

The Great Clothing Sale Is On.

The marvelous offerings during the past two weeks have been so liberally responded to by our many patrons that we have been inspired to still greater efforts for the balance of the month.

- Men's all wool suits $3.85
- Men's all wool suits 4.85
- Men's all wool cheviot suits 6.85
- Men's fancy worsted and serge suits 7.85
- Men's all wool blue serge and cheviot suits, single and double breasted 9.85

It will be well for you to remember that this is a January Clearance Sale and cannot last much longer.

Hats. Hats.

The latest styles and latest shapes at clearance sale prices.

All Goods Marked in Plain Figures.

A Timely Warning.

There are eight more days in this month in which we will do business at

Cut Rates

Those of you who have not taken advantage of this golden opportunity must not regret it when it is too late, for we have warned you repeatedly that we have been offering goods

than the market really justifies. There is no reason to believe that all fabrics will not be higher in future, for prices have advanced all along the line, and for people to presume that they can always buy goods at the present low prices is utter folly. We will not quote you prices on special lines this issue, but bear in mind that there is a liberal reduction throughout the

WAYSIDE GLEANINGS.

The ladies of the Episcopal Guild will meet with Mrs. A. A. Jayne tomorrow afternoon.

There will be no band concert at the club tonight. The members will meet for regular rehearsal at the Vogt.

The Ladies' Aid Society, of the Congregational church will meet with Mrs. C. B. Cushing tomorrow afternoon.

Most everyone has read Lorna Doone, and will learn with regret of the death of its author, Richard Blackmore, who passed away at Teddington Sunday last.

The Kliekats seem to have just discovered that its winter and put on their white hoods. Once before they threw a thin fascinator over their heads, but it slipped off.

Saturday night of this week the A. F. C. bowling team of Astoria will be in The Dalles and bowl a contest game with the club. Having next to the highest record in the present tournament, they will no doubt come with their war paint on ready for business.

Letters received from Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Crowe, who are spending the winter at the Arkansas hot springs, are enthusiastic in their praise of the springs and the accommodations found there. Mr. Crowe is improving in health, and says he is "training" with Shockey, who has been one of the guests at the hotel where Mr. and Mrs. Crowe are stopping.

A letter from relatives at Wamic received this morning, informs Mr. and Mrs. T. Driver, that although their daughter had been much sicker than they surmised, she is improving rapidly. Three other cases are reported—Selth Miller and one in the Knighton and Remington families. All cases and those who have been exposed have been quarantined.

Portland has been visited by two terrible fires today. This morning the iron works of the celebrated firm of Wolf & Zwickler caught fire and although not completely destroyed, much damage was done. This afternoon the Standard Oil Company's works, below the city, are burning and from a report which came as we go to press, will no doubt be a complete loss.

Word reached here this morning that the body of a woman and a babe had been found in a spring six miles this side of Condon three days ago. A telephone message from Arlington this afternoon developed no facts other than that it was supposed to be a case of murder and suicide. An officer had been sent to investigate the case, and more definite news will be given later.

Our old friend the Chinook is a blow-hard, and gave us such a breeze last night about 11 o'clock that many were congratulating themselves that at that rate our streets would be dried up. But Jupiter Pluvius disputed his away and reigned supreme, making the streets, if anything, worse this morning. Contentment is said to be the road to happiness, and the best way for Dalles people to do is to travel that highway, leaving the mud beneath them.

J. H. Baker, father of C. F. Baker, who was arrested here Sunday night by the sheriff of Umatilla county, as the man who was wanted there for forgery, informed us that it was a case of mistaken identity that the man wanted was C. E. Baker, and his son returned yesterday afternoon. Baker tallied exactly with the description sent to the sheriff here, and his past record caused the mistake, if mistake it was. Mr. Baker says the man upon whom the check was passed exonerated his son.

About a week ago, Mr. C. M. Smith, who so delighted Dalles people with his wonderful bass voice upon different occasions, left the city for San Francisco, and in a letter to a friend informs him that he has decided to locate there, and has already accepted a position in one of the largest churches. While we are more than sorry to part with such a musician, at the same time we realize a place the size of The Dalles cannot afford the opportunity such a voice merits. In Colorado he was known as "the little man with the big bass voice," and he was well named, for none would believe a person of so small stature could possess such a phenomenal voice. His friends here wish him all manner of success in his new home.

As usual in The Dalles, the greater portion of the first act of last night's play was completely spoiled by the continued arrival of the audience. It generally takes a little time to become accustomed to the voices and the surroundings, but last night those who were there at a reasonable time were exasperated beyond measure as they endeavored to catch but a few scattered words of the conversations which generally form the nucleus of the play. Now that the stores close at an early hour, there is little excuse for tardiness in arriving at entertainments. However, many may have been uncertain as to the hour when the curtain would rise. In the future THE CHRONICLE will endeavor to publish the hour when the play commences, and it is to be hoped our people will soon begin to consult the pleasure of others as well as themselves, and be more prompt.

Referring to the case of Winnie Thorn, which has caused such wide-spread horror and indignation throughout the state, after censuring the brutes who perpetrated the dastardly crime, the Cottage Grove Nugget warns girls of other towns and aptly says: "The young girls of the various towns can profit by the experience of Winnie Thorn, of Latham. These men may be the angels they have tried to impersonate, and no matter how the court may deal with them, conclusive evidence has been obtained that some railroad men may be the perpetrators of dastardly crimes, as well as other people; but when a girl takes it upon herself to frequent the depot grounds for the sole purpose of flirting with the employees of the road she not only lessens her stand in the community in which she lives, but she has started on the trail that may almost any time lead her into the vicious hands of men not unlike the brutes who brought disgrace and shame upon the heads of father and mother, shocked a good community, "set a blister" upon the fair name of the victim, and knocked the rust off the hinges of the penitentiary. Girls cannot afford to run these risks."

