"My Friend From India" will be the next attraction at the Vogt next Tuesday evening.

Mrs. L. E. McNeal is much worse today, and it was not thought she would survive the day.

It doesn't look much like winter today, but rather one would imagine spring had come again.

The second of the series of dancing parties to be given by the Columbia Club will take place Friday evening at the Baldwin.

There will be a business meeting of the United Artisans on Wednesday evening and all members are earnestly requested to be present.

Harry C. Liebe carries the most complete stock of diamonds, watches, jewelry and Sterling silver novelties in the city, which he sells at a reasonable price. Call and inspect the assortment.

The ladies of St. Paul's Guild will meet at the usual hour tomorrow at the home of Mrs. J. S. Schenck. As business of importance will come before the Guild, a large attendance is desired.

The last unfortunate to get himself into trouble by drinking was Wm. Dolan, who found himself in Phirman's grasp last night, and then before Recorder Gates this morning, when he paid over his $2.

A bowling team, consisting of Messrs. Houghton, Bradshaw, Nolan, Mays, Schmidt and Baldwin, will leave on the Flyer tomorrow morning for Portland, where they will bowl against the Arlington team tomorrow night.

A large band of cattle, about 1200 in number, are corralled in Saltmarsh's feed yards today. They are on their way from the Valley to Montana, to which state they will be shipped this evening.

We are always reminded of when Hallowe'en comes by the young ladies of the Congregational church, who make it a point to give such splendid entertainments. This year it will be on Monday evening, and they will entertain us at the Baldwin.

Prof. A. Sandvig announces that his opening dance will be given next Thursday evening at the Baldwin, when the "Bon Ton," a new dance, and the glideancers will be introduced. Any who Upon inquiring today concerning the road between here and Antelope, we are informed that the worst portion of the road is that leading into The Dalles. While the remainder is nothing to brag of, the terrible condition of that at our very gate is something to be ashamed of.

At the initial party to be given by Prof. Sandvig Thursday evening at the Baldwin, Prof. Birgfeld's orchestra—three pieces—will furnish music, and several new dances will be introduced. The doorkeeper will see that no one enters who is in the least objectionable. Admission will be 50 cents.

The latest thing out in magazines is published in New York and called "Everybody's Magazine." The price is ten cents, and it contains nothing of a heavy nature, but light reading of general interest. It is their purpose to furnish interest and amusement to the large class of readers who desire their interest quickly and their amusement easily.

Montana is the state where they are having winter in earnest. The northern part of the state is digging itself out of the snow. For four or five days last week snow came down unceasingly. At the town of Choteau, county seat of Teton county, it was ten to twelve feet deep in drifts, and at least three feet on the level. Oldtimers there agree that nothing like this fall of snow has been seen in October for twenty years. The loss of life will exceed twenty persons in Teton county, and 20,000 sheep perished in the storm.

About 3:30 yesterday afternoon a man by the name of Kizer, who lives near Spring creek, was driving a four-horse team up Union and started to turn the corner at Harris' store, when the double tree broke and the leaders became frightened and lit out up Second for the East End. Encountering Henzie's express one of them ran into it and thus found himself slightly mixed when he again started out; but they finally reached the feed yard and stopped for a meal. Mr. Kizer supposed one of the horses at least would receive injuries, but, barring a slight cut on the leg, neither of them was injured by their escapade.

Just a little of the story of "My Friend From India," would not be amiss in view of its presentation at the Vogt next Tuesday night by Smythe & Rice's Comedy Company. The scene of "My Friend From India" is laid in New York, and deals with the advent of a very innocent personage, a barber, who is forced in his desire to clothe his nakedness, to don a yellow bed spread, and being introduced in that attire by a son to a retired Kansas City pork-packer, who is over anxious to shine in society, the doors having heretofore been closed to him, and knowing of the "Order of the Yellow Robe," the barber, having been called "My Friend From India" by the son, seizes upon this means to introduce to society a real social lion and thereby gain his own entrance into the charmed circle of the 400. The many amusing complications arising from this state of affairs have been the means of affording the author full scope for his inventiveness, and out of it all has arisen the most successful comedy of the present period. Mr. Walter Perkins, who originally and still plays the part of the hapless barber, is more than ably assisted by a company of comedians especially engaged for their excellence in their several roles, and therefore a perfect rendition of "My Friend From India" may be reasonably expected.

