BOERS HELD THEIR OWN

Gen. Warren at an Early Hour Commenced a Flanking Movement.

SHRAPNEL POURED AMONG BOERS

Batteries of the British Worked Continuously—Boers Had Few Cannon and Devoted Their Attention to Musketry Firing—Captain Honley, of the Dublin Fusiliers, Fell Mortally Wounded.

SPEARMAN'S CAMP, Jan. 22, 9:30 a. m.—Early on Sunday morning General Warren commenced a flanking movement on the extreme left of the Boer position. The infantry advanced at 5 o'clock in the morning along the irregular sides of Tabanyama mountain, which ends at Spionkop. The artillery positions were behind and on the plain. The British carefully worked along the hills until within 1000 yards of a commanding kopje, on which the Boers were concentrated, concealed behind immense boulders strewn thickly over the hill. The artillery opened the attack and the batteries worked continuously, pouring tons of shrapnel among the Boers, who devoted their attention to musketry firing on the British infantry. The Boers stuck to their rocky fastnesses with greatest tenacity and at the conclusion of the day the British had only advanced across a few ridges. The Boers apparently have few guns, and they did little damage. Captain Honley, of the Dublin fusiliers, fell mortally wounded while leading his men to seize a fresh point of vantage. Result Not Known. LONDON, Jan. 22.—2:30 p. m.—Nothing has been received thus far today to indicate that any conclusive result has been reached by the British forces in the region of the upper Tugela, and the lack of information regarding the number of men and the munitions the Boers have in reserve prevents accurate determination of the measure of real success attending the two days' hard fighting. All that can be said is that the British seem to be doggedly advancing in the face of equally stubborn resistance. At the close of yesterday's fighting, the Republicans had merely evacuated their first line of defense to take up another semi-circular position a short distance in the rear, recalling the old burgher ruse by which the Boers had previously managed to entice the British into fatal traps. Dispatches from elsewhere in South Africa this morning give trivial details of minor happenings, and do not illuminate the situation.

Checks Without Funds. ASHLAND, Jan. 21.—H. C. Collins, the dapper young bartender formerly employed in the Hotel Oregon, in this city, who is badly wanted for kiting checks and drawing drafts on imaginary deposits in the Bank of Ashland, which he found parties in Medford, Grant's Pass and Hornbrook, Cal., to readily cash, has again been heard from, at Marshfield, Coos county, where it is said he has been operating his game. On the 15th inst., he is said to have drawn a draft for $50 on the Bank of Ashland in favor of John Curran, which was cashed by that gentleman and was on Saturday returned, protested, to him. Collins is said to be an old hand at this game, having done the same kind of work in Minnesota, where he went by the name of Coddler. It is supposed he has left Coos county for California. "One Minute Cough Cure is the best remedy I ever used for coughs and colds. It is unequalled for whooping cough. Children all like it," writes H. N. Williams, Gentryville, Ind. Never fails. It is the only harmless remedy that gives immediate results. Cures coughs, colds, hoarseness, croup, pneumonia, bronchitis and all throat and lung troubles. Its early use prevents consumption. Wall of Gold Ore. BAKER CITY, Jan. 21.—What is in some respects the most phenomenal gold find in Eastern Oregon is reported by

Cleaver Brothers, of Baker City. The discovery is 7½ miles south of Prairie City, in Grant county. The width of the ledge is 600 feet, and the walls are broken away for a distance of more than 3000 feet, leaving the ore exposed 150 to 200 feet in the air. It is said that nowhere in the world has such a body of ore been found, standing, as this does, where no tunneling is necessary. The value of the ore runs from $3 to $63 per ton in gold, and it is free milling. Thousands upon thousands of tons of ore, unincumbered by mountains of dirt and valueless rock, stand uncovered. "What Hath God Wrought." NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Mrs. Annie Ellsworth Smith, widow of Rowell Smith, founder of the Century Company, died at her home here today, aged 73 years. It was Mrs. Smith who, in 1844, when she was a girl of seventeen, sent the famous first telegraphic message, "What hath God wrought?" from the United States supreme court room, Washington, to Baltimore. Her father, Henry L. Ellsworth, a son of Chief Justice Oliver Ellsworth, was the first commissioner of patents, and has been called "the father of the patent office." He had been a college friend of Professor S. F. B. Morse. Together they had endeavored to induce congress to pass a bill granting $30,000 for the construction of a trial line between Washington and Baltimore. Morse had been seeking the help of congress since 1838, but it was not until the last five minutes of the session of 1843-44 that the bill was passed. It was Annie Ellsworth who carried the news of the passage of the bill to Professor Morse the next morning, and he assured her that she should send the first message. CANAL BILL WILL PASS

Excellent Prospect That the Measure Will Go Through Without Waiting for Report of Walker Commission. NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—According to the Herald's Washington correspondent the Hepburn-Morgan Nicaragua canal bill will be passed during the present session of congress. Speaker Henderson is in favor of the bill and of prompt action. Senator Frye, president pro tem of the senate, wants action by the senate, and expresses the belief that the bill will be passed at an early date. The measure will receive the approval of the president. There is an overwhelming majority in both houses of congress in favor of the pending bill and in favor of passing it without waiting for the report of the Walker commission. Many men in the house classed as noncommittal are strongly inclined to favor the Hepburn bill, but are unwilling to commit themselves before they have seen the report of the committee. Some of those who are opposed to action at this time will, when confronted with the necessity of getting on record, vote for the bill. It is said that at least four-fifths of both houses will vote for the measure. Senators who express no decided preference, one way or the other, are largely administration men, who will be influenced in their votes by the desire of the president and the administration leaders. The knowledge that President McKinley is anxious to see the canal bill passed by this congress will, it is believed, insure the votes of these senators for the measure.

Ashland Woolen Mill Destroyed. ASHLAND, Or., Jan. 21.—The Ashland woolen mill, one of the oldest industrial establishments in the state, owned and operated by Messrs. E. K. & G. N. Anderson, representing an invested capital of over $65,000, and regularly employing thirty to thirty-five hands, was destroyed by fire, which is supposed to have originated in the weaving room this morning at 2:10 o'clock. Machinery to the value of $5000 has recently been added to the plant, and the concern was in the most prosperous condition. About $6000 worth of blankets and blanketing in process of manufacture was also burned. The insurance on the building and its contents amounted to $13,500. Your Face Shows the state of your feelings and the state of your health as well.
