YUKON VALLEY FARMING.

Several exchanges have recently had more or less learned articles about "Farming in the Yukon Valley." One of these takes for a text the report of the American consul at Dawson, who says the various kinds of hardy but common grains and vegetables can be raised there successfully. The Telegram says: This is, no doubt, true, but this fact is scarcely a sufficient inducement for any man with an Oregon farm, even one of the poorer variety, to exchange it for one in the Yukon valley. A few things can be raised up there, at least in some seasons, but the greater part of the year is a dark, cold, frozen winter; when life at best is misery. To paraphrase a celebrated line of "Locksley Hall," Better fifty years in Oregon than a cycle in the Yukon valley. Or better a little, half-improved Oregon farm than a thousand square miles up in that hyperborean region.

Boys should early be taught the heinousness of the offense of spitting, both from the basis of decency and danger to public health, says the Oregonian. It is much easier to prevent the formation of a habit of this kind in a boy than to correct it in a man, and herein lies the mother's part in the warfare against spitting. No extension of woman's rights is necessary to make mothers a power in this neglected realm. All that is required is a return to a duty once faithfully discharged—but in the rush of modern life greatly neglected—the vigilant maternal supervision of boys during the years in which their habits are formed. The boy who is taught that to spit on the hearth, the steps—anywhere about the house—is an infringement upon the rights of the family that will not be tolerated, is not likely, as a man, to infringe upon the rights of the public by spitting upon the sidewalks, on the floors or steps of public buildings, or in the cars.

The exports from the United States for the year ending September amounted to $1,200,000,000, and the major part of this vast foreign export trade has been carried in foreign ships, because this government has not given that encouragement to American shipbuilding and support to merchant marine which is a policy with foreign nations, says the Walla Walla Union. It has been calculated that more than $300,000,000 are paid annually by the American people to foreign ships for freights. For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1899, the United States spent the insignificant sum of $1,038,141 for the merchant marine service, while Spain, impoverished as she is, paid $1,629,927, nearly $600,000 more than the wealthiest nation in the world. It is bad economy for a great nation to pay annually hundreds of millions of dollars to foreign ship owners for carrying American freight, which money should be retained at home. It shows a narrowness that is incomprehensible and despicable to foreigners.

On the authority of Sir Thomas Lipton it is stated that the Shamrock cost him $500,000, without the expenses attending the manning of the vessel and other incidentals in this country. From this it will be seen that yachting contests are expensive sports.

A Night of Terror.

"Awful anxiety was felt for the widow of the brave General Burnham of Machias, Me., when the doctors said she could not live till morning," writes Mrs. S. H. Lincoln, who attended her that fearful night. After three small doses she slept easily all night, and its further use completely cured her." This marvelous medicine is guaranteed to cure all Throat, Chest and Lung Diseases. Only 50c and $1.00.
