FRUITS OF EXPANSION.

America begins to pluck the fruits of expansion sooner than the supporters hoped for, says the Spokesman-Review. In the maintenance of the "open door" in China it appears our diplomats are to play an important part. This position has been made possible only by occupation of the Philippines, absolute possession of Hawaii and Guam and ownership of islands in the West Indies. When other Caucasian powers first began to cast about for a foothold in China, the United States was left out of the reckoning. Russia gobbled Port Arthur and asked permission of no one; the French carved a slice apart from the Chinese turkey and forgot to say thanks; Germany dipped into the dressing of the bird without asking leave and prepared to go back for a second help. America was not invited to the feast.

Possession of the Philippines has caused a wonderful change in the reckoning. This country has assumed her position as one of the greatest first class nations, whose pleasure or displeasure helps to alter maps and influence commerce. Without the islands our zone of influence would be limited to matters on this continent.

The commercial reasons for retention of the Philippines therefore become stronger every hour. Since the battle of Manila bay the American capitalist has been active in the Orient. He has become an important factor in railroad building, in the construction of telegraph lines, and the agents of great supply houses have streamed into the sections where the bulk of our exports find ready admission. So strong has been the influence of American foothold in the Orient that no commercial treaty will be formed between Pekin and European capitals without the knowledge and cognizance of the Washington government.

The future may be read with ease. American flour, lumber, cotton, steel and silver, and a hundred other products will find their way across the Pacific and the Pacific coast will flourish as never before.

THE VICE-PRESIDENCY.

The elected vice presidents have been John Adams, Thomas Jefferson, Aaron Burr, George Clinton, Elbridge Gerry, Daniel E. Tompkins, John C. Calhoun, Martin Van Buren, Richard M. Thompson, John Tyler, George M. Dallas, Millard Fillmore, William R. King, John C. Breckinridge, Hannibal Hamlin, Andrew Johnson, Schuyler Colfax, Henry Wilson, William A. Wheeler, Chester A. Arthur, Thomas A. Hendricks, Levi P. Morton, Adlai Stevenson and Garret A. Hobart. Adams, Clinton, Tompkins and Calhoun served two terms each. Adams, Jefferson and Van Buren were subsequently elected to the presidency.

Tyler passed to the White house on the death of President Harrison, Fillmore on the death of President Taylor, Johnson on the death of President Lincoln, and Arthur on the death of President Garfield.

The death of Vice President Hobart places the secretary of state immediately in the line of presidential succession. That is to say, in event of the removal, death, resignation or inability of President McKinley, the secretary of state would become president of the United States. If there be no secretary of state, then the secretary of the treasury will act; and the remainder of the order of succession is as follows: secretary of war, attorney general, postmaster general, secretary of the navy, and secretary of the interior. The office of secretary of agriculture was created after the passage of the succession act.

Used By British Soldiers in Africa.

Capt. C. G. Dennison is well known all over Africa as commander of the forces that captured the famous rebel Galishe. Under date of Nov. 4, 1897, from Vryburg, Bechuanaland, he writes: "Before starting on the last campaign I bought a quantity of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, which I used myself when troubled with bowel complaint, and had given to my men, and in every case it proved most beneficial." For sale by Blakeley & Houghton, druggists.