It was not supposed that any difficulty would be encountered in collecting the subscriptions promised to the chemical fire engine and fire alarm fund, as most of what was donated was to be again realized on the reduction in insurance, which was to be given when we were thus prepared to fight the fiery demon. But we are informed that many who were in favor of the proposed improvements and had promised their assistance, now fail to meet the requirements. Some actually have made the excuse that they would pay when the reduction is given. This is absurd, and for the sake of those who have already paid and are therefore anxious to have the engine and fire system in soon, that they may receive the benefit thereby, others should do their part toward securing it.

There is a very important factor in the success of every gathering—be it a church service, a school session, a concert, a theater or what not, and in most cases this factor, which has so much to do with the comfort of the audience, the actors, and in short the whole entertainment, is in nine cases out of ten overlooked. We refer to the ventilation of the building where such gathering is held. No speaker or actor can do justice to himself or hold the attention of an audience in a crowded room, where the same fetid air is being inhaled and exhaled during an entire evening. Often a speaker wonders what is the difficulty with his listeners, why they seem drowsy and he cannot interest them, when the trouble is with the atmosphere they are breathing, making them listless and spoiling their pleasure. And yet it is a difficult matter to correct this fault in a public gathering, for in nearly every instance when a janitor lowers a window or transom, or endeavors to let a little fresh air in, some unfortunate person, who has accustomed himself to sit day in and day out in a close, stuffy room, will arise and undo the good work of him who is employed to look after the wants of the congregation. And thus the greater part of the audience misses the real enjoyment, the real benefit which they had expected to gain, and return to their homes with a wretched headache or a terrible cold, which must always result from such a condition of affairs.

ANTELOPE'S SCHOOL.

Taught by Three Dalles Young Ladies and in a Flourishing Condition.

The Antelope public school opened last Monday, and is in a flourishing condition, judging from the reports given by those who have recently returned from there. The town and school district No. 50 are to be congratulated on their new four-room school building just finished. The board of directors, T. G. Condon, J. M. Hamilton and H. C. Rooper, with Frank Irwin for clerk, have done well to complete the building so satisfactorily in so short a time.

Last year there were but two teachers, and the total enrollment for the year was 98. This year there will be three teachers and the number of pupils will be greater. Miss Julia Hill is employed as principal and will have charge of the sixth, seventh, eighth and ninth grades. The state course of study will be used, even to the first year's work in the High school as outlined therein. Miss Hill is a graduate of The Dalles High school and has taken a four years' course at the university of Oregon. She has had considerable experience in graded school work and aside from thorough scholarship possesses tact, energy and discipline. Manual training is a special feature of her work.

Miss A. May Sechler, of The Dalles, who was assistant teacher there last year, will teach in the intermediate department, composed of the third, fourth and fifth grades. Miss Sechler has taught twenty-eight months, is a graduate of The Dalles High school and has had one year's work at Eugene. She is especially strong in mathematics, and in her quiet, unassuming way will make a success of her work, both in and out of the school room.

Miss Josie Spink, of The Dalles, will teach the primary room, made up of the first and second grades. She has a ripe experience of forty-eight months, mostly in graded school work, having taught in The Dalles, Moro, Grass Valley and Monkland. Miss Spink also is a graduate of The Dalles High school and holds a state diploma. She has already proven herself a useful teacher.

We congratulate Antelope on securing the present corps of teachers and we understand these estimable young ladies agree not to marry before next spring.

A BREEZY PERFORMANCE.

But Enjoyed by all Who Appreciate Vaudeville.

If any went to the Vogt last night expecting to hear anything but vaudeville, they were disappointed, for so it was advertised and so presented to one of the largest audiences we have seen in the Vogt for a long while. More enthusiasm was also displayed than Dalles audiences usually show.

When the curtain first rose one received the impression that the performance was to be what might be termed a "rip-snorter"—a jangled mess of tumbling, yelling, shrill-voiced girls and loud-mouthed men; but as it proceeded each feature began to take on merit, until many very clever, clean and withal pleasing specialties were given. Such as would banish the blues, make one forget all sorrow or annoyance and laugh until their sides ached. It is to be regretted that vaudeville is taking the place of good wholesome plays with a plot worth following; but such a show as last night's, where nothing objectionable is introduced, but everything is pleasing, is better than a dose of medicine and will surely prolong life and make us all happier.

Some especially clever dancing was introduced, and the cake walk as a finale was splendid. Each actor seems to be an artist in his line, whether Irish, Dutch, American or what not; while the girls, from the giddier ones to the old maid, were good, barring a shrillness of voice which was anything but pleasing in the first act, where the leading lady was most prominent. She is, however, a cute little actress.

The company must have done well in a financial way, judging from the audience which greeted them.
