WIRELESS TELEGRAPHY.

Experiments in wireless telegraphy made during the international yacht races appear to justify some general conclusions with regard to the usefulness of this mode of electric communication. Marconi, who may be considered the inventor of the practical system thus far developed, has himself directed the transmission of dispatches between a steamer accompanying the yachts at sea and a station at one of the lighthouses on shore, whence they were again transmitted to New York. It is conceded, of course, that this aerial telegraphy cannot, for various reasons, supplant that by wires and cables; but the fact that intelligent messages can be thus transmitted at all, with reasonable directness and accuracy, is in itself important.

Many circumstances may be imagined under which this system would be valuable where wires or cables do not exist, as between ships at sea or between a ship off-shore and the land, or where communication by wire or cable has been interrupted. The most obvious limitation of the system in its present development is in the lack of privacy. A message sent from one station might be picked up at any number of other stations. But it is quite conceivable that this may be overcome by future invention, the experiments already made having already indicated to inventors the direction in which they are to work.

The military uses of wireless telegraphy are somewhat problematical. In the navy, as among the scattered vessels of a squadron on a cruise, its adaptability appears less doubtful. Thus far the invention has not passed the stage of curious experiments. In communicating between points that are or can be connected by a metallic conductor, nothing is likely to be gained from the new system. Yet so much has been done with it in so short a time that it would be foolish to set a limit upon its possible development.

A BATTLE-SCARRED FLAG.

The Woodburn Independent is responsible for this story about the banner that the Second Oregon carried to victory in the Philippines:

"The Second Oregon regiment flag was in only one engagement, and that not a serious one, at Pasig. In the march through bush and in other battles the emblem was not taken as it was considered too much bother. Yet when the flag was turned over to Governor Geer in Portland it was rent with bullets. Tattered and torn, it presented the appearance of having gone through a ten years' war. While civilians beheld the Stars and Stripes in shreds, through tear-bedimmed eyes, and shuddered at the terrible story without words, the returned volunteer gazed in amazement at the Second Oregon's flag and silently wondered 'what had struck it.'"

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all the diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from ten drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address, F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75c.

During the winter of 1897 Mr. James Reed, one of the leading citizens and merchants of Clay, Clay Co., W. Va., struck his leg against a cake of ice in such a manner as to bruise it severely. It became very much swollen and pained him so badly that he could not walk without the aid of crutches. He was treated by physicians, also used several kinds of liniment and two and a half gallons of whiskey in bathing it, but nothing gave any relief until he began using Chamberlain's Pain Balm. This brought almost a complete cure in a week's time and he believes that had he not used this remedy his leg would have had to be amputated. Pain Balm is unequalled for sprains, bruises and rheumatism. For sale by Blakeley & Houghton Druggists.

The "Plow Boy Preacher," Rev. J. Kirkman, Belle River, Ill., says: "After suffering from Bronchitis or lung trouble for ten years, I was cured by One Minute Cough Cure. It is all that is claimed for it and more." It cures coughs, colds, grippe and all throat and lung troubles. Butler Drug Co.
