"A Cheerful Liar."

This now popular comedy was first presented to the public in New York city two seasons ago by that well known comedian, John Dillon, where it enjoyed a successful run of nearly 250 nights. Unlike the majority of plays of this kind, "A Cheerful Liar" possesses an excellent plot, interspersed with a variety of funny situations, specialties and laughable complications.

The story in brief concerns one Hastings Hussell, who, with a General Bertie Boomer, fought side by side in the army of the Confederacy. After the declaration of peace they separated and went North where Boomer became a wealthy Chicago real estate dealer, and Hussell, less lucky, became a country justice of the peace in a little town in Indiana, where, with his "boy" constable, Guy McGuffin, he managed to scrape out a living by frequent indulgences in cheerful lying.

Boomer, a widower when the play opens, had a daughter, Flora, who elopes with Randolph Dearborn, the young people being followed on the next train by the irate father. Flora and her lover go to Hussell to be married, but find that a license is necessary in Indiana. While they are gone to procure one, Boomer arrives and the old friends again recognize each other. When Randolph returns Hussell offers, for a consideration, to pacify Boomer and obtain his consent, trusting to his shrewdness and lying abilities to work his point, but in this he is defeated. Later on Boomer determines that Flora must be married at once and offers her to Hussell. The Judge jumps at the chance and goes to Boomer's summer villa to pay his court. Flora, to thwart him, disguises herself in her Cousin Tom's clothes and tells her ancient admirer that Flora has gone to town. Meanwhile Hussell learns that Randolph has arrived for a stolen interview, and noticing the striking likeness of the supposed Tom to Flora, proposes that Tom shall masquerade as his cousin and take a rise out of the rival. Flora is only too willing, and putting on her own clothes, receives her lover. The climax is reached when Hussell, to carry the joke on Randolph to its limit, marries the supposed Tom to him. Of course, when the General returns, it is found that the marriage is legal, and so the two old fellows make the best of a bad job.

A SURE CURE FOR COUGHS.

Twenty-five Years' Constant Use Without a Failure.

The first indication of cough is hoarseness, and in a child subject to that disease it may be taken as a sure sign of the approach of an attack. Following this hoarseness is a peculiar rough cough. If Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is given as soon as the child becomes hoarse, or even after the croupy cough appears, it will prevent the attack. It is used in many thousands of homes in this broad land and never disappoints the anxious mothers. We have yet to learn of a single instance in which it has not proved effectual. No other preparation can show such a record—twenty-five years' constant use without a failure. For sale by Blakeley & Houghton.

F. B. Thirkfield, health inspector of Chicago, says, "Kodol Dyspepsia Cure cannot be recommended too highly. It cured me of severe dyspepsia." It digests what you eat and cures indigestion and heartburn, and all forms of dyspepsia.

Horses for Sale.

Thirty head of good horses, weight from 1100 to 1400 lbs. To be seen at Jacob McReynold's place, 15 miles east from The Dalles. For further particulars address, STRAUBE BROS., The Dalles, Or.

All persons wishing to take children, either boys or girls, for legal adoption or on indenture, should write to W. T. Gardner, superintendent of the Boys' and Girls' Aid Society of Oregon, at Portland, who can procure for them desirable children of all ages. All applications must be filed in advance.

Lewis Dennis, Salem, Ind., says, "Kodol Dyspepsia Cure did me more good than anything I ever took." It digests what you eat and can not help but cure dyspepsia and stomach trouble.
