VIGOROUS AMERICANISM.

Aguinaldo will read his fate when he gets his copies of the American papers of October 18th, or learns their contents, says the Statesman. One item in them will tell him that in a speech in Racine, Wis., the president declared that "all hostilities in the Philippines will cease when the persons who began them stop," and that they will not cease "until our flag, representing liberty, humanity and civilization, shall float triumphantly over every island of the Philippine archipelago, under the undisputed and acknowledged sovereignty of the public of the United States." Another piece of information in the same papers will tell Aguinaldo that the entire new army, authorized by act of congress to be raised has now been enlisted; that Gen. Otis will have 68,000 soldiers with him by the end of December, and that there will be no cessation in the war until every rebel in the army submits to United States authority.

Moreover, a naval force of forty-five vessels, by far the most powerful ever gathered in the Pacific ocean by any nation except Great Britain and Japan, will be assembled under Watson by the time that the campaign reopens. Nobody will misapprehend the meaning of this preparation. The rebellion is to be put down as early as possible, irrespective of the fate of Aguinaldo and his partners. There will be no weakening on the part of the government. Congress, when it assembles, will enact all the legislation required to enable the government to exert its sovereignty over every foot of territory belonging to the United States. There may be some copperhead howlings against the policy of the government in subverting Aguinaldo, but every patriotic person in the country will applaud the administration in taking steps to make a vigorous campaign against the enemies of the national authority.

President McKinley's remark at the iron foundries in Milwaukee that the "employer is now looking for the laborer and not the laborer for the employer," sums up the industrial situation tersely and truthfully. The Democratic conditions of 1893-7 have gone out and the Republican conditions have come in. It is the mill owners and the great employers in general who are doing the hustling in these days. Everybody who wants work can get it. Many workers have more than they can attend to. Contracts in the iron and steel industries have been canceled in many places in the past three or four months, according to reports, because of the lack of men to perform them. These are the conditions which are going to make the Republican party sweep the country in 1900.

Bryan's latest card against the administration is that it has played favorites in the matter of volunteer commissions, giving them to sons of those who have influence. The statement is of a piece with the rest of Bryan's demagoguery, says the S. F. Chronicle. The officers of the original volunteer regiments were appointed by governors of states, which accounted for high commissions to men like Bryan himself who did not know a stack of arms from a stack of hay. As soon as the administration organized the federal volunteers, now serving with the regulars, all such foolishness stopped and commissions went to men who deserve them. Now that the system of state appointment is done away with, a man like Bryan, even in sympathy with the administration, could not get a billet as second lieutenant.

A Night of Terror.

"Awful anxiety was felt for the widow of the brave General Burnham of Machias, Me., when the doctors said she could not live till morning," writes Mrs. S. H. Lincoln, who attended her that fearful night. "All thought she must soon die from Pneumonia, but she begged for Dr. King's New Discovery, saying it had more than once saved her life, and had cured her of Consumption. After three small doses she slept easily all night, and its further use completely cured her." This marvelous medicine is guaranteed to cure all Throat, Chest and Lung Diseases. Only 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free at Blakeley & Houghton's drug store.

Spain's Greatest Need.

Mr. R. P. Olivia, of Barcelona, Spain, spends his winters at Aiken, S. C. Weak nerves had caused severe pains in the back of his head. On using Electric Bitters, America's greatest Blood and Nerve Remedy, all pain soon left him. He says this grand medicine is what his country needs. All America knows that it cures liver and kidney trouble, purifies the blood, tones up the stomach, strengthens the nerves, puts vim, vigor and new life into every muscle, nerve and organ of the body. If weak, tired or ailing, you need it. Every bottle guaranteed, only 50 cents. Sold by Blakeley & Houghton, druggists.