Sidney Hawson Suicides in Portland.

The Hawson divorce case, which has been brought so prominently and offensively before the people for some time past, has ended as many such cases do—tragically. Last night Hon. W. R. Ellis, who passed through the city on his way to Heppner, brought the news of the suicide of Sidney Hawson by shooting himself yesterday afternoon about 3 o'clock in the hotel at Portland.

Sidney Hawson is well known in Gilliam county, and for that part throughout Eastern Oregon, having been a member of the legislature some years since. Of late years he has been manager of the Moody warehouse at Arlington, having lived there since 1891. Nine years ago he was married, and for the past five years there has been continual domestic trouble, his wife charging him with excessive drinking and ill treatment of her and asking for the custody of two children. He in turn accused her of infidelity. For some months the Arlington Advocate has been airing the family troubles, and since the divorce case came up in Portland last Thursday, the Oregonian has given it prominence.

Full particulars as to the suicide have not been obtained, but no doubt the unfortunate man grew despondent over the state of affairs, or may have taken to excessive drinking which caused the terrible deed.

HUNG HIMSELF.

Samuel Nealy Succeeds in Freeing Himself From Suffering.

When F. H. Wakefield reached his home on Tenth street last evening about 4:45 o'clock, he was met by his daughter with the startling news that her uncle had hung himself in the barn loft. Hurrying to the barn he found the lifeless body of Samuel W. Nealy, his brother-in-law, hanging from the rafters. Quickly cutting the rope he endeavored to find whether there was any life in the body, but in vain for the deed must have been committed about 4 o'clock.

Mr. Nealy, who was an unmarried man of 78 years, had been a great sufferer for twenty-five years, and, hoping to benefit his health, four years ago Mr. Wakefield brought him here from Monmouth. He improved, but for some time has suffered terribly with rheumatism. A short time since he resorted to a mustard plaster for relief and directly after began rubbing his back with Wizard Oil. This combination blistered his back and side dreadfully and added to the pain drove him almost distracted. A physician was summoned, but he improved but slightly, and growing melancholy often wished he were dead. Everything was done to help and encourage him, but seemed fruitless. A few days ago he took his gun to the barn, and fearing something was wrong, they watched him and finally discovered him just in the act of killing himself. He was afterward watched closely, but yesterday afternoon succeeded in his desire to be rid of his suffering.

He leaves, beside Mrs. Wakefield, a sister, Mrs. Jane Wolverton, of Monmouth. Mr. and Mrs. Wakefield will leave for that place tomorrow, taking his body there for burial.

The coroner's inquest, held this morning, found the following verdict:

In the matter of the inquest held over the body of Samuel W. Nealy: We, the undersigned, jurors empaneled by W. H. Butts, coroner of Wasco county, Oregon, to inquire into the cause of the death of the body now before us, after hearing the testimony and evidence produced herein find the facts and come to the conclusion following, that is to say:

That the name of the deceased is Samuel W. Nealy, whose age was 78 years, and whose residence was The Dalles, Oregon, that he came to his death in The Dalles, Or., about the hour of four o'clock and thirty minutes, p. m., on the 22d day of January, A. D., 1900.

That at the aforesaid time and place, the said Samuel W. Nealy, while terribly suffering from rheumatic pains on his body, and being greatly depressed in his mind thereby, came to his death by his own hand, and purposely by strangulation by hanging himself by the neck with a rope until death relieved him from his sufferings:

The Knights Enjoy Themselves.

The Knights probably didn't sing it to their wives before they left home last night, but nevertheless they didn't "go home till morning." But then, this is not a common occurrence with the Knights of Pythias and they were no doubt forgiven, as the extra occasion demanded it. The aforesaid occasion was the visit of their grand officers—Grand Chancellor J. P. Kennedy, of Portland; Grand Vice Chancellor W. L. Bradshaw, and Grand K. of R. and S. L. R. Stinson, of Salem. J. H. McKibben, editor of the Senator, was also present. Beside these there were a host of visiting brothers, some from Heppner lodge, five from Pythagoras lodge of Cascades, and Wacoma lodge, of Hood River, delegation consisted of Messrs. C. Stranahan, W. E. Sherrill, C. P. Ross, Wm. Graham, G. S. Evans, F. H. Isenberg, Bert Stranahan, M. H. Nickelsen, J. R. Nickelsen, Geo. Coleman, C. E. Markham, F. H. Stanton and Geo. Prather.

Work in the ranks of Knight and Esquire occupied the time, there being two candidates. This is considered a good night's work, as that of either degree consumes much time.

All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy, so at the close of the work the guests were entertained with a smoker, a nice lunch being spread and the best of good cheer prevailing. One after another joined in the jest and story telling, while, we are told, Michell sang "Annie Laurie" to the amazement of the crowd; Chas. Phillips also insisted on singing "Annie Laurie." There was no discount, however, when Rev. D. V. Poling favored them with a solo, which was greatly enjoyed.

The visitors seemed highly pleased with the evening's session, while Friendship lodge felt highly honored by their presence.

Nasal Catarrh quickly yields to treatment by Ely's Cream Balm, which is agreeably aromatic. It is received through the nostrils, cleanses and heals the whole surface over which it diffuses itself.
