that they have put on an extra coat of paint. The CHRONICLE never did believe in painting and prefers beauty unadorned. However, as their improvements add to the general appearance of the street, we have no kick coming.

This afternoon about 1:30, W. G. Davidson, a traveling optician, died at the Skibbe hotel. His home is near Seattle and he has been in this city for a month past, being ill most of the time and having received kindly care. He is a man of about 46 years, and leaves a family of seven children. Is a Scotchman by birth, and of the Presbyterian faith. His remains were taken to Mitchell's undertaking parlors, from which place the funeral will take place tomorrow afternoon at 2:30.

For three years and a half Bertie McCoy has been a victim of consumption, and last night at 10:15 o'clock death came to relieve him of his suffering. He was 19 years of age, and the son of Mrs. Wm. McCoy. His father died several years since at the hospital in Portland. He leaves, beside his mother, several brothers and sisters. The funeral, which will be conducted by Rev. G. Rushing, of the Christian church, will take place tomorrow at 10 o'clock from the family residence on Fulton street.

While boring for coal on Senfert Bros' ground, a half mile above the city, yesterday, the workmen struck an artesian well about 100 feet below the surface. The supply of water is good and it is thrown about twenty feet into the air. While it will be of some benefit to the work of boring, being situated as it is cannot be of any use to Senfert Bros. Those who are in great need of such a water supply might do well to try the experiment of boring for it before the drill is removed from our city.

The meeting of the Student's Literary Society tonight at the city hall at 7:30 o'clock will be of an especially interesting nature. Invitations have been sent to the members of the High School to be present and those of the general public, both ladies and gentlemen, who are interested in the subject to be discussed are invited to attend. The question for debate, is Resolved, "That the Acquisition of the Philippines Would be Beneficial to the United States," and many of our most prominent citizens will take part in the general discussion, which will no doubt be somewhat of a political nature. It will not only encourage the members to see a large attendance, but be of benefit to the audience.

We cannot refrain from frequently calling attention to the amount of drunkenness among the Indians, for so disgusting is it becoming that it is a disgrace to the city. Yesterday afternoon a specimen of humanity called Caleb Shorty, was found dead drunk lying near the Baldwin opera house on the beach. He was arrested and plead guilty, when he was fined $5, which he now swears out. This morning visitors to the Umatilla House might have had a splendid opportunity to obtain an Indian picture, without any objection on the part of the subject. An Indian woman was snoring away a drunken spree near a lot of wood piled up on the street leading to the ferry. It is disgusting to everyone that such a thing is allowed to go unmolested.

As is their wont, the Elks will make their memorial service this year, if possible, more impressive than ever before. Sunday, Dec. 5th is the date, and W. T. Dovell, a young attorney of Walla Walla, has been chosen to deliver the eulogy. From reports we have gleaned from those who are acquainted with the gentleman, and also judging from mention made at various times through his home papers, we are particularly fortunate in being permitted to listen to Mr. Dovell. He is an intimate friend of F. W. Wilson, of this city. The latter, we understand, has accepted an invitation to deliver the eulogy at Heppner, and if ever the people of that little city had a treat they will have it on that occasion, that is if an orator can succeed in making a second effort as meritorious as was Mr. Wilson's in The Dalles three years ago.

The Dalles will naturally receive some benefit from the presence of 200 working men so near her gates, and while most of the supplies will perhaps be furnished on the ground, yet there will be much that this city will be depended upon to supply. Between the supply point and the scene of activity is the Columbia, not very broad here to be sure, but sufficient to necessitate the expense of ferryage. We understand the round trip is 25 cents to a passenger on foot, and while this is very reasonable for the every day trade, would it not be a splendid idea for the city to so arrange it that these men can reach our city at even a less expense; making such a rate that the laborer receiving the smallest wages could make the trip each evening without feeling that he is out much. It certainly would be advantageous to the city in the long run. These 200 men will be here for six months, and some may be desirous of making this headquarters. Tickets could be furnished them at a reduced rate or in some way the trips be made cheaper.

