain. But there seems to be nothing very substantial on which to base this confidence. The Democrats are well organized, under the leadership of Gorman, a significant local victory has been won in Baltimore, and the recent dissensions in the Republican ranks growing out of a conflict between Senator Wellington and Governor Lowndes are likely to make the chances of Democratic success all the more certain.

Kentucky is nominally Democratic, but its present governor is a Republican, and a part of its electoral vote was for McKinley. Moreover, there is a bolting Democratic ticket which gives the Republicans reason to feel encouraged. The regular Democrats are waging a vigorous campaign, however, and in spite of independent Democratic secession it is not improbable that Goebel will be elected by a safe majority.

In Ohio the campaign has just opened, and it will be an extremely active one for both parties. It is believed that the usual Republican majority will be cut down, but it is doubtful if enough of a change can be effected to insure the election of McLean. Ohio is the president's state, and with all the influence that the administration can exert in favor of Nash there is a fair probability of the latter winning by a small majority.

All of these elections will be full of interest, for the state campaigns are being waged largely on national issues, and from the results it may be possible to make predictions as to the greater contest of next year.

Bricklayers in Iowa, who were paid $2 per day a year ago, and who two or three years before that could not get work at any price, are now all employed at $4 per day, according to the Iowa State Register. This is the case, to a greater or less degree, everywhere in the country, and Mr. Bryan says that such facts as this will have no effect in aid of the party in power!

Pendleton Tribune: Kruger's stone face remains set in the same direction. It will need a great deal of rain and wind to change its expression and an earthquake to turn it about. England may be the coming earthquake, but its shock will probably cause only a half change.

The statistician of a tourist agency has figured out that 70,000 Americans went to Europe this year on pleasure, expending on the average $1500 each. This means they have dumped into European coffers at least $100,000,000.

Shows the state of your feelings and the state of your health as well. Impure blood makes itself apparent in a pale and sallow complexion, Pimples and Skin Eruptions. It cures all blood diseases where cheap Sarsaparillas and so called purifiers fail; knowing this we sell every bottle on a positive guarantee. Blakeley & Houghton, druggists.
