It doesn't take a Pague to prognosticate a rainy Sunday for tomorrow, and it looks as if he would make no mistake when he says "Tonight and Sunday continual rain."

There has been an unusual amount of arrests for drunkenness in the city of late. John Burke is the latest offender—that is that has been caught, and he paid over his $2 today.

There will be no services in the Calvary Baptist church tomorrow, as Elder Clifton has not returned from Portland. He is to occupy the pulpit of the First Baptist church there tomorrow morning and evening.

A regular meeting of the Elks will be held tonight, and as matters relative to the good of the order will be passed upon, it is to be hoped that members will take personal interest in the meeting and lend their presence.

Miss Edith Crawford, state organizer of the C. W. B. M., will arrive in the city this evening and speak at the Christian church tomorrow evening. All are invited to be present. On account of the pastor's illness there will morning service.

Make arrangement to be on the street at noon Monday so you can hear the "Breezy Time" company band give their concert. Miss Mattie Smith, who is said to be equal to Alice Raymond as a lady cornetist, will render a solo. The concert is free. Be on hand.

An a trial jury is to be summoned to appear in the United States court early in November, the case of David M. Garrison, in which a true bill was found, charging him with having presented a fraudulent pension claim for collection, will probably come up during that month, or at least before the holidays. He left for Portland yesterday.

It seems that the Indians have a burying ground some place near Moffitt's

Landing called Greenleaf, and the body of Joe Andrews, who was killed Thursday night, was taken down this morning. His brother, Jake, took the body up to their place, a short way up the river, last night, and then brought it down in a skiff this morning to be shipped. Jake says he has often warned his brother about drinking, but he paid no attention, and now he's memaloose.

Prof. A. Sandvig announces that his opening dance will be given next Thursday evening at the Baldwin, when the "Bon Ton," a new dance, and the glide lancers will be introduced. Any who may desire private lessons address Prof. Sandvig, Box 536. 21-1f

In the probate court in Portland Thursday, Judge Calk disallowed the petition of Douglas and George Dufur and Edith Meefer for the payment of a specific legacy to them by the executors of the will of Jacob Zimmerman, deceased, on the ground that the petition was filed before the first semi-annual report by the executors. The petition was dismissed.

Mr. B. F. Hynd returned Tuesday from a trip to his sheep ranch in Sand Hollow and reports the sheep in fine condition. Grass on the range is good, and the woolly tribe are not liable to experience much suffering during the coming winter. Sheep generally are in excellent shape to encounter chilly blasts of the next few months. Hay is plentiful and everything looks encouraging to our wool growers.—Heppner Times.

A dispatch from Goldendale, speaking of the smallpox scare, says: M. A. Short, of Pleasant postoffice, better known as "Pony" Short, and the only breeder of Angora goats in Klickitat, is said to be stricken with smallpox at his home on Rock Creek. It is said Mr. Short recently became exposed to the loathsome disease while on a visit to Arlington. The people of Pleasant are very much excited over the appearance of smallpox in that section of Klickitat.

All indications point to rather a dull winter for Sherman county, although the mill is running and considerable wheat is changing hands. The cause is easy to understand—an indifferent crop coupled with the ridiculously low price. Out near the center of the county times will be a little better, owing to the construction of the Columbia Southern railway to Grass Valley. Trade activity from that section will be but remotely felt here. We are not calamity howling nor kicking about the hard times, however, but—just telling.—Wasco News.

Even the newspaper fraternity in Sherman county are joining the great majority and entering the matrimonial field. This morning we were surprised to receive cards announcing the marriage of Francis C. Ireland, second son of D. C. Ireland, of the Moro Observer, and Miss Abbie M. Illingworth, at her home in Falls City, Polk county, Oregon, last Wednesday. Not having met Francis for a number of years, we remember him as but a lad working at the case in THE CHRONICLE office and can scarcely imagine him as a benedict.

But Francis was always a favorite, which accounts for his early marriage, and THE CHRONICLE force extend their heartfelt congratulations.

