HOME INDUSTRIES FIRST.

Buy Your Stoves From Our Home Merchants.

The Times has always preached and practiced the doctrine of patronizing ( home industries in preference to foreign institutions. Therefore we feel obliged to express our regret that some of the good citizens of Morrow county are allowing themselves to be "bled" for many a hard earned dollar by sleek-tongued says, "I suffered a long time from dysstrangers who are here selling the pepsia; lost flesh and became very weak. "Home Comfort" range for just $13 more Kodol Dyspepsia Cure completely cured than exactly the same stove can be me." These are broad assertions, but absolute facts.

Originally there were three brothers n St. Louis mant facturing stoves, when they disagreed and dissolved. Two of them began manufacturing the "Home Comfort" range, selling it from the wagon, the other began manufacturing the "Majestic" and selling it to the dealers. Both are manufactured of exactly the same kind of material, but simply have different styles and names.

SHE BUILT A WHOLE TOWN.

Arcadia Owned and Managed by an Enterprising California Womas.

In California, near Cloverdale, is a village consisting of a station and a post office, which is combined with a telephone station and a general supply store. There are also a shop or two and a goodly number of cozy cottages. The name of the station is Preston, and this is its story:

Twenty-nine years ago H. L. Preston and his wife left West Virginia and settled where the village now stands. Mr. Preston bought a small section of land, and gradually added to it by buying adjacent property. The land was cleared and planted, water piped for household use and irrigation, and the homestead grew to be a prosperous looking one. Mr. Preston died seven years ago, leaving his wife alone, with the exception of a son by a former mate buying adjacent property. The land the exception of a son by a former marriage.
