WAYSIDE GLEANINGS.

Business meeting of the Epworth League will be held tonight at the Methodist church.

January Designers now on sale at Pease & Mays'.

Maier & Benton will close their store on January and February at 7 p. m. Don't forget Pease & Mays' remnant sale on dry goods, commencing Monday, January 8th.

There will be an adjourned regular meeting of the council tonight at 7:30 p. m. in the council chambers.

Merritt Campbell, who was yesterday charged insane, was taken to the asylum at Salem today by Deputy Sheriff Smith.

Letter received by Mr. Pease this morning concerning the condition of MacAdam, was reassuring, and to the effect that he was steadily improving.

Remember that commencing Monday the Regulator will make tri-weekly trips leaving The Dalles Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays and arriving at Astoria, Thursdays and Saturdays.

The new lights which have been installed in the Methodist church add to the enjoyment of the evening service, and the pastor requests all to make an extra effort to be present at service as well as in the morning.

Attention of the members of the library is called to tonight's meeting, when the election of officers will take place. Any person who has been a member for six months prior to meeting is entitled to vote. A large attendance is desired.

A terrible tragedy which occurred at Grineville may bear evidence of the fact that Indians are becoming as "civilized" as some of their white brothers; more forcibly emphasizes the fact that the white man who sold him liquor should have been one of his; also that the state of Oregon is responsible for the crime, since it refuses to prosecute those who thus defy the law.

Enough stuff has come into this office to back "About the Itch and Sitch," the paper. We have no space for it. In three lines, last week we said that need to be said about it; the laws (of health included); get your premises and strictly attend to your own affairs." There is no cholera in Moro—hasn't been any.

The measles last winter was ten times worse than this itch—but "run into no kind of danger" is good advice at times.—Observer.

Heppner is certain to be notorious, if not famous. This week, we understand, the editor of the Times, of that place, was arrested for using language not becoming an editor, whose vocabulary is supposed to be stereotyped, the object of his wrath being a tailor. Judge Williams thought that any printer who would try to compete with a tailor in a word war ought to pay $10 for it. Forewarned is forearmed, and brother editors are cautioned to put it down in cold type and let her go; but never "mouth it," no matter how justifiable your grievance.

Yesterday afternoon from 5 to 8 Mrs. H. F. Ziegler entertained a number of the young friends of Carrie Ziegler, who left today for her home at Seattle. The hours were passed at games, with refreshments served later. In a contest of guessing the number of beans in a jar Zeno Riddell was most successful, Alberta Shepherd winning the booby prize. Those present were: Alberta Shepherd, Bessie Riddell, John Nickelsen, Lallah Guthrie, Hazel Wadd, Hazel Rice, Esther Beck, Helen Hobson, Maud Golden, Carrie Ziegler, Roy Campbell, Arthur Wand, Zeno Riddell, Martin Nickelsen, Rex Campbell and Lawrence Balster.

Yesterday The Dalles actually waked up to the fact that small-pox was in the country and began to look about for a case or two. A man by the name of Bonner, who was visiting at the residence of C. W. Barzee was the suspect. When the marshal, physician, a councilman and a few others had investigated it proved that the fellow had been down to visit his sister at Vancouver, where there is no sign of the disease; but the children had chickenpox and he was sick there with a slight attack, but had fully recovered never having had to stay in the house a day since he came back. Some one had reported to Councilman Stephens that the man had had something of the kind and he at once looked the matter up, which was a commendable move, and shows that our councilmen are made of the right material. While the country about us has such a disease in its midst, too much precaution cannot be used.

R. B. Wilson evidently realizes that Dalles people have an artistic taste and has chosen that channel by which to call their attention to the road which he claims is not excelled by any other, except it might be the "straight and narrow" road, and we actually believe he thinks the latter parallels his line. He has hung in a very conspicuous place on one of the windows at the Umatilla House, a beautiful painting on glass of a large engine pulling a number of cars over the C. B. & Q. line, and running at the rate of eighty miles an hour. It was enlarged from a 4x5 kodak picture taken by a Mr. Lovett, of Council Bluffs, Iowa. Twenty photographers (professionals and amateurs) had endeavored to "snap" the train, but failed, and it remained for Mr. Lovett to secure it. The colorings are beautiful and it would make a pretty ornament for any parlor. If this, enhanced by R. B.'s persuasive arguments, does not increase the interest which Dalles people already take in that popular road, then will all else fail.

