PEASE & MAYS

GLEE CLUB CONCERT.

The U. of O. Students at the Baldwin Last Night.

The interest which has been taken by Dalles people in the state university, particularly since so many from her own borders have been students of that institution, was greatly intensified last night, when sixteen of the students sang into their hearts the enthusiasm which they themselves feel.

The personnel of the glee club which we refer to is as follows: Prof. I. M. Glen, director; First tenor—A. H. Eaton, A. L. Frazer, K. C. Miller, E. S. Van Dyke. Second tenor—W. G. Beattie, J. A. Gamber, J. E. Tyree, H. Sweet. First bass—J. B. Winstanley, R. R. Robley, L. L. Goodrich, C. W. Jackson. Second bass—H. E. Denmore, A. E. Meserve, F. A. Strange, R. Norris.

The object of the annual holiday tours thus made by the students is mostly of a social nature; tending to bring the students in touch with the people of the state and through them to awaken a deeper interest in the educational work which the university is accomplishing. Last year a tour of the southern part of the state was made; while the boys are now visiting the towns in Eastern Oregon.

A large audience of representative Dalles people were present when the curtain rose last night and a fine-looking lot of young men appeared and sang as an opening chorus a selection "Oh Oregon," written by Prof. Strong and the music composed by Prof. Glen. Of course they were encored, as was also the case in the various selections given, most of them being veritable college songs.

In part second so greatly was the "Little Pewee" chorus and following encores appreciated that they were called back six times. A very pretty arrangement was that of "Massa's in the Col' Col' Ground," in which Prof. Glen sang the solo, with a chorus accompaniment imitating a banjo. While college songs are taking, after all the introduction of a number of such selections as this, which have what we might term a "soul" in them, would add much to their entertainment. In spite of the many encores given during the evening, each was kindly responded to, proving the staying quality of their voices.

Prof. I. M. Glen appeared in two solos and to the first encore he responded, declining the repeated demands in the latter case. His voice is of a rich baritone quality and the ease with which he sings is very pleasing to his listeners. His selections were difficult, but the singer was equal to the requirements.

Prominent among the members of the club is Mr. Allan Eaton, of La Grande, whose monologues gave that spice to the entertainment which is born of variety. His first selection was Riley's "Little Wesley's Absence," which was greatly in contrast with the latter, a travesty on the school boys' declamations, displaying great versatility.

Another member who is indispensable to the success of the club is Mr. Arthur L. Frazer, the pianist. As a listener was heard to remark, he can "claw ivory." His execution is remarkable, particularly in so young a pianist.

These two artists, Eaton and Frazer, appeared at the close in a travesty on "Ingomar," which was at once amusing and meritorious. The costumes were well gotten up and the entire production rendered admirably. Those who have heard "Ingomar" scarcely recognized beneath the play of words the real sentiment intended, and "Parthenia's" definition of love as an "itching of the heart that can't be scratched" was entirely new to them.

At the close of the concert the members of the High school alumni and a number of their friends received the members of the club in the parlors of Mrs. E. M. Wilson's home, which was very prettily decorated with evergreen and holly, and where an hour was spent in social greeting, which was most pleasant. A short program was given and refreshments served. It was gratifying to those who were present to meet these young men who are endeavoring to make the most of life, and they in turn expressed their appreciation of the greeting received.

A NEW BOAT.

The D. P. & A. N. Co. Will Build a New Propeller To Fly on the Columbia.

Again must we go away from home to obtain the news, that is with sufficient assurance to give them to our readers. While the reporter was given an idea yesterday that the D. P. & A. N. Co. was about to have a new boat built; at the same time we were cautioned: "Don't say anything about it until more definite arrangements are made," and so we obeyed; but evidently the same injunction was not given the Telegram, for last night's edition says: "Plans for the new boat to be built for The Dalles, Portland & Astoria Navigation Company have been changed, and she will be a propeller instead of a stern-wheeler. The boat will be built something like the Inland Flyer, but will be an improvement in every respect. The dimensions will be: Length, 130 feet; breadth, 19 feet; draft, 6 feet 6 inches. She will be 20 feet longer than the Flyer and one foot greater breadth.