About forty ladies were invited to meet Mrs. Roger Sinnott at the home of her sister-in-law, Mrs. J. S. Fish, yesterday afternoon, and it was the occasion of a most pleasant gathering from 2 until 5 o'clock. With a cozy fire burning in the parlor grate and chrysanthemums, roses and carnations, with potted plants arranged tastefully about the rooms, it was an attractive sight. The ladies at once discovered familiar advertisements pinned about the room and felt positive, having seen them so often in papers and magazine; that they would have no difficulty in placing the names of the wares they advertised on cards provided. It was a more difficult task, however, than imagined and required no little time to decipher. Mrs. Geisen-dorffer had evidently been more observant than the rest and won the head prize, while Mrs. Crossen, underestimating her ability to discern, gave up in despair and captured the "booby." The lunch was no less dainty than other details of the afternoon and was one of the most pleasant features, one table claiming the distinction of having three brides seated thereat. But brides were numerous, and Mrs. Sinnott being the latest arrival among them was heartily welcomed to our city, and she in turn proved that she will be a desirable acquisition to society circles in The Dalles.

Joke on a Baker Physician.

Since smallpox made its appearance in our city one of the leading blacksmiths of town was unfortunate enough to get kicked by a horse, while in the act of shoeing it. Upon investigation it was found that the skin had been broken, and blood appeared on the face and arm of the smithy. In his attempt to stop the blood and relieve the pain, the injured parts had received more or less coal dust so that it did not look altogether like a fresh wound. By this time a crowd had gathered around the young man, who was rather pale and sitting down. Just then the doctor came by, and being attracted by the crowd stopped to see what was the excitement. After looking at the "unfortunate" man a moment, he said, "young man, you have varioloid, (smallpox,) you had better get home." Then turning to Tom, his partner, said, "Take him away, take him away."—Republican.

Old Ocean on a Tear.

Advises from all along the Oregon coast tell of an unusually high sea last Wednesday morning. The Crescent City Record tells of the effect of the high tides there: "Wednesday morning the highest seas for several years, prevailed along this part of the coast. The waves ran mountain high, washing debris over the breakwater into the streets of Crescent City in many places. At the west end of Second street logs were piled high in the street by the force of the breakers. It was a grand sight to watch the waves break along the rock bound coast, throwing spray over the highest mainland points and rocks detached from the shore line. The most damage was done the bridge leading across Elk river in Elk valley. Logs were thrown onto the structure damaging it to such an extent as to make it impossible.

WAYSIDE GLEANINGS.

It is not necessary to remind members of the Columbia Dancing Club that tonight is the regular party night, for all are looking forward to the pleasure of dancing to the music of a full orchestra.

At Prof. Sandvig's dancing party tomorrow night, the Wentworth, Bon Ton and Prairie Queen will be among the list of dances, and all will have an opportunity to learn them. On next Wednesday evening the usual lessons will be postponed on account of the Firemen's ball.

We are told that a force of surveyors are at work in the vicinity of lower 15 Mile. There are suspicions as to what their mission is, but nothing has been verified so far. They might at least call on us and be a little more friendly; we might give them a few pointers.

Some of our bowlers have asked that the names of the defeated team in the three-cornered tournament Wednesday evening be published; but the victors seem to be reticent on the subject, and do not seem to care to gloat over their victory. F. L. Houghton will furnish any information desired.

The deer-hunting season always proves dear hunting in more ways than one. It has cost several lives in Oregon this year; or rather, the carelessness of companions is accountable for it. From the Adirondacks, however, comes the report that twenty-three persons have been accidentally killed this year.

The former parties given by Jackson Engine Company having taken place in the Vogt, without making inquiry we announced that the ball next week would be given there. We are, however, informed that the Baldwin has been chosen this year. This change will only add to the pleasure of dancing, as the floor is at present in splendid condition.

If any still are skeptical concerning the truth of the statement that work is to begin at once on the portage road, they should have watched the long line of teams, wagons and all the paraphernalia which was ferried across the river this morning preparatory to commencing work in earnest. It looked like business to those who watched the waiting line at the ferry.

The superintendent of the Marion county schools has decided to hold the next county institute at the same time as the western division of the Oregon state teachers' association on December 26th, 27th and 28th. So that 122 teachers, not considering those of Salem, will be in attendance. Many teachers from this county will attend, and from all indications it will be a most enjoyable meeting.

Yesterday afternoon Clinton Bradshaw narrowly escaped a very serious accident, which might have caused him the loss of eyesight in the right eye. While playing with the boys at school, one of them accidentally struck him in the eye. At first it was thought to be a serious injury, but it is much better today and the little fellow will be all right and ready for another play in a few days.

It takes a very little to make some people get the big head and look down upon their neighbors, and so our neighbors on the north end of "Smoky Row" are all puffed up over the fact