Flag Presentation.

It is the intention of THE CHRONICLE to give the news at as early an hour as possible, and to endeavor to overlook nothing which is of interest to its readers. Reporters, however, are far from infallible, and, as Cradlebaugh would say, not having been born triplets, it is impossible to be in more than one place at a time. We, therefore, neglected to report a very impressive service which took place at the Congregational church last Sunday, and although a week has passed we feel it to be such an important event in the history of that congregation, that a mention of it is not out of place even at this late hour. We refer to the presentation of the flag to the church.

Through the efforts of Mrs. W. S. Myers, a beautiful flag was procured and Sunday evening appointed as the occasion for the presentation ceremony, F. W. Wilson being chosen to make the presentation speech. In a short, but very appropriate manner, that young gentleman delivered into Mr. B. S. Huntington's hands, who represented the trustees, the "Stars and Stripes," among other things saying that it is fitting that we bring to our church, where we have all that is uplifting and good, the emblem of our liberty, the Stars and Stripes. Mr. Huntington's remarks of acceptance were very appropriate, giving as a reason why the Congregational church should peculiarly value our flag the fact that Congregationalism, which was called independence in the old country, did not flourish even under so mild a monarchical government as New England. They went to Holland; but ultimately landed on the bleak New England coast, where under the "Stars and Stripes" they achieved their fullest development.

The service was beautiful and impressive and the flag greatly honored and appreciated by the entire membership.

The Modern Mother

Has found that her little ones are improved more by the pleasant Syrup of Figs, when in need of the laxative effect of a gentle remedy, than by any other. Children enjoy it and it benefits them. The true remedy, Syrup of Figs, is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only.

SIXTEEN TO ONE NOT IN IT

So It was Decided Last Night By the Literary Society.

Billy Bryan may as well crawl off and die, for if he had a ghost of a show previously, it fled like the rest of the chaff last night under the strong arguments presented at the Students' Literary Club, when the question was forever settled. The decision had been not to touch on anything of a political nature, and of course it was strictly adhered to; not merely touching, but resting there before they got through. It really looked as if it might be a genuine case of 16 against 1 when the matter was summed up and it was found that one side largely outnumbered the other, but one speaker declined and then it was more evenly divided, although from the nature of the debate one could have withstood any number.

The city hall was well filled to listen to the speakers who had chosen as their subject "Resolved, That the free coinage of both gold and silver at the ratio of 16 to 1 would better promote the prosperity of the people of the United States than would the single gold standard." Upon the decision of the following judges rested the fate of the subject of such national import—J. M. Huntington, J. D. Whitten, of Kingsley, and James Fisher. On the affirmative side were Dr. G. Sanders as leader, Fred Flood, Rev. O. D. Taylor and Mr. Starr. On the negative, H. Gourlay leader; Mr. Stark and Harry Currie.

It was most apparent from the energy displayed by the affirmative side that upon the evening's decision rested the fate of the nation, while the negative, feeling that the question had already been settled, took the matter in a more calm but convincing manner. Sanders fairly clawed the air, but finding that it was harder to manage than pulling a tooth, took refuge in the "crime of '73," while one of his colleagues produced a Flood of oratory, another fairly preached it into his audience that "we fought against it in '73," but a few moments before having said they did not discover the crime until five years later; and lastly a Starr speaker arose, which should have persuaded the judges that the heavens declared for free silver.

On the other side the leader Hughed it to the point and at once presented an argument which could not be met, nor was it refuted by his opponents, who saw they were at a disadvantage. The next speaker drove them Stark mad when they endeavored to answer him, and Currie, although but a young student of the subject, displayed an insight into it which was creditable.

Those who were present say it was not only intensely interesting, but also amusing to see the zeal displayed.

It goes without saying that the judges decided in favor of the negative, and free coinage of silver isn't in it.