"The additional length gives room for many improvements. Joseph Supple, who will build her, has a model which shows that she will have lines like a racing shell. The stern, instead of being cut off short, as in the case of the Inland Flyer, will extend out gracefully over the water. This will allow the use of a Case wheel; that is, the propeller, instead of being directly under the stern, will be far under the boat, as is the case in torpedo-boats, and will always be under water, no matter how the vessel rocks. The rudder will also be well under the stern; in the case of the Inland Flyer it was hung right at the stern.

"The engines of the Flyer will be used, but there will be additional boiler power. The boat will have two decks, an elegant dining-room and kitchen, and a promenade deck occupying the space below, and on the upper deck will be the ladies' cabin and the gentlemen's smoking-room. Half a dozen berths are also provided.

"A draft of the boat as she will appear when completed shows that she will be a beauty. It is the intention of the D. P. & A. N. Co. to spare no expense, and she will be made luxurious and elegant throughout. She will be built to catch the tourist trade, which increases year by year as the fame of Oregon's Columbia river scenery spreads abroad.

"Mr. Supple will put on about 15 men next week and the new boat will be begun immediately. She is to be completed to turn over to the owners by April. The contract was signed at The Dalles yesterday."

The Hood River Sun has the following notice which we suspect refers to a former Dalles girl. Under a "Married" head it says: "At Portland on Wednesday, Dec. 20th, Mr. J. H. Ferguson and Miss Anna Dehm. This item explains Jud's suspicious actions of late, and his visit to the big city last week. Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson arrived in Hood River Friday evening, and the Sun joins with their numerous friends in hearty congratulation and good wishes."

For some time past it would appear that the members of the Methodist church "loved darkness rather than light" so dim have been the lights in the church. The difficulty has been due to the arrangement of the jets. Today workmen are engaged in putting in new lights and rearranging them, so that they will be in readiness for Sunday night, when the choir, assisted by outside talent, will give a sacred concert from 8 to 9:15 o'clock, at the close of which all who desire may remain for a watch-night service, which the pastor intends to make most interesting.

Above all things we must be stylish. Why, we might as well be out of the world as out of the style. Therefore, it is stylish to reach an entertainment when we should be going home, by all means let us cause such concert, theater, or whatever it may be, to have the curtain rise at midnight. If the managers refuse to acquiesce, then must we enter late, walk pompously up the aisle during the most interesting part, tread on people's toes in reaching our seats and stir things up generally. Dalles people are nothing if not stylish and we will soon reach the zenith of our ambition in that line if we continue.

When will managers of opera houses and all public places of gathering understand that the atmosphere of the room is one of the most successful adjuncts of an entertainment? If the house is too cold, then will the audience freeze the performers. If it is too overheated they are liable to fall asleep. Let the janitors be chosen from men who understand these things and then will our audiences be more comfortable and the performers reap the benefit of the effect on the audience. However the frozen audience last night were somewhat thawed out by the lively work of the "rooters" who were warm numbers.

The nightwatchman struck an individual this morning about 4 o'clock who might truthfully be said to be a "warm number." He was crazy drunk and Phirman escorted him to the city jail. Finding himself in close quarters he evidently thought he had no further need of other clothes, and disrobing himself threw every stitch of his clothing into the fire. When the officers arrived this morning they were somewhat surprised to find a nude man occupying the jail, and determined he was insane. Later in the day, however, he became sober, and the question among those who frequent the recorder's office is which one of them has more than one suit and can clothe the prisoner.

Society circles have been deeply interested for some weeks in an event which takes place tonight, when Mrs. J. S. Fish and Mrs. R. B. Sinnott receive their friends at the parlors of the Umattilla House. Great preparations have been made and dancing will be the rule of the evening.

A letter received by Mrs. Wilson this morning from Chaplain Gilbert is somewhat disappointing to those who had hoped to hear this gentleman lecture soon in The Dalles, as his coming will now be delayed a week, or until the 15th of January, instead of the 8th. This change is made on account of the 8th being during the week of prayer.
