WARS AT LONG DISTANCE.

The fierce character of the war in the Transvaal, despite the assertions that it is conducted along lines adopted by nations calling themselves civilized, has over-shadowed operations in the Philippines, where there is daily fighting and against more tremendous odds than General White encounters at Ladysmith, says the Spokesman-Review. There are daily skirmishes in Luzon and every cable brings the news of Americans shot down, of Filipinos destroyed in the trenches. New regiments depart daily on transports for Manila, and there is still active recruiting going on in the United States to fill the skeletons of regiments formed in the Philippines. Temporarily the American people seem to forget that America still has a war of her own, which will require the expenditure of millions of dollars and the sacrifice of hundreds of Americans before the rebels are subdued. It is peculiar that the intense interest in Philippine matters should be swallowed up in the new sensations afforded by the operations of Commandant Joubert against armies composed of the next best fighters in the world. Press wires are no longer laden with bulletins and accounts of skirmishes and battles in Northern Luzon, yet these advances possess the same significance now that they did a twelvemonth ago. Perhaps the people are sated with news of bloody deeds and have appetite for none but accounts of terrible slaughter. They have lost eagerness for news from the front, perhaps for another reason—the return of their volunteers from danger and privation.

With the arrival of all regiments at Manila the United States will have in the Philippines an army nearly equal in point of numbers and fully equal in point of courage and fighting ability to the armies of General Sir Redvers Buller. The rivalry between news centers will then be more keen. It may be possible to record the capture of several thousand rebels in a bunch, or the capture of apparently impregnable entrenchments with a handful of men. Between the war in South Africa, the rebellion in the Philippines, revolutions in South and Central America and native uprisings in South Sea islands, China and Mexico, wars at long distance may soon become so popular that no well regulated nation can do without them.

If any of the European nations believe that story that the United States is seeking a "zone of influence" in China they know very little about the sentiment of the American people. The United States wants no territory on the mainland of Asia. It would accept none of it as a gift. We have some valuable islands in Asiatic waters, the Philippines, but we are not seeking any territory on the continent in that part of the world. All the country wants in China is the continuance of the "free-for-all" conditions which have prevailed hitherto. These we probably will have. But we have no desire for possession of any part of China.

The murder of a young man by college brutality is none the less atrocious because it happens in an educational institution. When this form of crime is properly punished the hazers will be quick to find some other form of amusement.

Shasta Overland, and will give many passengers the desired opportunity to see en route the Great Willamette, Umpqua and Sacramento Valleys without loss of time, and still arrive in Oakland and San Francisco at a reasonable hour.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from ten drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address, F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75c.

Chamberlain's Pain Balm Cures Others. Why Not You?
My wife has been using Chamberlain's Pain Balm, with good results, for a lame shoulder that has pained her continually for nine years. We have tried all kinds of medicines and doctors without receiving any benefit from any of them. One day we saw an advertisement of this medicine and thought of trying it, which we did with the best of satisfaction. She has used only one bottle and her shoulder is almost well.—ADOLPH L.