Anyone that would enter a barn and steal a horse is certainly mean enough to "steal sheep," and so Dalles people had better keep a sheep's eye on their flocks. Last night some one made himself at home at Mr. Jackson's home on Ninth street, and stepping into the barn somehow got hold of his mare by mistake and walked away. Mr. Jackson says no self-respecting man will ride bare back, and if the thief will return he can borrow the saddle and bridle.

There is no difficulty whatever in finding the parties guilty of selling liquor to Indians, and before some great damage has been done by these red men, a few white men should be put through. The testimony brought up at the inquest yesterday is proof of the extent to which this traffic with the Indians is being carried on. Not only the lives of the Indians are in danger (that wouldn't be so bad) but those of the people with whom they come in contact are endangered by their drunkenness and fighting.

The many people who have witnessed the performance of "A Breezy Time" at Cordray's theater this week pronounce it one of the brightest and most up-to-date farce comedies that have been seen in Portland this season. Every song or dance or specialty in the play is brand new in Portland, and the company consists of entertainers who know how to entertain. There has been a good advance sale all the week, and the prospect is that the remaining performances will be well attended.—Oregonian.

The Shamrock may not be in it, but just the same the Irish spuds have not given up the race, but are expanding to "beat the band" at Boyd. Absolom Bolton brought in a specimen of that "fruit" this morning that is certainly a curiosity and should have been exhibited at some of the expositions. It weighs eight pounds and a half, and is gotten up in the most peculiar costume a potato ever wore. To the main spud is attached twelve good sized potatoes of the most peculiar shapes imaginable. It is certainly the freak of the potato family, and can be seen at this office.

An 80 per cent raise in west-bound passenger rates is predicted by the Helena Independent in the following article: "After November 1 second-class passenger rates between Chicago and all points west of St. Paul to the Pacific coast will be nearly 80 per cent higher than at present. On that date the Northern Pacific and the Great Northern roads will raise their second-class or colonists' rates between St. Paul and Portland, Seattle and all other North Pacific coast cities, from $25 to $40, with corresponding advances to intermediate points. The first-class fare from the twin cities to the coast will remain as now, $50. This will cause a general advance throughout the western territory.

Competitors of these two roads have been trying for months to have these rates canceled and higher ones substituted. It is understood that the low rates that have been in effect during the past four or five months will be put in again about March 1st."

Quite a crowd of young people went out to spend last evening with Miss Lola Eubank, at the home of L. Rice, near Endersby. A number of their friends endeavored to persuade them that the roads were not in a condition to make the trip pleasant, but the enjoyment at the end of the journey induced them to forget the mud and sally forth. It is reported that they reached home early this morning, and that the walking on the hills between here and Endersby is fine. However, that may be, all who went out refrain from speaking of the difficulties overcome on the journey and are enthusiastic over the fun they had while there.

Very few were at the Umatilla house to meet the Montana boys as the first section, consisting of eleven cars, pulled in at 1:30. Few knew they were expected, and beside it was at such a busy hour that it was impossible for many to leave work. Only a short stop was made for dinner, and the second section arrived at 3:30. There were about 750 in all, fine looking men; but in spite of the fact that a soldier always attracts attention, perhaps the most interesting person in the crowd was the little Filipino boy about 12 years old, whom the soldiers woke from a sound sleep to bring out and introduce him to the young ladies. He was a nice looking little fellow, but is not a full-blooded Filipino. He said his name was Dee, and tipped his hat as politely as any full fledged gentleman could do. Dee looked a little bashful, however, as he found himself the center of attraction and all the girls exclaiming "Oh, how cute he is," "Poor little fellow," etc.

Volunteers by Cities.

A list made up by the chief clerk of the adjutant-general's office, from the muster-in rolls of light battery A, Oregon volunteers; light battery B, Oregon volunteers; the Second Oregon volunteer infantry, shows some interesting facts. Every town in Oregon but one furnished men. That town is Astoria with a population of 8,500.

The twelve towns furnishing the largest quotas are as follows: Portland, 674; Salem, 112; Eugene, 89; Oregon City, 59; Baker City, 58; La Grande, 55; Ashland, 52; Pendleton, 46; McMinnville, 42; The Dalles, 36; Roseburg, 31; Woodburn, 22.
