THE TREASURY KEEPING EVEN

So far during the present fiscal year the revenue keeps a little ahead of the expenditures. At the end of the first quarter a surplus of about $2,000,000 is shown. Receipts for the quarter have increased $17,000,000 over the same period last year, and expenditures have fallen off $45,000,000. Customs are yielding from $600,000 to $1,000,000 a day, and internal revenue averages $1,000,000 a day. Both show an aggregate gain for the month of $5,000,000 over September of last year. The war department is spending an average of $12,500,000 a month, and the navy department $5,000,000. Last month's statement of gold in the treasury was $245,000,000. The September figures are $254,000,000. This is a remarkably favorable exhibit. The army has been increased from 27,000 men to 100,000. A war is under prosecution 7000 miles away that will require the services and transportation of 50,000 or 60,000 men. The navy is growing steadily in battle-ships of the first-class and other costly vessels. And yet the government is more than paying expenses.

When the treaty was under discussion several senators insisted that it would plunge the country enormously in debt. Senator Hoar urged this view. Senator Caffery was especially explicit. He estimated that the cost of holding the Philippines would be $221,350,000 a year. That is more than the present entire expenditure on the army and navy, and we should not disband either if the islands were surrendered. Senator Caffery declared that "our imperial budget for the year ending June 30, 1900, even as stated by Secretary Gage, is appalling enough. But I am confident that he underestimates the expenditures of that year if the imperial policy is to be carried out." Well, the end of the first quarter of that year is at hand, and there is a surplus of $2,000,000. Secretary Gage's estimate runs over, not under. A vast deal of foolishness was talked by senators who fought the treaty. Their predictions and figures are on a par with their patriotism.

In the Outlook the eminent Caledonian lecturer and novelist, whose pseudonym is Ian Maclaren, writes of "The Shadow on American Life," said shadow being "the tendency to give an undue place to the value and influence of wealth." Coming from a gentleman who has visited this country for the purpose of adding to his wealth, the New York Sun thinks this charge has much more of humor than we should have suspected in its author.

The Democratic way of ending a war is to wait until the next national convention is called, and then fight it out in the committee on resolutions.

From the detailed report it does not appear that Admiral Schley missed any of the bouquets that were intended for him during the festivities in New York.
